Dist. 59 Voters Drop Referendum By 2 To 1 Margin

By a two to one margin, voters in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Saturday turned down two proposals to increase the district's tax rate by 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The proposal which would have increased the education fund tax rate by 21 cents per $100, out of which teachers are paid and instructional programs funded, was defeated by a vote of 2,823 to 1,456.

A six cent increase for the building fund, which pays for custodial salaries and building maintenance, was defeated by 2,944 to 1,333.

Only the precinct voting at Ridge School in Elk Grove Village voted in favor of the two measures.

If passed the two proposals would have replaced the money the district stands to lose if a Circuit Court decision outlawing corporate personal property tax is upheld, district officials had said.

If the decision is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court or if it is still undecided through the summer, the district must now cut about $754,000 from the 1971-72 education and building fund budgets, according to the district figures.

The margin of defeat for the two proposals was greater than the margin when the district lost a tax rate referendum in 1969. That year the proposal to increase the education fund passed except for a two to one defeat at High Ridge Knolls School in Des Plaines.

Precinct by precinct totals are:

Pct. 1, Clearmont School, education fund defeated by 261 to 222; building fund defeated by 279 to 203.

Pct. 2, Rupley School, education fund defeated by 291 to 139; building fund defeated 312 to 118.

Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls School, education fund defeated 510 to 130; building fund defeated by 524 to 117.

Pct. 4, Ridge School, education fund passed 208 to 154; building fund passed 184 to 177.

Pct. 5, Devonshire School, education fund defeated 214 to 59; building fund defeated 217 to 59.

Pct. 6, Forest View School, education fund defeated 381 to 103; building fund defeated 385 to 101.

Pct. 7, Juliette Low School, education fund defeated 304 to 117; building fund defeated 107 to 312.

Pct. 8, Salt Creek School, education fund defeated 324 to 320; building fund defeated 345 to 300.

Pct. 9, Robert Frost School, education fund defeated by 149 to 101; building fund defeated by 155 to 95.

Pct. 10, Albert Einstein School, education fund defeated 235 to 55; building fund defeated 238 to 52.

Gilbert Resigns Post As Park Dist. Commissioner

Daniel Gilbert is the second public official in less than three weeks to resign unexpectedly.

Gilbert resigned from the Elk Grove Park District Board of Commissioners last week. In a brief letter to the board, giving the reason for his resignation, Gilbert said "in light of the fact I no longer am effectively performing the duties of commissioner."

Only a few weeks earlier, village president Jack Pahl unexpectedly announced his resignation, citing business and personal reasons.

Gilbert, reached at his home Friday night, declined to elaborate on his reasons for resigning, other than to say "I need more time to play golf."

Edward Hauser, park board president, said he did not know what prompted Gilbert to resign. He recalled that Gilbert "worked quite hard to get elected" two years ago.

Gilbert had just completed his second year of a six-year term. He originally was appointed to the board to fill a vacancy in April, 1967 and was elected to a full term in 1969.

Hauser, who received Gilbert's resignation the same day of the park board meeting Thursday, asked the board not to accept the resignation until he had a chance to talk to him "and maybe talk him out of it."

The board, without anyone saying anything, apparently consented.

Gilbert's letter had asked that the resignation be effective immediately.

Gilbert, of 12 John F. Kennedy Blvd., had been the board secretary. Previously he served as vice president and was presumably a candidate for the board presidency following the April election.

However, David von Schaumburg, the outgoing board president, nominated Hauser for the presidency, a choice that was unanimously approved by the board. Hauser had previously served two terms as board president.

In January, Gilbert was chastised both publicly and privately by board members for being openly critical of the board in a statement to the Herald.

Gilbert had said the board over-emphasized the development of baseball diamonds and lacked park beautification programs and more passive recreation.

At the time, von Schaumburg was the board president. A referendum also was in the works for March 6 and it was felt by some commissioners that even though Gilbert supported the referendum, later defeated, his criticism of the board hurt its chances for passage.

Gilbert is 32 years old and works as an editor for a legal publishing firm in Chicago. He has been a village resident for 8 years.

Teachers Ratify Salary Contract

by WANDALYN RICE

Teachers in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 voted Friday to ratify a 1971-72 contract that will increase their pay scale by 3 per cent over last year's contract.

Tom Dresser, head of negotiations for the Teachers Council, which is the sole bargaining agent for district teachers, said the vote in favor of the contract was "overwhelming" with only three schools not reporting vote totals Friday afternoon.

The Dist. 59 Board of Education will hold a special meeting Thursday to vote on ratifying the contract. There are 523 teachers, most of whom are members of the Teachers Council, in the 20-school district.

The new contract increases base pay for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree and no experience from $7,600 to $7,828. Increments to the base pay are added as teachers gain more experience or education.

Under the new contract, a teacher with 15 years' experience and a master's degree with 30 additional hours will receive $18,480.

ALTHOUGH base pay and the scale are being increased by 3 per cent over last year, teachers now in the district will get a 7 per cent pay increase, Teachers Council Pres. Robert Beacupre said.

A teacher now in the district would have gotten a 4 per cent increase because of added experience if the 1970-71 pay scale was applied without change next year, he said.

Two non-monetary provisions of the contract that are new this year are an impasse procedure and a defined procedure for evaluations of probationary and tenure teachers, Beacupre said.

The impasse procedure provides for a federal mediator to be called in if the two sides fail to agree in negotiations.

The evaluation procedure, Beacupre said, "makes it harder for a principal to get rid of somebody without a good reason." In the past evaluations have been governed only by administrative procedure.

TALKS ON THE contract began in February immediately after a one-day teachers' strike and settlement of the 1970-71 contract.

Negotiations on the 1970-71 contract broke down last fall in a dispute over class size.

The pay increase granted in the new contract is much smaller than increases that have come out of negotiations in Dist. 59 in the past few years.

In 1968-69, base pay was $6,300 and was increased 10 per cent to $7,000 in 1969-70. The base was raised 8 per cent last year to $7,600.

The settlement is the first to be reached by an elementary school district in the area. Other districts are negotiating with their teachers.

Two Convicted On Theft Charge

Two Northwest suburban brothers have been found guilty in federal district court of theft from an interstate shipment of cigarettes, police have reported.

Victor Wavra, 28, of 727 Dulles, Des Plaines, and Frank Wavra, 31, of 571 Clearmont Dr., Elk Grove Village, were convicted before Judge William Lynch and reportedly were awaiting sentencing.

Elk Grove Village police arrested the pair last December when they found $15,000 worth of untaxed cigarettes in a garage at the Clearmont Street address.

The cigarettes were reportedly obtained from a truck hijacking earlier in Chicago.

Queen Of Rosary Officers Elected

New officers for the Queen of the Rosary Catholic School Board of Education in Elk Grove Village were elected at the board's meeting last week.

Mrs. Patricia Clifford, of 501 Corinthia, was elected president. She has served on the board since its formation in 1967.

Robert Fleming, of 736 Milbeck Ct., Elk Grove Village, was elected vice president. He also is president of the Elk Grove Village Public Library Board of Directors.

Ted Czarnecki, of 1139 Elmwood, is the new secretary, and Al Claps, of 1210 Hemlock, is the finance chairman.

Quotable

"The height of conceit is when a mouse approaches an elephant with intent to rape," said James Ervitt, superintendent for Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces," Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.8 per cent.

An unemployed office worker with a police record is being held in $300,000 bail in New York while Chicago authorities prepare death penalty charges against him as the first U. S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 28, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

The World

Israeli antiaircraft batteries fired at two Egyptian jet fighters flying over the eastern bank of the Suez Canal, the third time the Middle-East cease-fire has been broken on the Suez front.

Three Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Salyut orbital laboratory cast the first votes from space and tended a vegetable patch growing Chinese cabbage inside their craft.

The seven survivors of nine premature infants born to an Australian housewife are clinging to life in incubators in a Sydney hospital. The mother had been taking a drug which facilitates normal childbirth but also enhances fertility.

The War

Communist forces ambushed a truck convoy and destroyed a civilian bus with a mine in attacks in the Central Highlands that killed 17 persons, most of them civilians. U. S. B-52 bombers pounded troop concentrations and bunker complexes just below the Demilitarized Zone in the heaviest raids in South Vietnam in two months.

A trash fire spread to an ammunition dump in downtown Phnom Penh, Cambodia, setting off explosions that rocked the capital for more than two hours. Several persons were slightly wounded.

The State

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Disyton — a concentrated poison — to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

A bill giving public employees, including policemen, firemen and teachers, the right to strike, and engage in collective bargaining, passed the Illinois House by a solid 98-43 vote.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Tonti, is a mystery which may remain unsolved for months, federal investigators said Friday.

Tell Dismay Over Magistrate Report

by ROGER CAPETTINI

Lawyers throughout the Northwest suburbs Friday voiced overwhelming disapproval and dismay over a Chicago Council of Lawyers (CCL) report that 82 Cook County magistrates are unfit to be judges.

Attorneys contacted by the Herald unanimously criticized both the content and the methods used by the report, which was made public at a Chicago press conference Thursday.

The CCL report, and another report released Friday by the Chicago Bar Assn., finding 38 of the 107 magistrates unfit, was followed Friday by an order from the Illinois Supreme Court suspending indefinitely action that would elevate magistrates deemed qualified to the position of associate judge.

Under the new state constitution, magistrates are scheduled to be made associate judges July 1, pending screening and decisions on their qualifications by a committee of circuit court judges. The committee had been set to meet today.

The CCL, which claims a membership of 1,200 attorneys, said it rates only two of the 107 magistrates "fully qualified" for promotion to associate judgeships. Judson Miner, CCL president, said the group conducted its two month investigation because it believed all the magistrates would receive promotions.

The council report said "only a strong demonstration of concern by the public and the bar has a chance of ameliorating the disaster scheduled to take place July 1."

Of the 13 magistrates who sit in Northwest suburban district courts, only two escaped the harsh criticism of the council. Martin Luken of Dist. 3 and Milton Solomon of Dist. 2 were spared when the group made no recommendations on them.

The remaining magistrates from the two districts were named by the CCL as being "clearly unfit for any judicial office." They are: Simon S. Porter, John J. Kelly Jr., Marvin Peters, George Zimmerman, Edwin T. Breen and Francis Glowacki of Dist. 3; and Russell R. DeBow, Richard H. Jorzak, John J. Limperis, Paul A. O'Malley and Anthony J. Scitllo of Dist. 2.

They were among 82 magistrates described by the council in terms such as "lacking legal competence, character, judicial temperament and respect for rule of law, insufficiently intelligent, ignorant, bigoted, intemperate, stupid, inept, vicious, lazy, arrogant, crude, and political."

Limperis, O'Malley and Jorzak were among 10 singled out by the council as among the worst of the magistrates.

In its report charging 33 of the 107 magistrates are unfit to be judges, the Chicago Bar Assn. found five local magistrates unfit. They are: Glowacki, Jorzak, Porter, Solomon and Zimmerman.

Lawyers who practice in the two districts, centered their expressed uniform disagreement with the CCL's report, saying it was overcritical, unfair and did a disservice to the legal profession.

Thomas J. O'Brien, president of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association, called the report, "grossly overcritical."

O'Brien said there are some of the magistrates who "obviously should not be reappointed because of legal incompetence," but added the number mentioned by the council was "grossly exaggerated."

The association president said the report constitutes "a disservice to the public to say that 90 per cent of the magistrates are incompetent. That's simply not true."

Donald Norman, one of the founders of the area bar association, agreed. Norman, who said he has observed all the magistrates in the two districts "many times," said, "I haven't always agreed with them, but to say any of them lack legal competence is asinine."

Norman said the bar association screening committee found all the magistrates in the two districts to be generally competent.

Miner said the report was based not only on the opinions of the council membership. The group also sought out responses from attorneys who practiced in the specific districts with the magistrates, he said.

None of the lawyers contacted Friday said they had any contact with the group, nor did they hear of anyone who did. "Shotgun tactics like that are infantile," said one attorney who said he was "deeply distressed by the report."

The consensus of the lawyers was that some of the methods used to arrive at the decisions were invalid.

Miner said that in many cases responses were uniformly critical of the magistrates. He admitted, however, that in other cases, the council disregarded a majority of favorable, but general, expressions and formed their unfavorable opinion on fewer, yet more specific criticisms.

Judge Harold W. Sullivan and Judge Anton Smigiel, presiding judges of Dist. 2 and Dist. 3 respectively, disagreed with the report on their subordinates, calling it "unfair" and "degrading."

Judge Sullivan said, "They (the council) complain about judicial temperament and then they reach slang conclusions which are most injudicious." Sullivan said he does not think the report is worthy of some of the attorneys he is acquainted with who are members of the council. "This report leaves no possibility that they could be mistaken. It's arrogance beyond comprehension."

Although most of the magistrates declined to comment on the report, O'Malley called it "ridiculous." The magistrate, who said he is not very upset over the matter, explained, "I don't know of this council. I don't know what they do or who they are."

Appeals To Local Officials

Back Revenue Sharing, Ogilvie Urges

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie carried his grassroots campaign for federal revenue sharing to the Northwest suburbs Friday when he addressed about 75 municipal officials at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel in Arlington Heights.

Ogilvie told city and village officials here that President Nixon's revenue sharing proposals would help them control the rising costs of government and "eliminate a lot of red tape" now encountered in securing financial aid from the federal government.

The governor has made "nine or ten" such appearances throughout the state to drum up local pressure on Congress to accept Nixon's proposals.

Tomorrow he will head a panel of six governors who will testify before the House Ways and Means Committee, headed by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., a vigorous opponent of revenue sharing.

Ogilvie told the suburban officials Nixon's plan would mean $220 million of "no strings attached" funds for Illinois in the first year — $112 million to go directly to municipalities on a per capita basis. That money would come from a $5 billion allocation for "general" revenue sharing.

The plan also would provide $11 billion in "special" revenue sharing for special projects such as transportation, law enforcement and education.

Accompanying the governor here were Robert Lenhausen, director of the recently formed state Department of Local Government Affairs, and John McCarter, director of the Bureau of the Budget.

Lenhausen, former mayor of Peoria, said a major point of opposition to revenue sharing has been that the federal government would lose control of expenditures of income tax funds.

"The governor happens to believe that you can be trusted to spend the money where it is needed," Lenhausen said. "Nobody is closer to the problems than you are."

LENHAUSEN TOLD the officials it is up to them to convince the Illinois congressional delegation that revenue sharing is needed and he took them to task for not acknowledging the benefit they have gained from the state income tax.

"The governor has caught a lot of hell for 'Ogilvie's income tax' and you have not been vocal in defending him," Lenhausen said. He said the income tax demonstrates that revenue sharing will work and told the mayors and councilmen, "It's up to you" to convince Congress.

Ogilvie and his aides emphasized to a receptive audience that revenue sharing would increase their decision-making powers. "We believe you in your community have a better idea than we do about what you need and want," said Lenhausen. "You certainly have a better idea than the federal government."

McCarter said revenue sharing is "simply a question of decisions and where they get made."

McCarter said that special revenue sharing would provide funds to local communities without the requirement that they raise matching funds. "It means you could make decisions without reallocating money needed elsewhere to 'capture' U. S. funds," he said.

McCarter estimated that $113 million would be made available for educational purposes in Illinois, $108 million for urban development and $23 million for law enforcement under special programs.

THE GOVERNOR charged that Mills opposes revenue sharing because the congressman's home district does not share the financial woes of other states.

"For every dollar of federal money that goes to his state, Arkansas sends about 51 cents to Washington," Ogilvie declared. "Illinois sends about $1.65 for every dollar it gets back."

Revenue sharing would reduce that expenditure to about $1.20 he said.

Ogilvie discounted arguments about federal accountability for federal funds. "If Mills thinks he knows where all that money is being spent, he's nuts," the governor declared. The President does not know where the money goes, he said, because he is separated from it by "layers of bureaucracy."

"And even those faceless, nameless bureaucrats don't know where it is spent."

Despite well-publicized congressional opposition to revenue sharing, Ogilvie said he expects to see some form of revenue sharing adopted.

Tonight: Drug Use Facts

Final statistics on student drug use and abuse in High School Dist. 214 will be made public tonight at the board of education meeting.

Eric Schaps, a member of a University of Chicago team studying drug use in the district, will present the final report of a six-month survey. Schaps is expected to have figures on the percentage of students in the district who have tried drugs illegally.

In February, Schaps and Clinton Sanders reported partial results of a survey of almost 14,000 students.

The survey included questions on where students learn about drugs, to whom they would turn for help in a drug crisis and how much students know about different types of drugs.

A month ago, Schaps gave more detailed data on the drug survey to a committee composed of citizens, students, and school officials studying the drug problem.

Preliminary conclusions presented at the meeting showed drug users are more oriented toward other students than to their family.

In the study, which also included a smaller survey on attitudes of 1,000 students, 67.9 per cent of alcohol-only users want students on a drug education committee while 73.2 per cent of those who have used narcotics (opium and heroin) prefer student participation.

Since the May meeting, subcommittees have been studying the data already released.

In addition to the final report on the drug survey, the board will be given a progress report on construction of Rolling Meadows High School by architect Hy Miller. The school is scheduled to open in September.

A report on expansion of the Volunteer Service Bureau will be presented to the board by Margaret Early, executive director, and Marilyn Marier, vice president, of the organization. Dist. 214 has supported the bureau during the past year by providing office space at Hersey High School and contributing $3,000. Rod McLennan, assistant superintendent for instruction, has served as bureau president. In return, Dist. 214 has received more than 2,400 hours of service from volunteer workers.

The board will consider a proposal allocating $2,500 for the Volunteer Service Bureau next year.

Salaries for clerical, custodial and maintenance and food services personnel will also be considered.

Clerical personnel are expected to receive a 10 per cent salary increase, custodial and maintenance a 12 per cent increase and food services a 10-cent-per-hour increase for new personnel and up to 20 cents per hour for top positions. Beginning hourly rate is $2.10 per hour compared to $2.00 per hour last year.

Contracts Are Now Returned

All of the contracts mailed out to the Harper College faculty have been returned signed, according to college officials.

Clarence Schauer, vice president for academic affairs, reported at Thursday's board meeting the only faculty member to not return a contract had announced well before the contracts were issued that he planned to resign.

The only problem was the U. S. Mail. Ruth Ruper, acquisitions librarian, did not receive her contract in time, even though it had been mailed with the other 139 contracts.

SCHAUER REPORTED Mrs. Ruper had filled out a contract shortly before the final deadline.

Board member Ross Miller said he thought the board committee had handled negotiations well, and the turnaround time (time for faculty to return contracts) had benefited the faculty.

In other action, Jack Lucas, director of planning and development, unveiled a $16,000 study which shows population projections for the Harper area up through 1980.

The study, conducted by the Real Estate Research Corp. for the college's long range planning committee, reports the college's enrollment could balloon to 22,000 by 1980, according to College Pres. Robert Lahti.

The study will be sent to village governments, school districts, and other public bodies, according to college officials.

Finally, the board approved a plan to codify the college's procedures on the release of student records.

The policy outlines just what information shall and shall not be released to the public. It also sets up procedures to use if police officials request data from the Harper administration.

2 Hoffman Estates Kids In Intensive Care Units

Two Hoffman Estates children Friday remained in intensive care units in area hospitals, one with a brain injury and the other with a brain hemorrhage.

Both children are 13 years old and attend Helen Keller Junior High School.

Duffy Kilrain, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hogg of Higgins Road across from Barrington Square, was struck by an auto June 4 and injured his head. He still was unconscious Friday, and hospital authorities said there had been no change in his condition, which was listed as critical. He had, however, shown slight response to stimulants. Duffy is at St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Rhonda Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cooper, 209 Woodlawn, Hoffman Estates, is in serious condition in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Rhonda was in a science class Wednesday when she became dizzy and fell from her chair. She told school officials she had pains in her head and muscle spasms. When she was taken to the hospital, doctors said they believed she had suffered a brain hemorrhage, similar to a stroke for an adult. Her condition is listed as serious, but improved.

Duffy would have graduated from eighth grade Thursday. Rhonda just completed seventh grade.

David Dulberg, a classmate of Duffy's, by Friday had collected $380 in a fund drive to help Mr. and Mrs. Hogg with hospital expenses. David originated the idea for the collection himself and handled details of it with help from school officials. His mother, Mrs. Herbert Dulberg, said Friday students had contributed money from allowances and earnings, and the response had been gratifying.

Mrs. Hogg also thanked the children for their contributions, saying she was gratified by their generosity.

RUSSELL MARTINO, 59, of Melrose Park, carnival booths at the Elk Grove Village Jaycee carnival business for 27 years, Martino once disclosed proprietor, eyes up a pool shot at one of the which ended a five-day run yesterday. In the car that a loan from a priest got him started.

Name Park In Honor Of James Falk

In a gesture of farewell to their departing commissioner and immediate past president, the Schaumburg Park Board announced Thursday that a site adjacent to Nathan Hale Elementary School will be called James Falk Park.

Falk's resignation became effective Friday and he and his family will soon be moving from Weathersfield to the Winston Knolls subdivision of Hoffman Estates.

A four-year veteran board member, Falk served as board president in 1970 and 1971.

Board members have not announced when the vacancy will be filled or how they intend to make their selection, but Falk's successor will fill out the remaining two years in his six-year full term.

Ray Hum, chairman of a board committee commissioned to name new park sites, explained that it has been park policy to name sites for persons active in the formation or development of Schaumburg.

Recently a community recreation and park administration center being constructed in the Lancer Park subdivision was named for Ellsworth Meineke, a long time resident of the village and noted area conservationist.

Last fall, a second community pool and its surrounding park site financed through a voter approved building program in which the park district is now engaged was called Robert O. Atcher Park.

Immediately prior to adjournment, Falk was presented with a certification of appreciation by Park Pres. Robert Bock who noted that he will "be sorely missed and has put in many years of outstanding service to the people of the Schaumburg Park District."

THE LEARNING CENTER at Grove Junior High School is moving outside in a courtyard. Kim Moore and Mike Conroy work on the patio, built as a memorial to Gerald Tvrdy, assistant principal.

School's Ducks To Get Waterfall

The geese and ducks in the courtyard at Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village will soon have a waterfall in their habitat.

The fowl are kept in the court by the science department, and the waterfall is being planned by students and faculty members as part of a memorial to Gerald Tvrdy, assistant principal who died last fall.

Students and faculty, with the help of Principal Alvah Stone, have built a stone patio and benches in the courtyard which opens off the library-learning center.

"It will be an outdoor extension of our learning center," Stone said. Lawn chairs recently were purchased for the patio and students will be able to study there during the fall and spring, he said.

Money for the project was raised by the student council and eighth grade class, Stone said.

"The waterfall will be built in a couple of weeks and then we will be pretty well finished," he said.

A plaque will be placed in the courtyard honoring Mr. Tvrdy, who was a science teacher at the school and who served for two years as assistant principal.

The geese and ducks have not been too disturbed by the work on the patio, Stone said, and one is even sitting on eggs.

Community Service Center To Bolster Staff By Two

Elk Grove Village Community Service will be able to serve more people with more intensive counseling because of the addition of new staff members, according to executive director Jordan Rosen.

The village-funded mental health and social service agency currently has two professional staff members — Rosen and one youth worker — Tom Woodward. Using village funds, the service will hire two more social workers for the coming year, Rosen said.

In addition, a social worker is being hired by Elk Grove Township officials and will be assigned to the service, he added.

One of the new workers will be paid partly out of municipal funds and partly out of United Fund contributions, he said.

THE VILLAGE recently approved a budget of $53,600 for the community service.

Because of the increase in staff, Rosen said he thought the number of persons seeking family, marriage, and individual counseling may double. The service deals with about 175 persons regularly, he said.

"As you take a more formal, structured approach to counseling you work more intensively with the people you have," he said.

At a meeting of the community service board Thursday, the board unanimously approved a program which includes a referral service, counseling service, outreach-program for those who do not come for help, coordination of community resources and the youth hotline.

Although the services in the policy are not new, Rosen said he thinks their formal approval by the board is important.

Rosen, who has been director since March, said, "Whoever I talk to in the area has a different idea about what community service is. I think it is important to have a clearly defined program approved at the board level."

Park Budget Will Be Slashed 13%

The budget for the Elk Grove Park District must be cut by more than 13 percent for the coming year. The cuts will mean changes in the summer program that starts this month.

Park Commissioner David von Schaumburg presented a report to the board Thursday that indicates the preliminary budget of $248,000 for the general and recreation funds must be cut by $33,000 because of limits placed on the district's ability to issue tax anticipation warrants.

Following the meeting von Schaumburg said, "I anticipate that summer concerts will be eliminated and other programs, except for the swimming pools, will be cut back."

The concerts, held outdoors every Wednesday at Grant Wood School during the summer, are annual events sponsored by the park district.

THE DISTRICT'S borrowing power has been limited, von Schaumburg told the board, by the pending case on the constitutionality of corporate personal property tax and because of vagueness in state law.

The district has been issuing warrants against 70 percent of the following year's taxes for a number of years, he said. Because of the question about corporate personal property tax, the district cannot borrow against the money from that tax for next year, von Schaumburg said.

Also, when park districts were given the authority by the state legislature last year to increase its recreation fund levy to 7½ cents per $100 assessed value, he said language was included in the bill that when interpreted strictly only gives a district a 6-cent levy.

Because of this the attorneys who handle the district's warrants will not allow borrowing against the extra 1½ cents until the problem is cleared up, von Schaumburg explained.

Those two factors combined mean the district must cut its budget by about $33,000, he said.

THE PARK DISTRICT lost two attempts to pass bond referendums on park improvements and a building this year. However, the money that would have been gained from those referendums would not affect the general and recreation fund budgets.

The park district levies 10 cents per $100 in the general fund, 7½ cents in the recreation fund and 6½ cents in the bonded interest fund. Money in the bonded interest fund is earmarked to pay interest on building bonds issued by the district.

In other action the board agreed to hold a joint meeting with the village board of trustees on June 29 to discuss common problems and areas of cooperation.

Ice Cream Social Slated Tonight

The annual ice cream social will be held at Ira L. Rupley School, 305 E. Oakton Rd., Elk Grove Village, tonight from 6:30 to 9 o'clock.

The Grove Junior High School stage band will perform at 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. during the social, which is sponsored by the school's P.T.O.

Officers for the P.T.O. for the coming year are Mrs. Stanley King, president; Mrs. Owen Leander, vice-president; Mrs. George Blanchard, secretary; and Mrs. Albert Kuhr, treasurer.

School Doors Slashed

The Strategy Game

An Incentive To Learning

Working with puzzles is fun.

The fifth grader bent over, carefully and patiently explained to her kindergarten-age schoolmate how to play the strategy game.

Time passed. Soon the older girl got up, shaking her head. She went over to the adult in one corner of the room.

"You know," she said, indicating the kindergarten child, "I taught him how to play that game and he just beat me."

Joe Judge, math consultant for Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59, laughed as he recalled the incident.

"Sometimes we treat kindergarten children as though they don't know anything, but often when they are put in a new situation they can see the patterns more easily than someone older," he said.

The fifth grader is one of the "marshals" in the math lab at Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village. Judge set up the lab about three weeks ago and children in all grades have been using it since.

The children come to the lab, either with their class or with part of their class, and work on the math games, puzzles and other activities. The marshals supervise, check out the games and help their fellow students learn to use them.

"We try to make it a pleasant place with a minimum supervision," Judge said. "It is an open structure. Someone might come in and say the kids are 'just playing' but all the things here were chosen for a purpose. The kids are learning about learning."

More than 50 activities, ranging from the blocks and rods used in New Math to games that can be purchased in a variety store, are in the lab which was once an empty classroom.

The marshals must learn how to use everything in the lab as quickly as possible, Judge said, and often teach each other.

Each child who comes to the lab gets a list with all the activities on it. On the list, he then indicates whether he has done a certain thing and whether he knows it well enough to teach others.

"This is an incentive for many kids," Judge said. "They are really serious about getting things checked off."

The activities in the math lab are not the same as the textbook math the children learn in their classrooms, Judge said. "There is no pencil and paper math in the lab. The games develop strategy and problem-solving."

It is easy for the marshals to keep order in the lab, Judge added, because everyone is busy, and he hopes the idea can be extended to other elementary schools in the district.

"Not only are the fifth graders useful helpers, they are learning and it's good for their development," he said. "I think we can and should use the kids in this way more."

A BADGE WITH a star identifies Gloria Duffy as a "marshall" in the math lab at Mark Hopkins School. She and 20 other fifth graders supervise the lab and help the other students who come there.

Doctors Refer Patients To Center

by JUDY NAJOLIA

Counseling such as the Salvation Army Community Counseling Center offers should be the job of the family physician, but he has no time to do it.

That's why Dr. Philip Heller and other physicians in the Northwest area refer patients to counseling agencies for help in marital, alcoholic and kid problems.

"There's a crying need for counseling programs and the fact that the Salvation Army Center has a waiting list shows that we need more of its type of counseling, not less," Heller said.

Heller may not be able to refer patients to the Community Counseling Center after this summer. The center, now $15,000 in debt, will have to curtail services if it does not receive some sort of funds soon.

"Probably two patients a week who come into this office are in need of family counseling. I don't specify what agency to go to, but many turn to the Salvation Army," according to Heller.

Finances and religious convictions often prevent people using other counseling institutions.

The need for good counseling programs has greatly increased in the past few years, Heller feels. "We have a more urbanized society in this area and society is generally more 'up tight'. People have acute problems and have nowhere to turn."

One of the unfortunate things about the Salvation Army Community Counseling Center in Des Plaines is that many people do not know the services it is offering. "They think of the Salvation Army as bell ringers on streetcorners trying to collect money for poor people. A lot of doctors don't even know what it is offering."

Heller patients use the Salvation Army program more than others. "There is probably less objection to the overall public too. The Salvation Army is not identified with any one religious group," he said.

Men who have had military service also identify with the Salvation Army. "You know the old feeling, 'when in trouble, go to the Salvation Army'. People are surprised to learn the Salvation Army in this area can help them with counseling," Heller said.

Personally, Heller said he has seen the Community Counseling Center do a wonderful job. "I can think of one case where they saved a marriage. To me, if you can save one marriage, it is worth it. I certainly hope the center can continue and will be able to help more people. The center is doing a fine job. We need more counseling programs like it."

State Gets $3.5 Million In Anti Crime Funds

Jerris Leonard, administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, announced approval of almost $3.5 million in federal anti-crime funds for Illinois and tentative approval of an additional $800,000 for Chicago.

Addressing an Illinois State Chamber of Commerce meeting, Leonard said all the money would be used for programs to improve corrections.

"The rising crime rate in the United States has become, in recent years, a matter of grave concern," Leonard said. "Crime rose 148 per cent in the 1960's and it rose an additional 11 per cent last year."

Leonard said it is the task of his agency, which is part of the Department of Justice, to see that the situation is brought under control. "We want to reduce the fact of crime to an absolute minimum. And at the same time, we want to reduce the fear of crime that is so widespread in so many parts of the country."

Leonard praised the state Chamber for its "pioneering role in stimulating interest in local criminal justice problems" through the concentrated action program of its committee on respect for law and order. "As long as six years ago, the State Chamber determined that crime was a problem deserving of strong and sustained effort. It embarked on a concentrated program to get local communities involved."

The meeting was called by the state Chamber to bring together state, regional and federal agencies to hear reports and discuss plans and operations of LEAA and ILEC. Arthur J. Bilek, ILEC chairman and four staff experts presented reports to Leonard reviewing police, corrections, courts and training programs. ILEC is the state agency which distributes funds made available by LEAA under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

State Chamber President Lester W. Brann, Jr. called for "stepped-up local action to combat crime and delinquency and the upgrading of local criminal justice systems" and pledged business leadership to help meet that challenge.

Some problems take concentration.

Scott Urges Senate OK Grand Jury Crime Bill

Attorney Gen. William J. Scott said recently the Illinois attorney general's office is powerless to move directly against organized crime without grand jury authority and urged the Illinois Senate to give speedy approval to his statewide Grand Jury bill which passed the Illinois House 89-46.

"It would be tragic for the people of this state, if for purely partisan reasons, the Illinois Senate refused to give the state's chief legal officer the tools necessary to join in the war against crime," Scott said.

"Right now the largest, best trained legal and investigative staff in the state, and perhaps the whole nation, is limited to civil law suits in areas such as consumer fraud, antitrust, pollution and charitable fraud violations," Scott stated. UNDER THE PROPOSED legislation, the attorney general would have power to petition the presiding judge of an appellate court to impanel a grand jury to investigate "acts or transgressions occurring in more than one county." In presenting evidence and prosecuting indictments the attorney general would have assistance from the state's attorneys, who are county officers.

"This bill in no way diminishes the powers and duties of the county state's attorneys, but rather supplements those powers with those of the attorney general in combating the criminal element of this state," Scott said.

His bill was patterned after a New Jersey law where statewide grand juries have resulted in the successful prosecutions based on more than 100 indictments.

PHYSICIANS OFTEN don't have time to counsel patients about marital or children problems, so they try to refer them to an agency which can. Much of the physician's day is spent with medical problems like those that show up in X-Rays. Counseling can be provided by the Salvation Army Community Counseling Center in Des Plaines, but unless it receives financial help soon, services will have to be cut.

Scariano Compares Self To Rentschler

by BOB LAHEY

Anthony Scariano, Democratic state representative from Park Forest, made a speech to the Wilmette Democratic Women's Club a few weeks ago that was remarkable in its content.

The speech defines Scariano as the Democratic equivalent to Republican Bill Rentschler — both severely critical of their own parties, adamant in their demands for change, and committed to loyalty to those separate parties.

The premise of Scariano's speech was John Kenneth Galbraith's assertion that the proper function of the Democratic party in the 20th century has been and must be to "embrace solutions to critical problems."

Unless the Democrats can perform that deceptively simple-sounding function, there will be no one who can, Scariano said. "There will be a conservative Republican party and there will be a conservative Democratic party, and there will be a badly splintered opposition outside them both, increasing the prospects for both violence and reaction."

Identifying his political generation as "Roosevelt — Stevenson — Kennedy kinds of Democrats," Scariano told the Wilmette women that the party must first acknowledge that it "was the party in power during most of the years that today's crises were accumulating."

WHILE NOT attempting to lay the world's woes at the feet of Harry Truman, he pointed out that a Democratic president ordered the dropping of the first nuclear bomb and "effectively ended the age of innocence."

Children born since 1950, he said, have never known the blessed innocence of the pre-Hiroshima world.

"They were born into a world where the sword of Damocles already hung suspended, and many of them have come to doubt the sanity, much less the good will, of older men in high places . . ."

Into that age of non-innocence has been injected Viet Nam, and Scariano points out what even many Republicans are too polite to dwell on because of the nation's collective bewilderment:

"Initiated under President Kennedy, escalated under President Johnson, this misadventure has cost us so much more than we can calculate that hardly any one dares try."

Second only to Viet Nam in division of the nation, he said, was racial inequality. And the fault of the Democrats, he declared, has been in indulging "an adolescent fantasy" that by thinking about the problem, they would solve it.

He acknowledges rightly that the Democratic party, despite its southern wing, has contributed greatly to legal remedies for a people persecuted since slavery reached Virginia. But, he pointed out that the over-blown promises and underfunded solutions belched out by such as Humphrey and Johnson have contributed greatly to racial polarization. "A people who has been promised everything will eventually believe nothing."

TO DO THEIR part in restructuring the Democratic party so that it can do better in the waning years of the 20th Century, Scariano proposes, suburban Democrats must start with the chairman of the Cook County Democratic party.

Richard J. Daley, he charged, has used the county organization for personal power and has in the process created "a fractured body politic, fed on cynicism and on fear."

The party of Mayor Daley, said Scariano, has bred a distaste for the Democratic party in the mouths of suburbanites. He urged courageous leadership by suburban Democrats to wrest control of the county organization from Daley to eliminate that distaste.

Otherwise setting aside criticism of Republican contributions to the nation's pains, Scariano closed his remarks with an allusion to Richard Nixon, Spiro Agnew and Attorney General John Mitchell. "We must not succumb to the politics of despair," he said, "and abandon the field to those unprincipled Americans that we have mistakenly elevated into positions of great power."

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

by LESTER KINSOLVING

What could very well grow into a nation-wide parochial revolt against the national headquarters of the 3.3 million-member Episcopal Church, has been set off by Manhattan's famed St. Thomas' Church on Fifth Ave.

For the vestry (church board) of St. Thomas' has voted unanimously (with one abstention) to send $20,000 directly to missions and other church institutions—instead of sending it through the national headquarters, as is customary.

And St. Thomas' rector, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Morris, in a sermon has charged the national headquarters of the nation's fifth largest denomination with:

—Maintaining "a total centrality of power" and "a credibility gap," while either ignoring or rejecting objections from Diocesan authorities, "Sometimes with angry replies from the bureaucrats."

—Ignoring directives from General Convention (the denomination's highest authority) regarding needed economics at headquarters as well as prohibiting the funding of groups either practicing or advocating violence.

—FINANCING a number of violent groups (black militants as well as New Mexico's trigger-happy followers of Reies Tijerina, who is now in federal prison) "at the expense of prior, long-standing commitments of the church all over the world." (One of the most recent consequences of this was at Cuttington College in Liberia, where Christian Baker, the black president, has resigned in disgust.)

—Calling for national church support of a student strike last year and then cancelling the project (after furious nation-wide protest) when it was learned that contributions to it would not be tax exempt. (The national headquarters has also been funding the Liberation News Service, which serves the underground press, and whose funding a U.S. Senate subcommittee has been trying to ascertain.)

—Calling upon General Motors to close down all its plants in South Africa, despite G.M.'s having raised its percentage of non-white employees there to 65 per cent — all of whom would be thrown out of work.

Dr. Morris also spoke of his denominational headquarters' acute need for better public relations. This is well illustrated in the reaction to his sermon by the head of the national headquarters, Pres. Bishop John E. Hines.

"I don't think I'll comment. I haven't read the sermon," said Bishop Hines — one month after it had been featured by the New York Times.

Hines' headquarters are located in New York City, just 14 blocks away from St. Thomas' and Dr. Morris.

A frequent Episcopal headquarters reaction to criticism is to brand the critic as invariably either far right or socially unconcerned. (If the press reports any of its more bizarre actions, the headquarters charges either distortion or inaccuracy — even to The New York Times.)

Such criticism can hardly apply to St. Thomas', however, given this parish's $175,000 in support of a welter of Harlem and Lower East Side projects, not to mention the fact that Morris is hardly renowned for avoiding controversial social issues.

A GREAT MANY parishes may follow the lead of St. Thomas' because they are economically strapped, due in some measure to the incriminating antics of their national headquarters. Comparatively few Episcopalians will try to muzzle the sincere social concern of their pastor by withholding financial support. But even fewer will stretch this ideal to cover any instance of the pastor's illegally expending of parish funds.

Iowa's Bishop Gordon Smith, Chairman of the General Convention's Program and Budget Committee, has charged the Hines administration with "an intolerable position" and "a contravention of General Convention" in the current use of designated legacies to pay for operating costs.

Bishop Hines would not comment on this, either.

If the denomination's income to national headquarters continues to plummet at the current rate, the headquarters staff could conceivably be reduced to Hines and one secretary. But a great many institutions and mission churches would perish first, because most Episcopalians are too inclined to prelate-adoration to imprecate Hines.

This might be called "The King Charles Syndrome" — in remembrance of all those Episcopalians (Church of England) who wept at the beheading of Charles I for repeated treason (he was later canonized as "St. Charles, the Martyr") — at a time when average citizens were being beheaded for petty larceny.

Experience can be the best teacher . . . but not where the sun is concerned.

There is no secret. Who isn't aware that too much sun at one time is exceedingly painful and over an extended period of years can greatly speed up the skin's aging process?

However, in spite of all the warnings year after year, anyone who enjoys being outdoors at all undoubtedly begins the summer with a painful burn which is perhaps repeated at least once or twice during the summer months.

Why aren't the sufferings of a bad sunburn ever carried over and remembered? It's just too much fun to play in the sun.

IT'S TIME TO REVIEW the rules again for gradually and painlessly acquiring a deep robust tan, although everyone will continue to over-extend themselves, even those who have already been "fried" once this spring. Neither am I a saint. I got caught the first sunny weekend in May.

The first signal many persons catch to indicate that their skin has been baked is a color change . . . bright red. However, the signals can get crossed and ones from the sun do.

Since reddening doesn't reach its peak until several hours following initial exposure, skin color in the sun is no guide as to when you should first take cover.

A SKIN NOTICEABLY red in the sun will indicate, however, a period of discomfort ahead.

Staying longer won't hurry the tanning process and can, in fact, retard it if blistering and peeling do take place. That means starting from scratch.

Of course, it is common knowledge that no one should sunbathe more than 20 minutes the first day. That rule is responsible for the majority of sunburns. It is broken more often than practiced.

Where are the best places for soaking up the sun? Under water is the place. Actually water does not reflect radiation from the sun as is so often believed. Instead the sun's rays penetrate into the water, reaching under-water swimmers as easily as the bathers on the beach.

WHERE YOU TAKE the sun governs the time it takes to tan. Atmospheric pollution acts as a sun screen and makes tanning on city rooftops generally slower than in the country or by the water.

All suntan lotions are to some degree sunscreens which do aid in filtering out some of the ultra violet rays. They can increase your exposure time. They cannot make you tan any faster. Nothing can do that.

Overcast skies don't mean you can forget to be careful. In fact, some of the worst sunburns are produced when the sun seems to be hiding simply because one doesn't realize what is happening until it is too late and the skin too red.

THE WISEST ADVICE that can be given is to recognize your own skin type and its sun tolerance and hence approach the sun cautiously.

It's difficult advice to follow. Who wants to stay indoors on a warm sunny day? I don't and I'm sure I'll be paying again and again.

by GENIE CAMPBELL

A carefully chosen shirt to be given as a Father's Day gift no longer spells out the message, "Here, I just couldn't think of anything else to get you. I hope you like it."

Now it means, "Hey, Dad . . . I saw this wild knit shirt and thought of you."

Fathers are beginning to show a bit of vanity. Their masculine image is no longer threatened with ridicule if they attempt a little frivolity in dressing to please themselves.

The three-button sack suit of a uniform has been discarded. Even the more conservative man is beginning to realize that striped shirts and longer collars do go with patterned ties along with suits that have wider lapels and perhaps even flared legs.

AND ESPECIALLY when it comes to leisure and weekend wear, male fashions continue to move ahead in versatility and style.

Even where the office is concerned, color and prints are gaining ground. Continuing to revolutionize the garment industry are knit suits for men.

Great for fathers and husbands who are required to travel a lot, knit suits shed wrinkles and retain their press. Knits are easy to pack and the few wrinkles gathered while en route fall out almost immediately.

For this summer a variety of standard stripes, herringbones, plaids and checks are available as well as the solid colors on the scene when knit suits premiered.

PATTERNED slacks teamed with blazers and bright shirts are also Father's Day fashion suggestions. Ignore the subdued. Look for every variety of stripe instead, all sizes of checks and plaids and a lot of uninhibited prints. Perhaps it will get Father headed on a new road of fashion if he still thinks too conservatively.

Colorful knit shirts are plentiful this spring, great for the golf course or boomy seas.

Golfers and sailors are being allowed all the latitude they desire in choosing their sporting attire.

Colorful jackets to withstand unexpected showers are meant to contrast boldly with slacks available in every shade.

KNICKERS ARE making a comeback on the greens, and their new-found popularity may spread from the fairways to other leisure wear, as they previously did during the Roaring Twenties.

Canvas and denim are both top male fashion fabrics for the warmer months. Swimsuits for the coming season include a lot of denim trunks.

And, of course, denim overalls no longer belong only to the farmer. They have been revived as a fad and may be just right for the fashionable gardening Dad relaxing on his flower-lined patio.

If the purse is rather tight, settle for a tie. And if time is no problem, invest in a simple pattern and make it yourself. Use denim, corduroy, madras or one of the new African prints. He'll appreciate an original.

OVERALLS can't be kept down on the farm once they've become a fashion fad. The brushed denim overalls will be seen on the beach this summer and in many backyards.

That's Just Sherry Nonsense

You Gotta Have It To Reject It

Last Tuesday I saw Alice Flaxton, my dearest friend and next-door neighbor, walking along with a load of books. Naturally I offered her a ride.

"Thanks for the lift," she said as she jumped into the car. "As you can see I'm planning a summer of heavy reading."

"Classics?" I asked. One never knows the current trend of Alice's kicks.

"No, the latest non-fiction best sellers. I've really gotten out of touch. It's time I find out what is influencing today's thinking and setting contemporary trends."

Being more oriented to reading cereal boxes, matchbook covers and grocery lists, I wasn't at all prepared to discuss current books with Alice. However, I encouraged her. "Let me know if you can recommend anything extra worthwhile."

ALICE EXPLAINED that her first undertaking would be "The Greening of America."

"Oh! I understand that is so revolutionary," I gasped. "It's supposed to promote the anti-establishment thinking so prevalent among kids today."

Alice was determined not to be swayed. As I dropped her off, she told me she would see me when she finished the book.

Wednesday I didn't see Alice at all. I assumed she spent much of the day reading.

Thursday I saw her reading out on her lawn. She had on bell bottoms and was barefoot. I didn't even call to her because she seemed so absorbed in her book.

Friday, I wouldn't say for sure, but I thought I caught a faint odor of burning leaves coming from inside the Flaxton's house. I couldn't be certain because of the heavy smell of incense.

SATURDAY ALICE emerged without her book. She was dressed to go shopping.

"Finish 'Greening'?" I called. "I just put it down," Alice said as she came over to our porch. "It really impressed me. In fact it changed my life."

"No kidding. Well," I told her, "I'll have to see you reject Establishment living to believe it."

Soon after Alice returned home, trucks began pulling up to the Flaxtons'. Men unloaded a new double-door freezer-refrigerator, a stereo, a new car, an electronic oven, a color TV and an automated lawnmower. Of course, I was dying to know what was going on, but it was a while before Alice invited me over.

"What's with all this, Alice?" I asked, waving towards all her new luxuries. "I thought you were going to 'green,' to reject all these symbols of our decadent society."

"I am," Alice stated indignantly. IT WAS THEN THAT I noticed that she was wearing tie-dyed cut-offs, an Indian headband and a tee-shirt with a peace symbol on the front and an ecology symbol on the back.

"You don't think I use this stuff do you?" Alice was obviously annoyed.

"You . . . don't use . . . them?" My voice grew progressively smaller.

"Of course not. I told you. My life style has changed. After reading 'The Greening of America,' I've decided to reject my addiction to consuming and be free."

"But you just bought all this stuff!" I protested.

"Of course," Alice explained what she considered to be so painfully simple. "It's a lot easier to reject these things after you've gotten them."

Is Alice ever wrong?

Select Right Floor Polish

Floor polish protects a resilient floor from grit that might scratch the surface. It prolongs the life of the flooring and keeps it bright and shiny for many years. Because there are so many floor care products on the market, The Better Floors Council makes these recommendations on how to select the right one:

Read the labels carefully to find out what each particular product is designed to do. There are finishes for white and light-colored floors that will not yellow, fast-drying clean-and-polish finishes, special ones that resist scuffing and finishes for areas where there is a slip hazard.

Some are water solvent and some are water-resistant. The latter, also called "polymer" finishes, must be stripped more often. Some finishes contain naphtha and should not be used on asphalt tile floors (you can always smell the naphtha).

On floors that have become worn and porous, such as old linoleum, you may need two coats to get a good gloss.

With finishes that both clean and polish, first sweep or vacuum carefully.

APPLY FINISHES IN as thin a coat as possible. Spread with a clean mop or cloth, using long, even strokes. Allow it to dry thoroughly before walking on the floor.

Accumulated coats should be periodically stripped — completely removed with a stripping solution — because they may yellow the flooring or become gummy and hold dirt. Once or twice a year is sufficient with water-based finishes. Polymer finishes should be removed after every three or four applications.

It is a good idea to follow the recommendations of the manufacturers on all maintenance procedures. They do not always agree with the makers of floor finishes and cleaners.

The Better Floors Council has a leaflet on maintenance of floor tile. Single copies are available free in the United States from its headquarters at 101 Park Avenue, New York N.Y. 10017, if the request is accompanied with a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Women's Lib Frees Mature Too

Many women — hemmed in by the "barriers" of home and family life—often substitute fantasies of continuing youthfulness for the reality of inevitable aging. And as they get older, the gap between their fantasy ideas of who they are and the reality of who they actually are grows larger.

Many try desperately to hang onto their fantasies, but a few are electing to confront reality. At least, that's how Germaine Greer, feminist and author of the new best-seller "The Female Eunuch," sees the choices for women over 40.

Miss Greer, who is herself 32, views with amazement the measures some women take to retain the appearance of youth. "They have these extraordinary operations," she declares, "which make them look like strange, ageless mummies with big red lips drawn onto an extremely plastic face, and hair all built up with hair pieces." It must be terrible, she says, "to have to get up in the morning and put all that together before you can face the world."

EQUALLY "DEVASTATING," she finds, are those women "who have capitalized all their lives on their value as sex objects," and want to continue flirting even though such behavior is no longer appropriate.

Also of concern to the noted feminist is the emptiness in the lives of large numbers of women she has seen "trudging through Europe on their obligatory cultural tours." Many such women, Miss Greer explains, are widows "thrown on nothingness" by the deaths of their husbands. They take the guided tours through Venice, she says, but "aren't interested in Venice and really aren't interested in each other. As a matter of fact, they long ago lost the capacity to be genuinely interested in anything."

Germaine Greer observes that women's lib is making women aware of these problems and helping women who used to compete to now cooperate with one another. "They're beginning to get together," she says, "and find that they like each other. They're also much freer and more adventurous."

MANY, SHE NOTES, are now traveling around Europe on their own. They're discovering "they can get it together to do it their own way." As a result, she reports, "you may find a 45-year-old woman or a 50-year-old woman hitchhiking or driving a Land Rover through Morocco, or something like that. And that's a whole different thing because these women are confronting experience in a way they never dreamt of doing before."

The mid-years, Miss Greer points out, are also a time of various difficulties for women. "The menopause," she says, "often brings problems caused by the cessation of certain hormonal activities." But,

Designer Tip To Newcomers: 'Use Your Head For Fashion'

Ileene Abrams, a fashion and millinery designer, will be guest speaker Thursday evening for Prospect Heights Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club. Her lecture, "Use Your Head For Fashion," features models wearing Ileene Creations.

Miss Ileene brings to her audience a new and witty approach to fashion, also revealing professional workroom secrets and hints on beauty, cleaning and sewing, and using items found in the kitchen cupboard.

She is the author of a recently published book entitled "Ileene's Hints and Tips" for the homemaker and career woman. She is a feature columnist for fashion journals in this country and abroad, instructs classes, and makes appearances on TV programs with her fashion hints.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS Newcomers recently hosted a picnic for the children of the trainable mentally handicapped classes at Eisenhower School. This is one of several parties the club gives for the youngsters during the year. The newcomers will also present a check for the handicapped program at Thursday evening's meeting.

Newly elected officers will be installed during the business session. Mrs. Rolf she emphasizes, such problems are often diminished by the medical replacement of these hormones. "Consequently, the menopause can be liberating for many women," the Australian-born author declares, "and I would hope it could be for everyone."

Miss Greer, who's an instructor in English literature at Warwick University in England, has been traveling throughout the United States to promote both her book and the women's liberation movement. Her publisher is McGraw-Hill.

Sundeen will become president; Mrs. William Swartz, first vice president; Mrs. Anthony Matchus, second vice president; Mrs. George Clements, recording secretary; and Mrs. Paul Moneyponny, treasurer.

Mrs. John Halka, 392-0003, can be called for further details.

Legislative Calendar

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We have had a cat for some time and have never been annoyed with fleas, like many of our friends have. This year, however, we have been inundated with fleas and I seem to be the only one they annoy. What can be done to get rid of this really annoying business? —Hazel Schmidt.

Why fleas will attack only one member of a family is not known, but it does happen occasionally. You can spray the areas where they are found with an insecticide sold at most chemical — or garden supply — firms and put a flea collar around the neck of your cat (and dog, too). Don't bother with a bargain flea collar; get a well-recommended one that will protect the animal for a specific time. These also protect pets from ticks for a prescribed period.

Dear Dorothy: Whenever I fry hamburgers or pan broil meat, I try to avoid grease collecting all over the stove so I cover other parts as well as possible with sheets of foil. When the cooking is done, I slip the foil sheets into the dishwasher (just like you would a plate) and they're ready for use again. It may be a pack rat trick but it works. —Celia H.

Dear Dorothy: I, too, used boiled linseed oil to clean fireplace brick. This was in 1958. Ever since, whenever we use the fireplace and the bricks get a little warm, the odor is awful. Have scrubbed them with everything, but the odor still persists. —Mrs. J. D.

Dear Dorothy: If you will put one or two marbles (the kind children play with) in the whistling tea kettle, there will be no more lime formation —Mary Patricia Jensen.

Dear Dorothy: No one has complained yet about the coffee we make in our electric percolator but I think I detect a tiny metallic taste. Is there something that can be done? —Mrs. Robert W.

Sounds as if your percolator needs sweetening. Fill it almost to the top with cold water and add a tablespoonful cream of tartar. Put in the basket, set on "strong" and let it perk through one cycle. Then wash with plain water, rinse thoroughly and dry each part separately.

Any coffee stains can be removed by a good coffee stain remover, just being sure to follow the instructions carefully. If you follow this sweetening practice occasionally and always make sure that the pot and all its components are clean and dry, you should have good coffee. At today's prices, it would be a shame if you didn't.

Dear Dorothy: I notice that readers have had all kinds of trouble getting stickers off their bumpers. I did, too, until I tried trichloroethane one day. It worked like magic. —Julia K.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television critics who venture into cocktail parties that have nothing to do with show business people sometimes find themselves being asked:

"How can you stand watching television so much?"

The people who ask this question invariably don't watch video or don't want to admit it, and usually have somehow missed the good shows you mention to them. On the other hand, of course, there are times when one honestly can't stand television. But the essential fact is that a video critic most often watches the home screen on a selective basis as opposed to those inexplicable viewers who simply turn on the tube and stare at it for hours on end.

Nevertheless, cocktail party questions can be a rather hectic experience, particularly if those asking them are several sheets to the wind and begin to let out their hostilities for television on a person who seems somehow remotely connected with it — say, a critic. It is something like the ancient practice of killing the bearer of bad tidings.

AT ANY RATE, at this particular cocktail party the other night, there were several questioners well-oiled by highballs, and out came the hostilities in the form of tough queries about video:

A lady asked why there aren't any permanent women hosts of the late-night network talk shows. She added she wasn't passionate about the women's liberation movement, but simply thought it was a matter of equal opportunity employment.

A young executive, in his middle 20s, was interested mainly in what he called "the middle-aged complex of television." He said: "The men who run television are mostly white and middle-aged, so it's no surprise that key personnel up and down the line should reflect these basic attitudes. That goes for all kinds of programming. Bosses — especially corporate bosses — tend to see other achievers in terms of themselves."

What is interesting above all in the opinions of video watchers is that, even though they put down the medium sometimes or maintain they barely pay attention to it, they often reveal in the end that they are deeply concerned about television — for they realize its subtle effects on the lives of all of us. And out of this concern can come criticism that may be unpleasant but may also be worth considering.

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Today's hand illustrates a very simple, but important feature of bidding. It is that you should raise your partner's major-suit opening with three trumps even though he may have opened a four-card suit."

Jim: "This does not mean you always raise immediately, if your hand is strong enough you can afford to bid another suit first and raise your partner later. But if you plan to make just one bid it is better to raise the major suit with three trumps than bid a new suit."

Oswald: "Today's hand illustrates this clearly. South belongs in four hearts. With the club finesse right he will make 10 or 11 tricks, depending on whether East holds up on his ace of spades."

Jim: "When I watched this hand played, North responded one spade. South could find no better rebid than two hearts and North passed. He wasn't strong enough to raise to three."

Oswald: "If North had just raised directly to two hearts, South would have been able to jump right to game."

Jim: "Some reader will wonder what would have happened if South had bid on a four-card heart suit. The answer is that he would pass with a minimum and probably make his contract. With a big hand he probably would have found some bid other than four hearts and the partnership could have reached a better game contract if there was one."

Chas. Bruning Introduces New Proof Machine

A new semi-automatic, sheet fed electrostatic proofing machine has been introduced by the Charles Bruning Co., in Mount Prospect, a division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp.

The new Bruning 1300 proofer makes proofs from original artwork that is held in a fixed position under glass for security. Proof sizes range from 8-1/2x11 inches to 18x24 inches. The largest size proof is made and delivered into a jam-free hopper in 30 seconds. Its cost is 10 cents, including paper and toner. An 8-1/2x11 copy costs two and five tenths cents.

There are only two operating controls on the machine, a push button positioning guide and an exposure dial. Hand feeding of copy paper appropriate to the size of the original artwork automatically actuates the machine to produce a proof. Electrostatic copy paper is stored in trays and individual sheets are fed directly from them.

In addition, the new Bruning proofer will produce matte paper prints for offset reproduction with the same ease as a copy. An 18x24 inch offset matte plate costs 14 cents, including paper and toner, and will reproduce 150 printed copies or more.

The new Bruning 1300 electrostatic proofing machine is sold and serviced through some 70 Bruning branch offices located throughout the United States. It is priced at $8,750.

For more information on the new Bruning 1300 electrostatic proofer, write to Market Development Department, Charles Bruning Co., 1800 W. Central Road, Mount Prospect, Ill. 60066.

Teacher Salary Talks Too Slow

Salary negotiations in school districts used to be a speedy process, taking no more than a couple of months.

This year, however, negotiations in many of the districts which serve the northwest suburbs will drag towards the opening of the fall semester. Some of the negotiations have been in session since February or March.

Not only are the closed door sessions dragging on through the summer, individual sessions are taking longer. It is becoming common for the negotiating teams to adjourn at 3 or 4 a.m.

To date, only two area school districts — High School Dist. 211 (Palatine and Schaumburg Twp.) and Harper College — have set salary figures for the 1971-72 year. Both districts are to be commended for settling early.

The cost of drawn-out negotiations is considerable. First, board members do not receive a salary for the physically and mentally exhausting sessions. For both teachers and board members, the next day's performance on the job and in the classroom suffers.

Second, precise planning for budgets for the 1971-72 school year are hampered by late negotiations. The central problem is that teachers' salaries are the largest single item in the budget, thus delaying budget consideration.

Business managers can of course, project what they believe the settlement will be. However, it is much more orderly and more efficient to have a salary settlement in April or May.

Part of the reason for the extended sessions is that the stakes in negotiations are higher today, both in setting salary figures and determining what fringe benefits teachers shall have.

Negotiations have always been, in part, a game, a contest of wills. Today, both sides are realizing that a slip can mean a vital loss in a bargaining position. Thus, the contest includes stalling, hesitation and calculation — with skilled teachers and skilled board members on each side of the table.

Under the Illinois Open Meeting Law, school boards are permitted to negotiate in closed session. However, the choice in the matter is up to the school board.

One loser is the public, which must depend for its information on salary talks on just how willing each group is to talk about specific progress. In High School Dist. 214, for example, no specific progress reports are released to the press or public before a settlement is reached.

A preferable solution would be for the board and teachers to hold occasional press conferences to brief the public. The point is the fate of a considerable chunk of public money is being considered in a closed room; the public deserves a better examination of that process.

Such scrutiny would also speed the deliberations of board members and teachers alike. It is amazing what a bit of public visibility can do to speed such a process.

Rebuttal From Counselors

by TOM WELLMAN

I never get enough angry letters. Letters from the National Education Assn., Illinois Junior College Board and other assorted prestigious groups, yes. Angry letters from area residents who choose to pick apart my columns, no.

This past week, however, has been different. I received two well-written letters attacking a column of two weeks ago in which I described a report critical of the school counseling profession.

Too often there is a dangerous tendency

Education Report

cy among writers to not receive the feedback on critical but non-controversial issues. If a column is written on youthful smoking, the letters will flow in. On such matters as counseling, silence is expected.

The two writers, Merlin W. Schultz, coordinator of pupil services in Dist. 207 (Maine Twp.), and Bruce Welker, a counselor in Dist. 211 (Palatine and Schaumburg Twp.) have made different, but important, points which the public should know.

Schultz, also president of the Illinois Guidance and Personnel Assn., is zeroing in on Eli Ginzberg, the author of the study which is sharply critical of the abilities of school counseling.

"Eli Ginzberg, in my opinion, is one of the spokesmen who present the U.S. Department of Labor viewpoint. This is that counselors should be used solely for a bridge between market supply and demand for labor," he states.

Schultz is angry because he believes Ginzberg is stating a point of view which is only concerned with channeling students into jobs. He asserts, "Decision-making would be left more to the bureaucracy and counselor than to the individual."

He declares Ginzberg has no counseling background and that his view is solely that of the Labor Dept.: "It is all something like Henry Ford and his crusade for peace in World War I."

Welker's objection is that we quoted only a single study, "which uses statistics collected probably from a random national sample." Thus, there is the impression that local conditions are as bad as Ginzberg believes, Welker declares.

Welker further suggests that we visit Dist. 211 to examine its programs: "Please don't short-change the people of our community by giving them incomplete, invalid and irrelevant information."

Schultz's point is especially well-taken, as his criticisms have been echoed this week by others in the counseling field. One of Ginzberg's essential arguments after all, is that counseling is failing to adequately serve the job market.

Still, the darts Ginzberg tosses at counseling are desirable, especially if they can cause self-examination within the profession.

Any profession needs criticism, even though some of it may miss the target. There are excellent and poor counselors and programs in any school district; they need scrutiny both within the profession and by outsiders to stay "honest."

Worry Isn't Any Answer

In reading the letter "Population Key Problem," I began thinking, and it prompted me to write also to the Fence Post for the first time.

I hope all those people counting heads know what they are doing. Figuring out how many people will marry and produce children is great. Estimating everyone lives till 70 is nice, too.

Just today I read a man died in the village. Two years ago a neighbor 39 died. A 55-year-old woman died in Rolling Meadows and a famous lawyer 36 passed away. But then I suppose this doesn't cut in on our large population count by the experts. I have known young women whose lives have been ended not by little population controllers like smallpox or bubonic plague, but things like kidney disease, cancer and auto accidents. (Why these people? God only knows.) Why any doctor couldn't save them in their "know it all world," explanation for "everything," is beyond me.

I could go on and on — young kids dying of dope, babies being killed by dogs, policemen and people being murdered. It still doesn't add up to enough, huh? Well, I know every penny that's taken out of a bank makes a penny less, and if you don't replace it the bank eventually is emptied. I wonder and worry like everyone else, but is that living? It's best to take life day by day, do your best and, by God, have a little faith in God.

As the saying goes, with all the problems in the world today, wouldn't we all like to call it quits, but, as the old saying goes, "a winner never quits and a quitter never wins."

Jean S. Whalen
Elk Grove Village

Instruments Needed

With the oncoming closing of another school year, the Holmes Junior High School Music Boosters' Club would like to thank the Herald for the various items appearing in their publication regarding performances and concerts given by our band and orchestra.

Interest and support of our music program has been growing steadily in this relatively new school. The well-qualified directors, the Messrs. James Middleton (orchestra) and James Norton (band) have not only provided invaluable instruction and inspiration to each music student, whether beginner or advanced but have managed to sustain their continued interest in a sometimes burdensome chore of practice, practice, practice. We should like to extend to them our gratitude for their dedication, perseverance and patience. Their reward is the musically-enriched and oriented youngsters they have helped to develop — at a cost to themselves of countless hours — before, during and after school. We thank you, gentlemen!

It has been the hope of all those of us who have worked toward a solid music organization to build up an inventory of Band and Orchestra musical instruments, to be loaned out to students in the coming years, assisting those who possibly might find it financially impossible to otherwise rent an instrument in order to become a part of one or the other musical group.

We would like, at this time, to send out a plea to local residents: do any of our neighbors have any musical instruments stored away in the attic, spare closet, crawl space or garage — perhaps one that Aunt Maude or Uncle Henry played 'way back then — which they would like to donate to our Music Department — regardless of its condition. Any and all instruments would be repaired, and help bring music into a youngster's life. Instruments would be picked up at your home, and proper recognition of your contribution would be shown on each instrument.

If you have an instrument you would like to donate, please call Holmes Junior High School (437-1325), or Orchestra Director Jim Middleton (evenings at 253-7118).

Music is so much a part of our lives — can you help?

Mrs. Georgia Stepanek

Proper Recognition

I want to tell you how nice I thought your editorial (June 7) was regarding the retirement of Mrs. Dodge as postmistress. Many of us have taken her work for granted for many years, quick to complain or find fault but silent with praise or recognition.

Most of us would have been thoughtless in letting her departure go unnoticed, so it is a credit to you that you saw to it that she was given a proper sendoff. Thank you.

Have A Care, Libs

An offshoot of the women's lib movement, but not directly associated with it, is a new magazine called, appropriately enough, New Woman. Its stated aim is to elevate the status of women in general.

Male chauvinists may want to take a peek at the current, first issue. A pictorial presentation, "How to Undress in Front of Your Wife," starring a sort of hairy-chested playmate of the month, has the temerity to poke fun at those interesting centerfolds in certain men's magazines.

Write on, girls, but don't go too far. American men did not fight two World Wars for democracy and mom's apple pie, only to have their pinups parodied.

Better Protection For Forests

Lookout towers and observation planes, the traditional methods of forest fire detection, may soon be obsolete.

U.S. Forest Service researchers from Montana recently reported to a University of Michigan symposium that a new remote sensing forest fire detection system worked so well in a test last year that it is scheduled to replace 25 lookout towers in western Montana and northwestern Idaho.

The system, called "bispectral forest fire detection," involves an airplane equipped with Doppler radar, heat-sensitive infrared instruments and a rapid film processor to provide in-flight maps of surveyed areas.

The entire operation is contained in the aircraft. The information gathered is simply radioed to ground stations, which take appropriate firefighting action.

Tested for two months last summer in daily flights over an 8,000-square-mile area in Montana and Idaho, the system spotted small campfires from as high as 15,000 feet. Because it detects heat radiation, it discovered 44 wildfires before there were any visual signs of smoke or flame.

No only was the system faster and more dependable than observation from lookout towers and planes but it cost about $500,000 less to operate.

America Adrift, Its Spirit Sagging

U.S. Needs A Sense Of Direction

by BRUCE BLOSSAT

If Washington is the mirror of the nation, then Americans do not know where they are going — and may not even have a sense of just going.

You can blame a lot of this on President Nixon if you wish, but far from all of it. The Democratically controlled Congress isn't earning any points. Whatever this capital is producing, it is managing to seem quite unproductive.

Anybody who has ever talked to Nixon's men knows the President understands the need for some kind of uplifting of the American spirit. But at least one side quoted him as saying, with remarkable in-house candor, that he doubted he was the man to provide it.

Most of the time, Nixon hasn't bothered to invent slogans and labels to create an illusion of goals sought after. Playwright Eugene O'Neill's plays conveyed, in long, searing passages, that men live by illusions. In 1971, they're not even getting that kind of nourishment.

Of course, the President's State of the Union message spoke of a new American revolution. But nobody picked up the torch when he quickly explained that reorganizing the bureaucratic iceberg of government was a key part of the revolutionary charge.

Dean Acheson, the waspish former secretary of state, took care of that one when he huffed that, when you're engulfed in mediocrity, "it doesn't do any good to organize it."

To a steadily more distrustful citizenry, government appears to be a constantly thicker round rim with a hollow center. The rim rolls (that's action?), but it has an empty sound.

The President's people knew it was this way the minute they took office in 1969. They said flatly that faith in government, and presidents, could not be restored until something solid filled that hollow center.

Well, it hasn't happened. Does that mean that American life in the 1970s is ungovernable?

Today many of the country's major cities are considerably worse off than they were in the 1944-68 years, when riot and fire gutted their cores. Mayors are running around the land like crusaders, since it doesn't do them any good to sit home gesturing on mounting heaps of rubble.

Insight

They want massive infusions of money. The President, the men in Congress and lots of others know they need it. But the hard-nosed types like Wilbur Mills don't trust them to spend it well. Billions already have vanished beneath the rubble.

The liberals still talk glibly about new billions to "rebuild the cities." They really haven't the faintest idea how to do it or where to get the money. The big federal dollar avalanche is sliding toward the aged, the infirm, the poverty-ridden. The money sustains life, but doesn't make it — or the places where it is lived — much better.

With new plans like Sen. Edmund Muskie's being thrown into the mix, something passable may yet be worked out in revenue-sharing — with some sort of emphasis on funds for the fund-starved cities.

Economic indicators point upward, without being heartening. People wait anxiously for two which should move downward — inflation and unemployment. What we have is a busy recession that pleases few.

Where is the great thrust from the rising millions of young? Except for a handful (Ted Kennedy drumming on health care), the young in Congress either plod away unnoticed, or get erratic attention from emotional scatterfire.

Outside the government, many of the college young are reported numb with disillusionment that their sleep-walking "activism" leaves them in the same old well-trod valleys. Those with undimmed fire go on marching and shouting, with some venting their rage on trash cans, and spray-painting their hates on walls they do not know how to bring down.

A child knows there is plenty of the world's work to be done. What we don't have are people to tell us what work — and make us want to do it.

Business Today

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese government has approved a $100 million deal between Chrysler Corp., America's third-largest automobile manufacturer, and Mitsubishi Motors, the No. 3 car maker in Japan.

It was the Japanese government's first approval of U. S. investment in Japan's automobile industry, which is second in the world only to Detroit.

The agreement was approved by the foreign investment council, an advisory unit of the finance ministry. The ministry customarily follows the council's recommendations in issuing its final ruling.

Chrysler will purchase 35 per cent of the Mitsubishi stock for $100 million during the next three years. Mitsubishi will sell its cars in the United States through the Chrysler sales network, and Chrysler will distribute its products in Japan through Mitsubishi.

Similar investment plans are expected to be approved later this year between General Motors and Isuzu, which specializes in trucks and buses, and between Ford and Toyo Kogyo, which builds rotary-engine cars.

Mitsubishi wants to catch up with Japan's two biggest auto makers and importers, Toyota and Nissan.

GENERAL MOTORS Corp. is recalling 19,000 trucks and 900 school buses to correct possible safety defects.

In accidents involving some of the vehicles, a total of 50 to 55 persons were injured, GM said. No fatalities were reported.

There were 101 clutch failures in the trucks and buses, a company spokesman said.

The vehicles recalled were medium and heavy-duty GMC trucks and rear-engine school buses produced in the 1960 through 1965 model years. Some or all of them may require replacement of the 14-inch flywheel and single-plate clutch assembly, GM said.

It was the third time this year that GM has recalled school buses.

Business Climate Helped State In '70, Report Says

We Didn't Feel Full Economy Pinch

A broad-based economy coupled with an excellent business climate insulated Illinois from some of the unfavorable effects of the nationwide economic slowdown in 1970.

This was one of the findings of the Illinois Commission for Economic Development in a comprehensive report recently presented to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and members of the Illinois General Assembly.

The commission, comprised of state legislators and businessmen, is an advisor to the Department of Business and Economic Development and sponsors legislation designed to improve the economic climate in Illinois. It also conducts independent research and holds hearings on subjects pertinent to the state's economic development.

According to the report, the state's diverse economy operated as effectively in the economic downturn as in a rising economy and acted as a buffer to soften the impact of drastic cutbacks in several major industrial segments of the economy. Other states, as an example, suffered up to 35 per cent employment reduction in defense-related manufacturing industries between December, 1967 and June, 1970. A proximity to markets, an abundant supply of natural and human resources, and a strategic location as the transportation hub of the nation, all worked to create a favorable economic climate in Illinois, the report said.

THE COMMISSION'S report lists a number of economic indicators. Despite the national economic slowdown, Illinois posted a 64 per cent increase in capital expenditures in plant investment over 1969. A total of 473 new plants and plant expansions were announced in 1970. This represents a capital investment, exclusive of machinery and equipment, of $971.5 million. Because Illinois industry was not hit as hard, initially, as other areas it is projected to expand more slowly than the rest of the nation. In 1971, the state's growth pattern is projected to be more of a normal rather than a recovery type.

The commission recommends that the state provide financial assistance to help develop Illinois ports, and warns that unless support is given to these ports, water traffic will be diverted to ports in more aggressive states. The group also recommends that the General Assembly appropriate $1 million in fiscal 1972 to establish a waterborne capital improvement matching fund for regional port districts.

Illinois generated $2.9 billion in total exports in the 1969-70 shipping season. Total value of exports drawn from Chicago and the state, plus the surrounding states, shipped through the Seaport of Chicago in 1969, was $353 million.

The commission urges the General Assembly to actively consider creation of a State of Illinois Department of Transportation. The department would streamline and coordinate the many independent transportation functions. The department would be responsible for planning and implementation for air, highways, corridor rail service and mass transportation. The department would also be empowered to deal with the federal government and participate in its many transportation programs.

In order to meet the commitments of the report's proposals, the Commission for Economic Development notes it will be necessary to appropriate state revenues. The commission emphasizes that such appropriations should be considered an investment in the economic development of the state.

Utilities Pool Efforts To Find New Coal Fuel

The three major Chicago area gas and electric utilities, together with four downstate utilities, have signed an agreement to form a unit to use Illinois' coal reserves to produce a sulfur-free fuel to meet the state's growing energy needs.

The effort, the first of its kind in Illinois, has been proposed in response to an Illinois Commerce Commission request for utilities to investigate the conversion of coal into a fuel with qualities similar to natural gas.

If approved by the ICC, the group, which serves more than 90 per cent of Illinois gas and electric development of economically feasible coal gasification in Illinois.

Chicago area participating companies are Commonwealth Edison Co., Northern Illinois Gas Co., The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co.-North Shore Gas Co. Downstate companies are Central Illinois Light Co., Central Illinois Public Service Co., Illinois Power Co., and Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co.

The group will be organized and governed by an advisory board, which will include a representative from each participating utility. It will try to determine the usefulness of coal gas production, compare the feasibility of various coal gasification processes and study environmental aspects of the processes and potential plant sites.

Personal Finance

by RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

In ancient Greece you could always go to the oracle at Delphi for the answers to imponderable questions.

It's too bad the oracle went out of business. Most of us would appreciate a source of answers for some of life's tougher questions. Something like: "How much life insurance is enough?"

In today's world, we have to devise our own answers, so we look around for a clue. One of the more ancient is something like: "Five times your annual income." You don't have to be very experienced to know that this certainly won't fit everybody.

BUT THERE IS a formula that may work for you, simply because it includes a number of variables that can be adjusted to your own circumstances. It's called the "CRE 60-40-60." Here's how it works:

The first letter, "C," stands for cash for immediate needs — burial costs, minor debts, and the like. When you're figuring this amount, remember that Social Security will probably provide $25 for this purpose. And most veterans are eligible for another $250.

The "R" stands for "readjustment money, funds to keep the family going until they can make long-range plans. This will be hard to figure, but three or four months salary is not unreasonable.

The "E" is for an educational fund for the children, and this is where the going gets tough. It depends on the costs of higher education at some future date.

You'll just have to guess, based on the fact that it takes some $16,000 right now to put a kid through four years at many schools.

The remaining figures, 60-40-60, are percentages of your current income. For example:

It's assumed that a family will be able to live on three-fifths of the husband's current income as the children mature. This 60 per cent needn't all come from insurance, however.

IN A FAMILY now earning $850 a month, a wife and two minor children could qualify for Social Security payments of about $345 per month if the husband dies at 45. Any SS office can provide a table that will show how much your family could expect.

The 40-per cent figure applies to a lifetime income for the widow. This is rated at two-fifths of the husband's current pay. Remember that Social Security payments to her will stop when the youngest child reaches the age of 18, and she won't be eligible for any more until she reaches 60.

The final 60 per cent is supposed to cover your own retirement needs. Notice, however, that if you live long enough to retire, your insurance won't have been used for the purposes outlined above, since they assume that the breadwinner will die young.

Social Security, pensions, investments, and other kinds of income will all come into play at this point too.

As best one can tell, CRE 60-40-60 seems to be fairly realistic as a goal. It is certainly better than buying policies blindly.

RELEASING A Washington hawthorn from the jaws of a crane, a workman begins transplanting one of 250 trees being placed in Woodfield Mall parking areas.

Woodfield Mall Shop Center Will Have Full-Grown Trees

Full-grown trees are sprouting in the parking lot of Woodfield Mall, as the shopping center approaches the final phase of construction.

About 100 trees, with diameters of seven to eight inches, already have been transplanted at the center, and 150 smaller trees are being placed.

The honey locust, ash, silver maple, linden, Russian olive, Washington hawthorn, flowering crabapple and pine will be placed with low evergreens, small flowering shrubs, ground cover and flowers. Grundstrom Company of Glenview is doing the work.

The plantings require special treatment, said A. W. Kicket of the Grundstrom firm. "Because the subsoil is compacted for the parking lot, water doesn't drain off," he explained. Before the trees can be planted, a foot of gravel is placed in the trench and a strip of thick yellow fiber glass covers the gravel, to keep soil from penetrating into the gravel.

After the tree is in place, topsoil fills the trench to grade level.

"A double row of 35-foot high trees leads to the entrance to Marshall Field and Co. We call it Queen's Walk," said Kicket.

Grundstrom will have men working at the center throughout the summer, grading, sodding and installing ground cover. Though the mall will be completely air-conditioned, with fountains, sculpture, plantings and pools all inside, even the approach to it will be in keeping with the interior, said Kicket.

2nd Suspect Surrenders In Train-Stealing Case

A second Palatine man indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of stealing and transporting a locomotive of the Chicago and Northwestern Ry. March 18 surrendered himself to FBI authorities Friday after a warrant had been issued Thursday for his arrest.

Rory Miezio, 20, of 429 Hellen, was released on a $4,000 recognizance bond after appearing before U.S. Marshal authorities for two offenses involving theft of a train.

Nick Fanelli, 18, also of Palatine, was arrested Thursday on the same charges as those leveled against Miezio. Fanelli is still in the custody of the U.S. Marshall, being held at Cook County Jail. A $75,000 bond has been set for him.

FANELLI and Miezio are charged with having stolen a locomotive in Crystal Lake and taking it to Lake Geneva, Wis., where the engine was found damaged. Chicago and North Western officials have estimated damage to the train at $300,000.

Their charge of violation of federal train wreck statutes calls for a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and/or 20 years in prison. Interstate transportation of stolen property carries a maximum penalty of $10,000 and/or 10 years in prison.

According to FBI authorities, no court date has yet been set for the two men on the charges.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My daughter is very nervous around people and therefore perspires quite heavily. We have tried everything on the market, deodorants and antiperspirants, but nothing seems to work. Is there any medical treatment for this problem?

Dear Reader — Sweating from nervousness is fairly common. There are two types of sweat glands and there are over two million of them on the surface of the body. The common type of sweat gland produces a weak saltwater solution that has no odor. They are located everywhere on the body except the lips and part of the sex organs.

The other sweat glands are really sex glands and don't develop until puberty. There are a few of these under the arms, over the abdomen, around the thighs and buttocks region. They form a milky-like fluid with an unobjectionable odor. Orientals form very little of this material, Caucasians more and Negroes still more.

The common sweat glands produce one to three pints of sweat a day and respond to heat or nerve stimulation. More sweat is not formed under the arms, there is simply less opportunity for the sweat to evaporate as rapidly as it does elsewhere.

The odor from sweating is caused by a breakdown of products from the sex sweat gland or from bacterial action. If ordinary sweat is stored and kept free of bacteria it will remain odorless. The methods used to prevent body odor are efforts to remove the perspiration, to prevent bacterial action and to limit the amount of sweat formed.

Most deodorants or anti-perspirants contain substances to prevent bacterial action and prevent secretion of sweat.

Medicine taken by mouth is usually reserved for individuals who have true excessive sweating problems. These medicines block the chemical action of the nerves to the sweat glands. They are the same medicines used to prevent the nerve stimulation of the formation of acid pepsin in the stomach.

The problem your daughter has suggests that she needs to gain confidence in herself. Sometimes this comes with time and experience to people. If it is a real problem for her, she might do well to get some psychiatric help to gain confidence. There are a lot of people who have the problem of excessive nervousness around other people. There couldn't be much better proof that people are actually afraid of people. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Regard the pupfish, a denizen of the Death Valley area for 20,000 years whose career is now being jeopardized by irrigation projects.

Although only an inch long and seemingly poorly equipped to endure the hardships of this cruel world, the pupfish has amazed scientists with its ability to survive in desert waterholes.

Students of the pupfish say the way it adapts to rigorous conditions of widely varying extremes may provide some pointers that will help man adjust to his own increasingly hostile environment.

I have, I'll admit, spent very little time studying the pupfish myself. But even I can see that man might have something to learn from it. So I wish to associate myself with the save-the-pupfish movement.

The pupfish is sort of piscatorial quick change artist who makes speedy evolutionary modifications in response to environmental alterations.

To a layman, at least, it appears this is the secret we must learn from the pupfish. Our own survival may well depend on developing a knack for rapid mutations as our environment deteriorates. The human nose, for example, needs major readjustment.

The nose of the future, as I envision it, would be three or four inches in diameter, something like the nozzle of a gas mask.

Across the aperture we need to grow a highly effective membrane capable of filtering out tear gas accidentally inhaled while police are breaking up protest demonstrations.

If the nose filter also eliminates noxious exhaust fumes released from getaway cars speeding from the scenes of bank robberies, so much the better.

For women, there would evolve a marsupial-like pouch dangling from the forearm where purses presently are carried.

The purpose of this appendage would be to foil purse-snatchers, who are becoming evermore commonplace in our environment.

Once the evolutionary pace gets in high gear, both sexes will acquire bioluminescent skin that glows in the dark like fireflies and risque neckties.

Thus will homo sapiens attain the facility for remaining in visual contact with each other during the midsummer blackouts caused by electric power shortages.

These are only a few of the survival tricks man might learn from the pupfish. And the lessons should begin immediately. For our environment gets more like a desert waterhole every day.

Racing Attention Centers On Saturday's Grand Prix

With the renewals of the Kentucky Derby, Pimlico Preakness, Jersey Derby and Belmont Stakes packed away in the record books for this season, major interests among owners and trainers with the leading three-year-old thoroughbreds, now centers on the first running of the $100,000 added Pontiac Grand Prix, the mile event for sophomores to be raced at Arlington Park Race Course next Saturday, June 19.

When nominations for the Grand Prix closed last week, the list of eligibles for the richly endowed event included the leading three-year-olds in North America, such as William A. Levins Bold Reason: Kosgrove Stables Bold Reasoning; Edgar Calbett's Canonero II; Calumet Farm's Eastern Fleet; Gem State Stable's Fast Fellow; Peter Fuller's Northern Jove; Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French; Greenbriar Stable's Mr. Pow Wow; Annette Mann's Staunch Avenger; Pasorale Stable's Twist the Axe; and October House Farm's Pass Catcher.

The Grand Prix replaces in name only the Arlington Classic, which was first contested at Arlington Park in 1929 when it was won by Blue Larkspur with Mack Garner in the irons.

In addition to Blue Larkspur, other great thoroughbreds such as Gallant Fox, Mate, Gusto, Cavalade, Omaha, Granville, Flying Scot, Chaledon, Attention, Shut Out, Twilight Year, Papa Redbird, Ponder, Native Dancer, Errard King, Nashua, Swoon's Son, Dunce, T. V. Lark, Rldan, Candy Spots, Tosmah, Buckpasser, Dr. Fager and Ack Ack tasted the sweetness of victory in the Arlington Classic.

Last season, which marked the last running of the Arlington Classic, the fix-ture was won by Corn Off the Cob, who defeated Tenacious and George Lewis.

Gallant Fox in 1930 and Omaha in 1935 both climaxed their Triple Crown victories with sterling triumphs in the Arlington Classic. Whirlaway, Triple Crown winner in 1941, finished second to Attention when he attempted to add the Classic to his victory skein.

Three winners of the Arlington Classic, Tom Rolfe, (1965), Buckpasser, (1966), and Dr. Fager, (1967) went on to be voted "Horse of the Year."

With the exception of Canonero II, whose owners have decided to ship back to Venezuela, after the colt's defeat in the Belmont Stakes, the Pontiac Grand Prix field could very well develop into one of the greatest array of three-year-old talent to go postward this season.

Pass Catcher, upset winner of the Belmont Stakes, knocking over Jim French, Bold Reason and Canonero II in his feat, is coming here for his engagement in the Grand Prix. Trainer Eddie Yowell, one-time jockey, now a successful conditioner of thoroughbreds, is ready to prove that Pass Catcher's surprise triumph in the Belmont was no fluke. Jockey Walter Blum, a favorite over the years with Chicago racing patrons, will be up astride Pass Catcher in the Pontiac Grand Prix.

Kosgrove Stable's Bold Reasoning, undefeated in seven lifetime starts, including his latest score, victory in the $134,400 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park, May 31, is another three-year-old expected to be seen in action in the Grand Prix.

Trained by Nick Gonzales, Bold Reasoning has improved with each start. Unraced as a two-year-old due to injuries, Bold Reasoning has performed in brilliant style as a sophomore this year.

Winning his first lifetime start, March 8 at Gulfstream Park, defeating Chevrone and Bold Cadet, a six furlongs dash in 1:00 2/5, the Kosgrove Stable colt has been unbeatable.

Bold Reasoning, a Beldnesian-Reason To Earn, by Hall to Reason colt, was purchased as a yearling by his present owners for $15,000. He won his first three outings at Gulfstream Park this spring. Bold Reasoning was the first home in the Withers Mile, defeating Highbinder and Salem at Aqueduct, May 8. His lifetime earnings to date have hit $152,160.

Another Grand Prix entrant, Jim French, owned by Frank J. Caldwell, a furniture man from Syosset, L.I., N. Y. has earned a total of $317,168 in purse awards since he first went to the races, July 24, 1970 in a maiden juvenile event at Aqueduct.

Jim French, second in the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes and third in the Pimlico Preakness Stakes, is the first thoroughbred owned by Caldwell.

Calumet Farm, the non-de-course of Mrs. Gene Markey, has nominated two thoroughbreds for the Pontiac Grand Prix, Eastern Fleet and Sun Ange.

It is expected that Calumet's trainer Reggie Cornell will start Eastern Fleet to carry the famed colors of the stable in the Grand Prix.

Eastern Fleet, a strapping bay colt by Fleet Nasrullah-Amoret, by Bull Lea II, won the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park, March 27, defeating Executioner and Jim French. He followed with an impressive second to Good Behaving in the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct, April 17. Eastern Fleet was fourth to Canonero II, Jim French and Bold Reason in the Kentucky Derby and was second to the Derby winner in the Preakness. In the Jersey Derby he was fourth.

Twist The Axe, is a good looking chestnut colt by The Axe II-Twisterette by Swoon's Son, was third to Bold Reasoning and Pass Catcher in this year's running of the Jersey Derby, beaten less than a length and a half for the top prize. He was unplaced in both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Twist the Axe is owned by Pastoral Stable, Property of Mrs. George Headley, the former Barbara Whitney, sister of C. Vanderbilt Whitney.

The Pontiac Grand Prix could very well rate as one of the leading three-year-old races of 1971. The winner could very well be acclaimed as the top sophomore of the season.

TIED HAND. Chicago Cub catcher J. C. Martin must have gotten a tired right hand as he signed numerous autographs at Henry's Drive-In Thursday. Martin is having one of his best seasons in his major league career as he has been hitting around the .300 mark for much of the campaign.

Sayre 15th In Decathlon

Tom Sayre of Arlington Heights finished 15th in a field of 24 athletes in the recent Illinois State Decathlon event held by the Des Plaines Park District.

Sayre scored 3675 points. The winner, Bill Uecker of Elmhurst, scored 5150 to edge Don Usary of LaGrange.

Sayre's top performance in the 10-event competition was the discus where he took a first win with a flip of 144-10.

Dixon, Artemenko Honored

Wes Dixon (Fremd) and Bob Artemenko (Elk Grove) were both named to the second team on the Big Ten all-conference baseball selections announced by the coaches. Dixon played in the outfield for the University of Illinois and Artemenko was a pitcher and shortstop for Northwestern. He was named as a shortstop.

Troy Most Valuable

David Troy of Hoffman Estates has been named most valuable in track and field at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. Also receiving a letter was Mark Aggerbeck of Palatine.

St. Olaf enjoyed exceptional success in spring competition, winning Midwest Conference championships in track, baseball and golf and finishing in the runnerup slot in tennis.

Wulbecker All-Conference

Mike Wulbecker, freshman centerfielder from Arlington Heights, a member of the 1971 Northwest Missouri State College baseball team, has been named to the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association Coaches' All-Conference first team.

Selected at a meeting of the loop mentors in Springfield, the Bearcat of Coach John Barnes is a member of a 12-man All-MIAA diamond squad.

League champion Central Missouri State placed five men on the squad. Southwest Missouri State had three first team picks, Northwest Missouri State the above two, and Northeast and Rolla one each.

Wulbecker, who played every inning of every game in Northwest Missouri's 36-game schedule, led the team in hitting (.333), led in hits (38), led in runs (19), paced the team in RBI's (23), doubles (7), stolen bases (12), and innings played (225).

Harrelson A 'Thin Cat'

Give Bud Harrelson three good meals, then put him on the scale and the indicator still never reaches 155 pounds. He has played for the New York Mets as low as 142 and he did something of a double-take last winter when, after the club won it all the year before and then slipped to third, some people began calling the players "fat cats."

"How," laughs the Mets' wafer-thin shortstop, "could anybody ever call me that."

Horse Race Industry: Is It A Losing Bet?

"There are members of the racing industry who are like the horse-and-buggy people who opposed the Model T. They sit in their ivory towers and don't even know people ride subways. They should come to New York and see how we're bringing racing to the man-in-the-delicatessen. They can't learn the facts of life hiding behind bluegrass."

-A New York State OFF-Track Betting Corp. spokesman, by LEE MUELLER

LOUISVILLE — (NEA) — The chilling disdain with which horse industry society regards the man-in-the-delicatessen is well-established. Something about owning a horse seems to bring out the snob in humans. But life in the ivory tower these days is not what it was.

When the price of the racing newspaper, Morning Telegraph, went up from 75 cents to $1 recently, one of the better-known horse farms, Rokeby Stables in Virginia, cut its stable area circulation from two to one.

And when the Florida Turf Writers Assn. was putting together the program for its annual banquet several weeks ago, some farms which usually buy two advertisements purchased only one this time.

Now, only a few weeks after the highway department decided to construct an interstate roadway through historic Calumet Farm near Lexington, long-time horseman P. A. B. Widener III is selling his Rebels Retreat Farm in the Bluegrass section and moving to Montana. He says social progress is gradually going to get rid of the horse.

"It's just an economic fact of life," he says. "What is happening won't destroy the big stables, not the big 2 per cent, but the little man in racing is going to suffer."

"As affluence goes up, menial jobs tend to suffer. You have to look after horses 365 days a year and there are fewer and fewer people who want to do that. Nobody wants to be an exercise boy any more. Did you know they have machines now that walk horses?"

"There are 27,000 foals every year in this country. More and more horses and fewer and fewer people who are able to care for them."

Most horse farms are built around the tax advantages they offer wealthy owners. But the recession has leaped the white fences surrounding many farms. Rising expenses — it costs about $25 a day to stable a horse in New York, $18 in Maryland and $16 in Kentucky — are forcing all but a few to operate at a loss.

"The toughest thing about the situation," said Kelso Sturgeon, a former Pimlico Race Course official, "is convincing people that everybody in the horse business is not rich. People don't have the money they used to. They can't afford the luxuries any more and, unfortunately, horses are luxuries."

To make matters worse — or, at least, seem worse — one of the facts of life is that New York's off-track betting organization has handled more than $10 million since April, when horse players began betting in such pedestrian hangouts as Grand Central Station. The OTB office says it expects to produce $25 million in tax revenue for New York next year and predicts all 28 states where pari-mutuel betting is legal will follow its lead within the next five years.

Here in Kentucky — and throughout the cloistered walkways of the horse industry — the news is about as welcome as a barn fire.

Not only does OTB cut down on track attendance, they say, but under its current setup the organization does not share its receipts with horse owners (as do tracks) and gives only 1 per cent to the track. There is an OTB-sponsored bill in front of the New York State Legislature which would give horsemen one-half of 1 per cent of receipts, but the amount is generally considered better suited for feeding chickens than horses.

"The only things wrong with racing are politicians and taxes," said Sturgeon. "They won't give horsemen a chance or the tracks much of a chance. I know there's going to be a lot of bankrupt race tracks in the next few years."

Racing appears second enough now: The Keeneland and Saratoga yearling sales, always a barometer for economic conditions in the industry, averaged only a few dollars below record prices last summer at $30,152 per horse.

"There's no lack of investment or enthusiasm," said a spokesman for the Thoroughbred Breeders of Kentucky in Lexington. "There is turnover, of course. This is true in all businesses. But except for some isolated cases, I don't see any mass exists."

P. A. B. Widener III, however, now plans to race his remaining horses only in France and Ireland. "France has raised its purses so that they're the highest in the world," he said. "I can race 3 1/2 times in France for the price of one race here and all you have to do is win once a year to make money."

Another attraction about France, incidentally, is that it has national off-track betting and the government shares its receipts generously with horsemen and tracks.

Ireland also subsidizes racing to some extent and the Soviet Union produces all of its race horses on state-owned farms. Eventually, says Widener, it might come to that in the United States.

"The way it's going, there will have to be some drastic changes or the government will have to get into the horse business," he said.

Most horsemen find this idea absolutely revolting, especially the larger, older racing families which have spent generations and mountains of money developing such esoteric considerations as breeding and bloodlines.

"If that's what they want," snorted Leslie Combs II, "they might as well run dog races."

Combs' Spendthrift Farm, one of the largest stables in the country, is thriving, so his views on the future of racing naturally differ somewhat from Widener's.

"I think it's very bright," he said. "If we keep going, we'll get rid of the people who are using racing as a tax dodge."

Combs and Widener and most other racing people, however, are alike in their disapproval of New York's off-track betting setup.

"They're making a big mistake in New York," Combs said. "It's all being handled very badly. They're grabbing for everything up there. They should realize that the people who are putting on the show have to maintain the places to show it." And then, as an afterthought:

"If there is any way to kill the sport, the politicians will do it."

Most men-in-the-delicatessen-type people, however, appear not so attached to horse racing as to its gambling aspect. If racing dies in America, it has been pointed out, there will still be things to bet on. (New York OTB czar Howard Samuels mentions pro football, for one.)

"Only a few would miss racing," said Kelso Sturgeon. "I love the sport, but we all would survive without it. I don't know. Maybe I'd play more golf."

Broken Wood Is Gagnon's Secret

No. 1 woods are not too popular these days but with Chuck Gagnon it was his favorite club. However, Chuck will have to manage without his driver. It broke last Monday night and only his foursome in the Union Oil Men's Golf League knows whether he hit the ball and other details of the swing.

The League plays at Palatine Hills on Monday and Tuesday nights where Lew Mehl banged in a low gross of 39 and low net of 32 Tuesday. Nets of 32 were also shot by Paul Benrud and Chuck Lennon on Monday night play. Benrud's gross was 42, Lennon's 49.

Close behind was Bill Huston on Monday and Waldo Engelbrecht on Tuesday, both with 33s.

Monday golfers knocked out 45 pars with Tom Kelly getting a bird on 3 and Denny Sbarboro on the 15th. On Tuesday Gepe (Pop) LeClaire birdied the 8th hole as did Mehl. Lee LeClaire poured one home on the 14th.

BRACKET LEADERS at the completion of Monday play are No. 1, Demis Harrod with 10 points; No. 2, Bob Broome, 14 points; No. 3, Bill Herchline with 10 points; No. 4, Bob Wagner, 9 points.

Team 10 holds a 1 1/2 point lead over the second place Team 4. The field is bunched with six teams within 10 points of the leaders.

Tuesday night bracket leaders are No. 1, Gene LeClaire, 8 1/2 points; 2, Don Wickert, 9 1/2 points; 3, Charles Schiavi, 12; and 4, Don Christoffel, 12 points.

Three point winners Tuesday night were Dean Shumate, Mehl, Engelbrecht and Rod Johnson. Monday night 3-point winners were Hank Vrielink, Huston, Benrud and Lennon.

Peekel Pitches Palatine Past Coral Sea's Legion

by LARRY EVERHART

By now, Rick Peekel should have a new nickname — "Goose Egg."

That was all he would allow the opposition Saturday for his second straight outing as Palatine's American Legion baseball team opened its Ninth District season with a crisp 2-0 conquering of Coral Sea on a hot, muggy day at Fremd High School.

Peekel didn't seem to mind the sauna bath-type conditions as he allowed just four hits and three walks while striking out six. He was never in real trouble against the league's newest addition from Chicago.

The way Peekel has been going, Palatine fielders can relax when he's on the hill. He opened the Legion season by narrowly missing a no-hitter after being 4-0 with Fremd in the spring with a 1.25 earned-run average, best of any starting hurler in the league.

Two hits each by center fielder Dave Hauswirth and right fielder Mike Honel paced Palatine's six-hit attack. Both of the winners' runs were unearned against Mike Guadagno, who pitched three and two-thirds innings before being relieved by Don Woods.

Palatine's lineup, which included six players from Conant High School, played errorless ball in claiming their fourth victory in five outings.

Honel doubled to lead off the second inning, the first of a pair of two-baggers for him, and went to third on a passed ball but was stranded.

Both runs scored in quick succession in the third inning. After two outs and no runners on, Hauswirth and Bill Arkus singled. When Arkus' hit eluded the center fielder and rolled all the way to the fence, both runners scored.

There were no more uprisings the rest of the way and the lead was secure in the hands of "Goose Egg" Peekel.

All boys who did not play in 1970 must be accompanied by their parent(s) on registration day and must bring their birth or baptismal certificate as proof of age.

All boys must be weighed on the official MPMFA scale before the practice season starts. The official weigh-ins will be held on Saturday, July 17, 31 and August 7. Boys who played in 1970 as well as new boys must weigh-in on the weigh-in days. Boys will not be allowed to begin practice unless they have weighed in on the official scale.

The league will start play on Sunday, Sept. 12 and will continue for seven consecutive Sundays.

All girl cheer leaders, ages 8 through 14, are requested to also register on this late date. Registration will cost $4.00 for each girl and an additional $2.00 for each sister, payable at their sign-up date. Girls that did not cheerlead in 1970 must bring their birth or baptismal certificate as proof of age.

Prospective cheerleader mothers and girls can call Mrs. Dolores Uddenberg — President of the Women's Auxiliary (Phone: 392-7522) or Mrs. Lynne Bennett — Director of Special Events (Phone: 392-5619) for additional information.

THE GREASER. Louis Buccelli of Arlington Heights drives the "Greaser," a Dodge Dart 69 GTS, in competition at the Great Lakes Dragway in Union Grove, Wis. A cabinet maker by profession, Buccelli is owner and driver of the car while Mike Buccelli is the mechanic. Larry Grossman is another partner in the racing team.

Bainbridge Apartments Moves Into 2nd Place

Des Plaines Volkswagen holds a slim lead over Bainbridge Apartments in the Friday Night Golf League at Mount Prospect Country Club.

Bainbridge moved into second place last week by picking up eight points from Willie Inc. There is a red-hot race for the top seven positions with less than five points separating those seven teams.

Low gross honors in most recent play went to Bainbridge's Erv Stokes with a 40 on the par-35 front nine. Teammate George Powlick captured low net with 33 on the same nine. Combined low gross and low net was earned by alternate Al Smith with respective totals of 45 and 36 on the par-36 back nine.

Birdies were shot by Carl Campbell on the 12th hole, Don Campbell on the 14th and 17th, and Smith, Dick Skoog and Burt Hillstrom, all on the 18th.

Louie's Rebounds, Slaps Keefe's In Tuesday Play

After their very temporary setback of last week, Louie's Barber Shop re-established themselves as the team to beat in the Tuesday division of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League as they put together another of their top-heavy specialties, a 9 1/2-1/2 victory over Keefe's Pharmacy.

Chuck Dresser and Gene Raasch with identical 38's. Other low shooters were Kermy LeMay and Ed Laing, with 39's.

Low net honors went to Dave Kluxdall with a 50 gross, 30 net, and Roy Stobe with a 48 gross, 30 net.

Birdies were reported by H. Patton No. 1, H. Jauch No. 3, E. Laing and C. Dresser No. 5, C. Pellino and R. Werdel No. 13, A. Raab No. 15, E. Spletzer and D. Snyder No. 17.

Team standings July 8:

The comeback was timely and most satisfactory, coming as it did against second place challenger Keefe's Pharmacy. The resounding defeat dumped Keefe's into third place, and moved Louie's 10 1/2 points in front of the near second place team, Mount Prospect Electric Construction Co.

The Barber Shop team has now won four matches and tied one. Their point accumulation is 42 1/2 points out of a possible 50, one of the best early season records in league history.

New second place team, Mount Prospect Electric Construction earned their way to the new slot by defeating Mount Prospect State Bank 8-2, with Keefe's big point loss giving them an assist.

Krusse's Tavern moved up one position in the standings in spite of losing a close one to Illinois Range 4 1/2-5 1/2 as Busse-Biermann Hardware dropped back a notch after their 7-3 defeat by Kersting Garden Center.

In the remaining matches, George L. Busse edged Light's Paint Store 5 1/2-4 1/2, and Shuey Music Center showed further signs of coming to life as they trimmed Kirchhoff Insurance 6-4.

Female Disorders and Their Causes

How to Combat Excess Fatigue

Not so very long ago, ailments involving the female reproductive system just weren't talked about.

Euphemisms disguised the facts. Words like uterus, breast, and vagina weren't "nice." Even pregnancy was referred to obliquely; the woman was "in the family way."

The result: Misinformation or none at all, and thus unnecessary suffering and deaths which could have been prevented.

Today's woman is different. She knows a great deal about the functions of her own body, and she has learned that there is nothing shameful about "female disorders."

Here's an up-to-date review designed for the further enlightening of today's women — and men as well.

Q—Why are some women tired all the time?

A—Excessive fatigue is not normal, and the reasons should be sought out and the trouble corrected. Some women bleed more heavily with menstrual periods than they realize, and are chronically anemic. Others have decreased thyroid functions. Both conditions can be checked by laboratory tests, and can usually be corrected without delay.

Q—What causes bleeding between menstrual periods?

A—Very often a woman will have a slight bleeding episode at the time the egg is released from the ovary — a process called ovulation, which usually occurs about two weeks before the next expected menstrual period. However, this is not always the cause. It may be due to polyps, an overgrowth of glandular tissue in the lower part of the uterus, or occasionally as a side effect of birth control pills. Although this is usually not serious, it may possibly be due to a form of malignancy, and should be checked by a physician.

Q—Why do some women become nervous and irritable before menstruation?

A—Primarily because of retention of body fluids, with consequent bloating, irritability, headaches, weight gain, sick headaches and nervousness. This is made worse if there is an increased intake of carbonated beverage and salt, including the salt which comes in many prepared foods. It can be alleviated by cutting down on this intake, and by the use of diuretics, which stimulate the excretion of fluids. Diuretics, however, should always be taken as prescribed by the physician.

Q—Why do some women have menstrual cramps?

A—This condition, called dysmenorrhea, is not necessarily a sign of disorder. Many normal girls who have never been pregnant will have a certain amount of cramping which can be controlled by exercise and mild analgesics, and even diuretics. If the cramping is exceptionally severe, it can usually be controlled by inhibiting ovulation. Sometimes, girls who marry late and conceive later in life develop what is called endometriosis, or cysts on the ovaries or in the pelvis. It was once necessary to remove these surgically, but today the majority of these patients can be kept comfortable through hormone therapy.

Q—Why does a normally regular woman occasionally have a late menstrual period?

A—If this happens occasionally, it is not abnormal. It is usually due to a deviation in the cycle of the ovaries, whose hormones control the menstrual cycle. A cycle can be upset by emotional stress, a fleeting ovarian cyst, or unknown but presumably normal causes.

Q—Why do some women always have an irregular cycle?

A—Usually the doctor doesn't know. However, if there is no other abnormality associated with the condition, and if the irregularity does not interfere with the patient's desire to achieve or avoid pregnancy, it should not be considered abnormal.

Q—What causes pain in the pelvic area?

A—There are numerous causes, including the eruption of the egg from the ovary at mid-cycle, or to temporary ovarian cysts. However, pelvic pain can signal a serious abnormality and should always be checked by the physician, particularly if it is associated with fever.

Q—Why do some women never become pregnant?

A—About 20 per cent of all married couples who want to become parents find it necessary to seek medical help. About half of these situations can be corrected. Both husband and wife should be checked, because the problem is sometimes his, rather than hers. His fertility can be determined by a semen analysis. Her general health should be evaluated; then it should be determined whether her ovaries produce ova (eggs), and that her Fallopian tubes are not blocked. If all these things are normal, more refined tests are necessary.

Q—Is "frig" normal?

A—It is hard to define. Some women report satisfactory sex lives though they do not experience orgasm at the time of intercourse. Others, who likewise do not have this reaction, do not enjoy their sexual relationships. In cases like this, the woman should have a physical examination to rule out any abnormalities, and further tests to rule out chemical inadequacy. If no abnormalities are found, she may be referred for counseling.

Q—What is cystitis?

A—An infection in the bladder, which usually causes frequent urination, accompanied by pain, and sometimes by blood in the urine. In most cases, it can be cured by appropriate medication, but if it recurs, it should be given further study.

Q—Why do women get cystitis frequently?

A—For one reason, they do not seem to drink much water. The urinary tube is short in women, and vaginal organisms thus can reach the bladder. This, plus trauma, poor fluid intake or incomplete emptying of the bladder sets the stage for cystitis.

Q—Why do some women have trouble controlling the bladder?

A—A muscle weakness tends to develop as she grows older, and is often aggravated by childbirth, especially repeated childbirths. However, this does not occur unless the woman has an inborn muscle weakness. Chronic cystitis also causes trouble with bladder control.

Q—What is "falling of the womb"?

A—This occurs when the muscles supporting the bladder and the uterus (womb) have weakened and allowed the uterus to descend into the vaginal canal. This can be cured by surgical removal of the uterus and repair of the muscles. Sometimes a mechanical aid called a pessary can be used to support the sagging organs.

Q—Can this be cured without surgery?

A—Yes, if it is due to chronic infection. Sometimes certain specific exercises can strengthen the muscles which control the bladder. However, in some cases surgery is necessary — though there is a certain failure rate when the tissues are congenitally weak.

Q—What is a "hysterectomy"?

A—This is the operation in which the uterus is removed because of damage or disease which cannot be corrected otherwise. Many gynecologists do what is called a "total hysterectomy," in which the cervix is also removed. This is commonly done because it is the cervix which is most often involved in cancer. Total hysterectomy does not mean removal of the ovaries as well; that operation is called "oophorectomy." The ovaries are often left in place, where they will continue their normal cycle hormone production.

Irregular Cycle Not Abnormal

Q—If the uterus is removed, will the patient go through the menopause and get fat?

A—The uterus is merely a muscular organ designed to hold pregnancies; as far as we know today it has no glandular function. If it is removed but the ovaries remain in place the patient will notice no change except that she does not menstruate and cannot become pregnant. Ovarian function continues, and menopausal symptoms will not appear until the age for menopause occurs.

Q—After the menopause, do menstrual periods ever reappear?

A—It is important to recognize that true menopause means the cessation of all menstrual bleeding, and bleeding after the menopause must be checked by the physician, in all cases. Patients should not tell themselves that they are "just starting to menstruate again." All irregular bleeding must be checked.

Q—How often should a woman have a cancer screening test?

A—At least once a year. To some patients, who may have a family history of cancer, it may be reassuring to do the screening tests more often.

Q—What does the screening test involve?

A—An adequate history and physical examination. The female's most vulnerable areas are the breasts and the genital tract, and most of these cancers can be felt or detected by ordinary examination in the doctor's office. If all women had regular Papanicolaou ("Pap") test for cancer of the cervix, this form of the disease could be brought under almost complete control.

Women over the age of 35 should have general physical examinations once a year.

Between the Lines

Our Choice For School's Name

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

THE "CENTER" of Hoffman Estates is moving to the northwest this summer.

The new municipal-police facility is now under construction at Golf and Fairmont roads. Construction equipment will be moving onto the site for the fifth Dist. 211 high school across the street on Higgins Road by the end of the summer.

Architects for the unnamed high school estimate construction will start by Sept. 1. This high school sounds like it will be a showplace by Dist. 211's usual saprtan standards.

Though the school district asked for name suggestions for the new high school earlier this year, a decision hasn't been made yet.

We still think the name should be Hoffman Estates High School. Hopefully many of those people who wrote the board also suggesting the school be named in honor of the community will periodically remind school board members of their choice.

PRAYING MANTIS' will be in demand in Schaumburg this summer. Ecology took a step forward in that community, thanks to efforts by the Clean Environment Committee, headed by Trustee Jack Larsen.

An ordinance has been established prohibiting the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District from spraying in the village.

Hanover Park and Hoffman Estates should follow Schaumburg's example. Hoffman Trustee Diane Jensen said she is becoming more active in PEP (Pollution and Environment Problems) an organization that has done much to make Northwest suburbanites aware of their obligations towards a better environment.

Perhaps Mrs. Jensen with the help of PEP can persuade other trustees in Hoffman Estates that spraying mosquitoes isn't the best way to control the problem.

FRED DOWNEY, you're irritating us. We called the Hoffman Estates mayor Friday to ask whether he will attend a hospital planning meeting proposed by the Chicago Hospital Council for June 21 for the village presidents of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park.

Downey answered, "No comment. It's time these news leaks to the press are stopped." Huh? Since when is attending a meeting a news leak. A simple yes or no would have been more appropriate, Mayor Downey. It isn't a secret meeting nor should it be.

The meeting concerns the future health care of Hoffman Estates residents. We think that's a pretty important concern. The people of Hoffman have a right to know whether or not their elected mayor is going to represent them. "No comment" won't do.

ELLYN VERIVE, 1971 Miss Hoffman Estates, right, helped out during the recent survey taken in Schaumburg by the village's Clean Environment Committee. Miss Verive, a Schaumburg resident, is asking questions of Mrs. Thomas Tripp, 615 Deborah Ct. Survey results will guide the committee's future activities.

Schaumburg Police Department Grows

The Schaumburg Police Department has grown from 19 to 24 regular members plus the chief, according to the annual report of the police and fire commission presented to the village board recently by Dr. Martin J. Coniglio, commission chairman.

An eligibility list of 52 men was established after examinations held in February and from this list four names have been chosen.

Since fire department examinations in November, that staff has grown to 12 plus the chief and a number of new men will be needed with the completion and opening of a second fire station planned for construction on Meacham Road near Woodfield Mall, Coniglio's report said.

He described morale in both departments as "excellent" and commended both Police Chief Martin J. Conroy and Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson for their efficient departmental handling.

Noting also the recent establishment of a detective bureau, the report indicated that the workload will become increasingly more with the fall opening of Woodfield Mall.

"If it is at this time that we must seriously begin to think of construction of a new police facility," the report said.

Reporting for the police and fire committee, Trustee Ray Kessel said that painting of the existing fire house was discussed and investigation of the project assigned to Chief Abrahamson.

Kessel indicated that the first Saturday in July (regular meeting date for the committee) is part of his scheduled vacation in addition to being part of a long holiday weekend.

While it was decided that the committee will plan to defer its work to the first Saturday in August, arrangements will remain flexible in case business should necessitate a July meeting.

Firemen Will Be Cool While In The Firehouse

Capt. Lloyd Abrahamson, Schaumburg's fire chief intends to be certain that his men keep their cool this summer.

At Abrahamson's request, village trustees approved his purchase of a wall air conditioner for the upper level of the Schaumburg Road station.

Purchase of the unit and its installation is not expected to exceed $500, Abrahamson said, noting that central air conditioning cannot be installed in the building since separate heating systems are used for each of the two floors.

Reporting that a new pumper is due for delivery in mid-July, Abrahamson also requested approval to purchase a Motorola Micor solid-state radio for the vehicle at a cost of $1,114 as well as a four-frequency scanner which will be used in conjunction with the radio.

Cost of the scanner is $185 plus an additional $42 installation charge.

Hockey Team A Double Success

In its first season of existence, Schaumburg Kings, the village hockey league, provided itself both athletically capable and financially sound.

Representatives of Schaumburg Kings, founded by Bob Atkinson, presented Mayor Robert O. Atcher with their second place trophy last Tuesday.

Atkinson explained that the league, open to teen-age boys, was one game short of taking the championship and noted that the new group "has become well known both in Minnesota and Canada" during its first season.

Detailing finances, Atkinson said that operation of the league cost $11,000.

"We were able to raise a total of $11,100 so if anyone needs a $100 loan come see us," Atkinson joked.

Citing the Kings' accomplishments as "extraordinary," Atcher said his personal pride in the league showing and their accomplishments for area youth.

New Weekly Garbage Pickup Begins Today

Twice weekly garbage and refuse collection will begin in Hoffman Estates today and continue through Sept. 10.

Residents whose normal pick up is on Monday can expect their second collection each Thursday; Tuesday collections on the regular schedule will be serviced again every Friday.

Residents whose pickups are regularly on Wednesday will have a second collection every Saturday; residents whose garbage is usually collected every Thursday will have their second pick up on Monday.

Friday routes will be rescheduled on Tuesday.

Park Signup Begins Today

Registration for the Schaumburg Park District summer recreation program will be held today through Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. daily at Jennings House Youth Center.

All recreational and instructional programs being offered to residents of the park district were detailed in a mass mailing recently which also lists fees for the various activities.

The seven-week program will begin June 28 and continue through August 13.

A new program, not included in the brochure is a high school softball league for girls under 18 which will travel to nearby communities for competition.

Another new program consists of gymnastics for boys which will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. at Schaumburg High School.

Boys junior high school age and up are eligible to participate in this no fee activity.

Additional information regarding programs and registration may be obtained by calling park offices, 894-3258.

Plan To Actively Push State Bills

Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 will take a more active role in promoting state legislation than it has in the past. This was pointed out in a meeting of the school board's legislative and coordinating committee Thursday night.

The committee agreed to draft five resolutions to be sent to the state school board association's resolutions committee. Four will recommend adoption of proposals for state legislation.

The resolutions will deal with legalizing builder contributions to school districts, gaining parity for dual districts with unit districts, seeking special state aid for districts with high growth rates, improving taxing methods to avoid a situation such as now exists with Cook County and changing weighted voting within the association.

THE MEASURES are to be prepared for a meeting of the committee July 1, and are to be recommended for approval by the board. If approved, they will be referred to the state association for its November meeting.

The committee also agreed Thursday to recommend to the board renewal of membership in a data processing system sponsored by the Northwest Educational Cooperative, (NEC).

The district has purchased data processing service for the past year, but service is to be expanded next year. The membership is to cost Dist. 54 $23,863, with all members being charged on a prorated basis.

The cooperative is to provide computerized service in the areas of student scheduling, payroll accounting, student accounting, mailing labels, tuition reports, special education reports, as requested, family directories, standardized tests, in-service education, systems analysis and special request projects.

THE DISTRICT could be charged extra for special request projects, if the cooperative is unable to handle the work and is forced to farm it out to other agencies. This would occur only on rush projects, said John Bernard, who will administer the computer service.

Adam Jelen Jr., chairman of the newly established committee, reported he had contacted representatives of the tri-county division of the state school board association. The division is filing suit against Cook County, seeking reimbursement and damages for late tax collections, which is costing districts money for interest on borrowed funds, said Jelen.

Levitt Agrees To Tear Down Buildings, But

Levitt Construction Co. has agreed to tear down two partially built apartment buildings in its Sheffield Towne development, pending a decision by the Village of Schaumburg on a variance request.

Bert Schwartz, a regional manager of the company's apartment developments, said Friday the firm is disassembling buildings, and should complete the work within a week. Meanwhile, he said, the company is asking the village to review reports prepared by its engineers to support a request for a variance, which would allow Levitt to reconstruct the buildings as they were.

Levitt was ordered to tear the buildings down by the village, when it was learned they were being constructed of pre-fabricated concrete forms, rather than of concrete poured at the site. Original plans filed by the firm showed the concrete would be poured, and no pre-stressed, pre-cast forms, said Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

terest on borrowed funds, said Jelen.

Each district joining in the suit will pay $250 to $300 for court costs, but nothing for legal fees, since the division is supplying a lawyer, said Jelen.

Schwartz agreed Friday with the village's claim, and said the situation arose because of "human error." There have been personnel changes in the firm, he said, including his appointment to his job after the village approved the apartment complex plans. Company engineers recommended the change in construction, said Schwartz, and when he took his position he believed the company already had cleared the change with the village.

The concrete panels will be kept at the site after they are disassembled, said Schwartz, and if the village approves the change in materials they will be reassembled.

There are to be 300 apartments in the complex, in 23 buildings. The two buildings being disassembled are the only ones that have been started.

Name Park After James Falk

In a gesture of farewell to their departing commissioner and immediate past president, the Schaumburg Park Board announced Thursday that a site adjacent to Nathan Hale Elementary School will be called James Falk Park.

Falk's resignation became effective Friday and he and his family will soon be moving from Weathersfield to the Winston Knolls subdivision of Hoffman Estates.

A four-year veteran board member, Falk served as board president in 1970 and 1971.

Board members have not announced when the vacancy will be filled or how they intend to make their selection, but Falk's successor will fill out the remaining two years in his six-year full term.

Ray Hum, chairman of a board committee commissioned to name new park sites, explained that it has been park policy to name sites for persons active in the formation or development of Schaumburg.

Recently a community recreation and park administration center being constructed in the Lancer Park subdivision was named for Ellsworth Meineke, a long time resident of the village and noted area conservationist.

Last fall, a second community pool and its surrounding park site financed through a voter approved building program in which the park district is now engaged was called Robert O. Atcher Park.

Immediately prior to adjournment, Falk was presented with a certification of appreciation by Park Pres. Robert Bock who noted that he will "be sorely missed and has put in many years of outstanding service to the people of the Schaumburg Park District."

Trustees Told Of Open Sewer

Existence of a five-foot open sewer trench behind Aldrin Elementary School was reported to Schaumburg trustees.

Mrs. Edward Lesniewski, 726 Monet Ct., who lives directly in back of the two-month-old school, appeared at last Tuesday night's village board meeting to advise that the pit is full of debris and water.

She cited the trench as a potential breeding place for mosquitoes as well as a hazard for children.

Discussions between Mrs. Lesniewski and Lee Cook, Aldrin principal, revealed that the area must remain open because it is not a natural drainage ditch.

Exact ownership of the pit had not as yet been determined although Joseph Viso, Dist. 54 maintenance superintendent, advised The Herald that every effort was being made to care for the problem as swiftly as possible.

Viso said he was in the process of contacting Guy Fischman, Dist. 54 architect, in order to determine ownership of the area involved and also noted that the contractor would be notified to clean up the debris.

Meanwhile village trustees instructed Village Engr. Joe Zgonina to also investigate the problem in an attempt to rapidly clear up the situation.

Correction

Donald J. Soderburg, 29, of 201 Patricia Ln., Schaumburg, was charged with four misdemeanors after an incident Sunday morning in the parking area of Weathersfield Commons.

In Thursday's edition of The Herald, Soderburg's address was inadvertently identified as 102 Patricia Ln. The Herald regrets the error, and any undue embarrassment it may have caused.

Park Report: Ballfields, Pools, Sites Nearly Ready

During the weeks of May and early June, things have been "quite hectic" in Schaumburg Park District, according to information provided board members last week by Paul Derda, director of parks and recreation.

Construction at new park sites is moving along well. Derda's report continued, noting that Robert O. Atcher Pool, scheduled to open July 4, has been completely installed and wading pool fittings set.

Although deck drains are in and completed, Derda said that the remainder of steel work will come shortly.

"Progress of the other sites is going well with seeding work completed at Hale, the back portion of Meineke and Atcher parks and Weathersfield.

"Three new ball diamonds at Hale are looking very good and with the landscaper now working the infields to our engineer's specifications, with plans to handle infields in all other locations in similar manner," the report said.

Derda noted, too, that park maintenance crews have been "extremely busy" with diamond work and mowing duties in addition to assembly of all fiberglass seating bleachers, benches, picnic and concession tables.

Civic Park Pool was filled last week and ready for today's opening with more than 1,000 participants having registered for swimming classes and nearly 500 families who have purchased season swim passes.

Recreation registration begins in the park district today and will continue through the following week preparatory to the start of the program June 28, Derda said.

Board Concurs With Planners

Schaumburg trustees concurred unanimously in four recommendations presented by Harry Mammach, acting chairman of the village plan commission.

Approved were plans for lots 16, 17 and 18 in unit 12 of Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Park, along with lots six and seven in block one of unit 13 of the same area.

In the north end of the village, plans for Wright Club subdivision, which will house an indoor tennis club, was also approved.

The club will be built in an area of the industrial park on Hammond Drive just south of Algonquin Road.

Also accepted were plans for a 56-space parking lot at Ellsworth Meineke Community Recreation Center being constructed by Schaumburg Park District.

Commenting on this, Mammach said that the village presently does not have set requirements for this type of parking but recommended its approval since much additional land is available at the site for future expansion if necessary.

Teachers Vote Down Contract Offer Again

Teachers in School Dist. 21 have voted a second time to reject a teacher contract offer made by the school board and administration.

According to Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill, the teachers voted 181-61 Thursday to reject the proposal.

Gill said Friday that the board-administration negotiating team will go into further negotiations with the faculty council to negotiate a new contract "as soon as they request it."

David Tomchek, regional representative for the Illinois Education Association who has been working with the Dist. 21 faculty council, was unavailable for comment Friday.

The major area of disagreement between the two parties on a new contract centers around the type of system used to determine teachers' salaries.

THE BOARD AND administration has favored the use of an increment system, while the council has favored an index system, as has been used in the previous year.

In the index system, raises for all teachers are based on the salary of beginning teachers in the district, so that if the salaries for beginning teachers were raised, the salaries of experienced teachers would rise proportionately.

In the increment system, the salary of a starting teacher would not affect the salary paid an experienced teacher.

GILL SAID THAT the board and administration wish to reinstate the increment system of determining teachers' salaries because the district "cannot afford to meet the financial obligations of the index system, and pay adequately the lower-echelon people on the scale."

Gill said he is confident that the salary dispute can be settled to the satisfaction of all parties, but that he couldn't predict when the dispute will be concluded.

The original contract offer made by the district was rejected last spring by the teachers. Later it was also rejected by the faculty council, the teachers' organization recognized by the district as the sole bargaining agent for the teachers.

New Buffalo Grove High School Will Get A Name

The high school planned for Buffalo Grove may be named tonight.

High School Dist. 214's board of education will consider an administration recommendation to name the school Buffalo Grove High School.

Board meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., in Mount Prospect.

In background information given to board members last week, administrators cite tremendous support from the residents of Buffalo Grove for the recent referendum and tradition as two reasons for the name.

Though the board has no definite policy on naming schools, in all cases where the school was the first or the only school within an incorporated area, the school was named after the community.

The eighth high school will be first and very likely the only high school in Buffalo Grove, administrators point out.

Students from other communities will attend the eighth high school, but the same situation exists at Prospect, Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows High Schools.

Tonight the board will also consider a proposal for canceling the rental agreement on the site of the eighth high school.

Architects for the school feel the site may be needed for construction by mid-August. The current renter, Irv Ahrens, has planted seed, fertilized and applied insecticide. A settlement on the rental agreement, which has been suggested by the University of Illinois, will be discussed by the board.

Use of the site in mid-August is necessary because of a "fast tracking" procedure by which site work and foundations can be started before complete architectural plans are approved. District officials hope to save money by beginning construction this summer rather than waiting to bid the whole project.

Police Back Bargaining Legislation

Four bills dealing with collective bargaining for public employees, a key issue in last summer's Wheeling police strike, have been introduced in the state legislature.

When the policemen went back to work last August after a 12-day "sick-in" and strike, part of their agreement with the village called for a joint police-village effort to encourage state laws to provide for mandatory collective bargaining.

A representative of the Wheeling police said his group supports the pending legislation. However, the village has taken no public action on the bills.

Last summer, members of a local chapter of the Combined Counties Police Association (formerly Cook County Police Association) Wheeling Policemen had sought a formal contract with the village board.

One of the main disputes which led to the strike was the village's refusal to recognize the CCPA as official representative of the local policemen and to participate in collective bargaining with the association.

ALTHOUGH A VARIETY of other communities in the metropolitan area have written agreements with the CCPA, Wheeling officials staunchly refused such an agreement until the state legislature provided statutory authority for the recognition of the policemen's association.

Wheeling Police Sgt. Gene Wolf, a CCPA board of managers member, said yesterday the association is supporting the legislation.

Wolf said CCPA representatives would go to Springfield when the various measures will be considered for a vote by the general assembly or the senate.

The Wheeling Village Board has not discussed publicly this year what plans it has to back the proposed legislation. The village board has been notified of the various bills in a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

Wolf and William Hoos, president of the Wheeling CCPA chapter, explain the association would prefer passage of one of the measures which does not prohibit the right to strike as a collective bargaining tactic.

HOWEVER, THEY EXPLAINED the association is primarily concerned with statutory authority being granted for recognition and mandatory collective bargaining for policemen.

Two house bills relating to the bargaining and recognition issues are House bill 1, and HB 1731.

HB 1 has received a "do pass" recommendation from the Committee on Industry and Labor relations. It would set up a state labor relations board to supervise elections of public employee labor organizations, and to hear complaints and investigate charges of unfair labor practices involving public employers and employees.

The bill specifically gives public employee labor organizations the right to bargain collectively with public employers. This is the statutory authority that had been sought by the village.

The bill would also provide for establishment of a state Public Employees Labor Mediation Panel for arbitration of labor disputes between public employers and public employees.

HB 1731, CURRENTLY in the House Executive committee, would prohibit strikes by public employees to protect the public health, safety, and welfare and would penalize conspiracies to commit strikes by public employees. In the senate, two bills are currently in the Committee on Labor and Commerce.

Senate Bill 1112, would create an Illinois Public Employment Relations Act. The act would create an Illinois Public Employment Board with broad powers to establish standards for collective negotiations between public employers and employees.

The bill "establishes machinery for the resolution of disputes between public employers and public employees." It also prohibits strikes by policemen, firemen, and other public employees whose work is essential to the health, safety, and welfare of the public.

The bill would provide a limited right to strike by other public employees, after mediation, fact finding, and arbitration provisions of the bill had been met.

The other Senate Bill, 1062, is the Police Officers Labor Relations Act.

IT WOULD PROVIDE for collective negotiations between public bodies and their employees, and would provide procedures for settlement of labor disputes and for labor organization representation of police officers.

The bill would provide for mediation and fact-finding in disputes and would define unfair labor practices by employers and employees.

It would create an Illinois Public Employees relations commission, and set up appellate procedure where unfair labor practices are found to exist.

Board Opposes More Power For NIPC

A resolution opposing a general assembly bill to increase the powers of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) is being prepared for passage by the Wheeling Village Board.

The bill, House Bill 1207, would strengthen NIPC's authority as an advisor in how municipalities use their land.

Wheeling officials are opposing the bill because they say it would interfere with the village's home rule powers.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.8 per cent.

An unemployed office worker with a police record is being held in $200,000 bail in New York while Chicago authorities prepare death penalty charges against him as the first U. S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 21, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

The World

Israeli antiaircraft batteries fired at two Egyptian jet fighters flying over the eastern bank of the Suez Canal, the third time the Middle-East cease-fire has been broken on the Suez front.

Three Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Salyut orbital laboratory cast the first votes from space and tended a vegetable patch growing Chinese cabbage inside their craft.

The seven survivors of nine premature infants born to an Australian housewife are clinging to life in incubators in a Sydney hospital. The mother had been taking a drug which facilitates normal childbirth but also enhances fertility.

The War

Communist forces ambushed a truck convoy and destroyed a civilian bus with a mine in attacks in the Central Highlands that killed 17 persons, most of them civilians. U.S. B52 bombers pounded troop concentrations and bunker complexes just below the Demilitarized Zone in the heaviest raids in South Vietnam in two months.

A trash fire spread to an ammunition dump in downtown Phnom Penh, Cambodia, setting off explosions that rocked the capital for more than two hours. Several persons were slightly wounded.

The State

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Disyton — a concentrated poison — to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

A bill giving public employees, including policemen, firemen and teachers, the right to strike, and engage in collective bargaining, passed the Illinois House by a solid 98-43 vote.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Tonti, is a mystery which may remain unsolved for months, federal investigators said Friday.

Building Permit For MacArthur JHS Is Approved

A building permit for construction of an addition to the Dist. 23 Douglas MacArthur Junior High School was signed into effect by the school board Thursday evening.

Construction of the addition began several months ago, but the architect hired by the district, Architectural Management Inc., failed to apply for the county permit. The school board members discovered the permit had not been issued after they were notified by the county that the architect's plans did not meet the Illinois Life Safety Code.

The school board has held a series of special meetings during the past weeks to discuss correction of the code violations. Once the architects had supplied the contractor, Watson Construction Co., with drawings of the proposed corrections, the school board refused to accept the permit until the cost of the corrections was determined.

THE CORRECTIONS involve such things as adding heat and smoke detectors, changing the ventilation system in the gym and lowering a ceiling in the library.

At the meeting Thursday, the architect presented the board with a cost list and agreed to pay a portion of the costs, which total approximately $900. The architect will pay the increase of the cost of labor and materials since the project was let out for bids. It was estimated that the increase is approximately 20 percent of the total cost.

The school board approved the corrections along with other revisions in the construction plans in a change order that will cost approximately $15,000. The other revisions are being made at the request of district personnel and the county education office.

The revisions include such things as modifying a storage area under the stage, raising the ceiling height of two physical education rooms, and changing the layout for a resource center and science lab. As originally designed, the area under the stage could not store the district's folding chairs. It will cost $2,267 to modify the storage area. In addition, the architects did not design two physical education rooms for trampoline use. It will cost $13,366 to raise the ceiling of the rooms five feet at the highest point.

AT PAST MEETINGS district officials have said they don't know how they are going to pay for the change order. In February voters authorized the district to sell $1.2 million in bonds for construction of additions to MacArthur and the Betsy Ross School and for remodeling at the Anne Sullivan School. Supt. Edward Grodsky said, "the added costs will have to be taken out of the bond sale. We just have to hope we have enough."

According to the contractor the change order has delayed the construction several weeks. Robert Nowack, representing the contractor, said the construction will not be completed before the middle of November.

The Lions International Cap'n. Crunch ship was one of many floats in the Elk Grove Village Jaycees' 13th annual peony parade and pageant yesterday.

For Those Away From Home

A $500,000 SUIT charged the village of Wheeling with violating the rights of Don Day, former TORCH Mental Health Clinic director, who was arrested last year. The charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors were dropped, and now Day wants a federal court to award him damages.

A CRACKDOWN ON SPRINKLING of lawns was announced by the Buffalo Grove Village Board. The board asked police to issue citations to residents who sprinkle on the wrong days. Owners of odd and even-numbered houses can sprinkle on alternate days of the week.

PALWAUKEE AIRPORT figured in another dispute with residents and the Wheeling Village Board. This time the complaints were against the Federal Aviation Administration. Residents charge the agency with allowing large jets to land at the airport and they expressed fears it may become a "satellite" to O'Hare Airport.

CHANGES IN SCHOOL programs, including the adoption of a drug education program, were recommended by a citizens committee of Wheeling-Elk Grove School Dist. 21. The group also recommended programs on the environment, "justice under the law," and vocational education. A year-round school program is not needed now, the committee said.

LAKE MICHIGAN WATER for Lake

County Buffalo Grove residents is a possibility within three to five years. The water would come through the Lake County Public Water District, which has a water treatment plant at Zion. Cooperation of communities north of Buffalo Grove is needed before the water can be piped to the village.

THE MARCHING BAND from Wheeling High School left for Virginia Beach, Va., to take part in a national band contest this week. In 1968, the band won first place in the marching band section of the competition.

A TOTAL OF 504 seniors were graduated from Wheeling High School last week. Hundreds of youngsters received diplomas from junior high schools in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

THE OLDEST BUILDING in Wheeling, the 95-year-old Fassbender building at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road, will be torn down this month. A representative of the owner agreed to demolition as the village board gave permission to build a new commercial structure on the site. The late Arthur Fassbender Sr. had fought demolition efforts.

AN ANTI-OBSCENITY ordinance, aimed at a bookstore on Milwaukee Avenue was passed by the Wheeling Village Board. Several trustees said they doubted the village would be able to enforce the law because of court decisions.

Historical Society Move May Get Boost Tonight

The movement for the establishment of a Buffalo Grove Historical Society could receive a boost tonight if the village board approves a request for $500 grant to the women's club to cover expenses involved in compiling a village history.

The women's club was designated as the village historians three years ago. However little progress had been made on the project until the women's club voted at its April meeting to "take an active part in the establishment of a Buffalo Grove Historical Society."

IN A LETTER to the village board, Mrs. John Smith, club president, also asked "quarters be obtained in which to house the historical material as it is accumulated."

Mrs. Smith suggested the Raupp Memorial, a piece of land just south of Rte. 83, be used as the site for the historical society. A farm house is on the land.

However, the Buffalo Grove Park District now has the title to the land. At present, the park district's plans for the land are indefinite. Park District Pres. William Kiddle said he has not been approached by anyone from the women's club about the land for the historical society.

"We had a request for the land earlier, before we had the deed to it, but since we received title from the village no one has contacted us," Kiddle said.

"We more or less, in a very general way, have agreed to share it with them," he added.

School Board To Join Data Processing Coop

The Dist. 21 school board voted to join the data processing cooperative sponsored by the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC).

Participation in the NEC cooperative will cost the district $15,340 during fiscal 1971-72.

The NEC earlier this month voted to sponsor the cooperative for eight of its 10 member school districts. The two school districts who will not be members of the cooperative are High School Dist. 211 in Palatine-Schaumburg and Elementary School Dist. 25 in Arlington Heights. Both districts have other means of handling their data processing programs.

Approval for the remaining eight school districts to join the cooperative must be granted by the individual school boards.

Bicycle Law Needs Clarification

The Wheeling Village Board sent a draft of the proposed bicycle registration ordinance back to the police department for review last week along with a letter from a local resident proposing changes in the ordinance.

Mrs. C. Lev of 1024 Beverly Dr. told board members that before approving the new ordinance requiring all bicycles in the village to be registered, they should "temper the law with common sense."

She pointed out that a section of the ordinance saying that no more than one person can ride a bicycle at a time would eliminate parents from carrying children too young to ride a bicycle themselves in baby carriers on a bicycle.

She also noted that a section which allows riding on the sidewalk "except in business districts" was not clear.

She pointed out that if the area all along Dundee Road is considered a business district and bicyclists can't use the sidewalk, they are changing "instant death" from high-speed traffic.

A SIMILAR SITUATION exists along Elmhurst Road, she noted.

She also suggested that a section be added to the ordinance about not parking bicycles on sidewalks.

Mrs. Lev also made suggestions that the village install a sidewalk along the north side of Dundee Road and in sections of the south side of Dundee Road along parking lots and gas stations.

She suggested the board take a walk along Dundee Road to see the poor condition of sidewalks. She said sidewalks on the north side of Dundee Road would eliminate the necessity of children crossing Dundee Road twice on their way to the community pool and would help persons walking to the new post office. She also praised the village board for its plan to hire an animal warden.

Schools Set Administrative Salaries

School Dist. 21 administrative salaries for the 1971-72 fiscal year were set Thursday by the Dist. 21 school board. All salaries were approved on a unanimous vote by the board.

According to the new schedule, Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill will receive an annual salary of $30,000 per year, an increase of $4,000 over the salary paid to Gill in the past year.

Asst. Supt. John Barger will receive $23,400 in the coming fiscal year, a $1,400 increase in salary over the preceding year.

Dist. 21 junior high school principals and the administrative directors for the district will receive between $14,500 and $20,500 annually depending on previous experience.

DIST. 21 elementary school principals and program coordinators in the district will receive between $13,500 and $18,500 in the next fiscal year, depending on previous experience.

District psychologists will receive between $11,000 and $16,000 in salary annually in the next fiscal year. All salary ranges are $500 higher than those of the previous fiscal year. Junior High school principals already on the Dist. 21 staff will receive a $1,100 increase in salary in the coming fiscal year.

Present administrative directors will receive a $1,200 increase in salary, elementary principals and program coordinators a $1,000 annual salary increase and district psychologists an $800 annual salary increase.

The administrative salary proposal was adopted at Gill's recommendation.

Named James Scholar

Robert P. Fabish, 470 Lauren Ln., Buffalo Grove, has been named an Edmund J. James Scholar at the University of Illinois.

Fabish, who will enter the university next fall, will be permitted to take honors courses. He was selected on the basis of academic achievement and attitude.

Future U of I Students Named Scholars

Three Wheeling students who will enter the University of Illinois next fall have been named Edmund J. James scholars at the school.

The students are Thomas J. Fielder, 924 Woodland Dr.; Michael S. Kwicinski, 969 Blaze Trail; and Robert W. Scheffel Jr., 512 Central Ave.

James Scholars are chosen on the basis of academic achievement and aptitude. They are allowed to enroll in honors courses.

Set Annex Issue Hearing

A controversy between Prospect Heights residents and Wheeling Village board over the village's annexation of 40 acres is now scheduled to be heard in the Cook County Circuit Court Wednesday.

The village recently annexed the land, formerly in Prospect Heights and rezoned it for apartments. The land, owned by Arthur Liebbling, is south of the St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights.

Members of a Prospect Heights group called the "Wheeling Road Zoning Committee" asked the state to file a suit which calls for cancellation of Wheeling's annexation. The residents claim the annexation is invalid and they object to Liebbling's development plans.

Attorney Donald Kreger, who is representing the Prospect Heights group, has filed a motion asking the court to settle the suit without a trial because "it is not an issue of fact." Both parties agree that only the northwest corner of Liebbling's land touches the village. The judge must decide what constitutes contiguity.

Previously the hearing was continued because the state's attorney was out of town. Now the court may appoint a "special" state's attorney, so that the hearing can proceed Wednesday.

Summer Class Set To Begin

Summer school classes in School Dist. 21 will begin Tuesday at all schools in the district.

The sessions will be held from 8:40 a.m. to 12:07 p.m. at Dist. 21 schools. The sessions will be held each weekday through July 9.

A variety of academic, drama, music, art and physical education programs will be offered in the summer school program. The program will be financed entirely with state funds this year.

Buffalo Grove's New High School May Get A Name

The high school planned for Buffalo Grove may be named tonight. High School Dist. 214's board of education will consider an administration recommendation to name the school Buffalo Grove High School.

Board meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., in Mount Prospect.

In background information given to board members last week, administrators cite tremendous support from the residents of Buffalo Grove for the recent referendum and tradition as two reasons for the name.

Though the board has no definite policy on naming schools, in all cases where the school was the first or the only school within an incorporated area, the school was named after the community.

The eighth high school will be first and very likely the only high school in Buffalo Grove, administrators point out.

Students from other communities will attend the eighth high school, but the same situation exists at Prospect, Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows High Schools.

Tonight the board will also consider a proposal for canceling the rental agreement on the site of the eighth high school.

Architects for the school feel the site may be needed for construction by mid-August. The current renter, Irv Ahrens, has planted seed, fertilized and applied insecticide. A settlement on the rental agreement, which has been suggested by the University of Illinois, will be discussed by the board.

Use of the site in mid-August is necessary because of a "fast tracking" procedure by which site work and foundations can be started before complete architectural plans are approved. District officials hope to save money by beginning construction this summer rather than waiting to bid the whole project.

Park Bd. Vacancy Deadline For Applications Tomorrow

The Buffalo Grove Park District commissioners set tomorrow as the deadline for accepting applications to fill a two-year vacancy on the park board.

The vacancy was created when Commissioner Sherwood Zwirn resigned May 27 because of what he termed "personal and professional commitments."

Zwirn was elected to a four-year term as one of the original commissioners when the park district was formed in 1969. He is the second of the original commissioners to resign. Commissioner Val Bettin resigned a year ago.

Off To Adventureland For Cub Pack 43

Buffalo Grove Cub Scout Pack 43 will go to Adventureland June 21 as the pack's first summer activity.

Boys earning the wolf badge included Lance Evans, Dan Hessler, Jeff Rohs and David Wentz.

Boys earning the bear badge were Scott Fink, Jim Hamblen, Robert Scott, Steve Sents, and Chris Williams.

Boys moving up to Webelos were Scott Fink and Robert Scott. Cameron Mitchell and Don Guzowski graduated to Boy Scouts.

Fall Orientation Slated By Schools

A fall orientation week schedule for teachers in School Dist. 21 was set Thursday by the school board.

According to the schedule, teachers will report for orientation on Aug. 30.

A tour of the district and talks by the building principals will be featured on the first day of orientation.

The orientation schedule for Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 will include meetings in each of the schools, and on Sept. 2 teachers will begin to work in their classrooms.

Sept. 3 has been designated an institute day in the district. An address by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill to all teachers will be featured on the day's program.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN, and although Buffalo Grove will not have its own pool this summer, residents may use the Neptune's Pool at Wheeling High School and the Community Pool, both operated by the Wheeling

Park District Gets Valuation Figures

The Buffalo Grove Park District has received its first assessed valuation since it was created two years ago. The assessment covers all property in the district.

The combined assessed valuation for 1970 for Cook and Lake counties is $41,846,283. The assessed valuation for Lake County is $14,067,220. For Cook County it is $27,779,063.

In 1970, the 1969 figures were not available because the district was formed in that year, so this year, the 1970 figures were the first ones for the district.

In announcing the figures at last Thursday's park board meeting, board president William Kiddle said that discussion will begin on the appropriation ordinance at this week's meeting.

THE APPROPRIATION ordinance, required by law, lists the amount of money the district anticipates spending for the next fiscal year and outlines how the money will be spent.

Kiddle also asked each commissioner to prepare a "rough budget" which will be used in the discussion at this Thursday's meeting.

A total of $84,944.82 was appropriated in last year's ordinance. However, a much larger sum will be spent by the district this year as it expands its facilities as a result of passage of the bond issue referendum.

The district plans to sell $1,250,000 in bonds, but that money will not be included in the appropriation ordinance, however.

The ordinance authorizing the sale of the bonds is considered a separate appropriation ordinance, according to Wayne Benjamin, the park district's financial consultant.

Benjamin said he is working on a prospectus to present to bond brokers and he set mid-July as the time when the bonds will be put on the market.

IN ANOTHER financial development, Commissioner Joseph Settanni, chairman of the finance committee, recommended that additional tax anticipation warrants be issued to cover the cost of the summer recreation program. Settanni made the recommendation because the tax money from this year's levy still isn't available.

The board also met with a representative of Allan T. Archer Inc. the district's insurance brokers, for about an hour and were informed that next year the district will have to pay about ten times what it paid last year in premiums.

Last year the district paid about $1,000 for insurance. Next year the district will have to pay about $4,000 for liability insurance, and between $4,000 and $4,500 for fire, insurance workmen's compensation, and bonding insurance. The increase was attributed to expanded park facilities and the construction of two swimming pools, which were approved in the May 22 referendum.

Teachers Vote Down Contract Offer Again

Teachers in School Dist. 21 have voted a second time to reject a teacher contract offer made by the school board and administration.

According to Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill, the teachers voted 181-61 Thursday to reject the proposal.

Gill said Friday that the board-administration negotiating team will go into further negotiations with the faculty council to negotiate a new contract "as soon as they request it."

David Tomchek, regional representative for the Illinois Education Association who has been working with the Dist. 21 faculty council, was unavailable for comment Friday.

The major area of disagreement between the two parties on a new contract centers around the type of system used to determine teachers' salaries.

THE BOARD AND administration has favored the use of an increment system, while the council has favored an index system, as has been used in the previous year.

In the index system, raises for all teachers are based on the salary of beginning teachers in the district, so that if the salaries for beginning teachers were raised, the salaries of experienced teachers would rise proportionately.

In the increment system, the salary of a starting teacher would not affect the salary paid an experienced teacher.

GILL SAID THAT the board and administration wish to reinstate the increment system of determining teachers' salaries because the district "cannot afford to meet the financial obligations of the index system, and pay adequately the lower-echelon people on the scale."

Gill said he is confident that the salary dispute can be settled to the satisfaction of all parties, but that he couldn't predict when the dispute will be concluded.

The original contract offer made by the district was rejected last spring by the teachers. Later it was also rejected by the faculty council, the teachers' organization recognized by the district as the sole bargaining agent for the teachers.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.8 per cent.

An unemployed office worker with a police record is being held in $300,000 bail in New York while Chicago authorities prepare death penalty charges against him as the first U. S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 23, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

The World

Israeli antiaircraft batteries fired at two Egyptian jet fighters flying over the eastern bank of the Suez Canal, the third time the Middle-East cease-fire has been broken on the Suez front.

Three Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Salyut orbital laboratory cast the first votes from space and tended a vegetable patch growing Chinese cabbage inside their craft.

The seven survivors of nine premature infants born to an Australian housewife are clinging to life in incubators in a Sydney hospital. The mother had been taking a drug which facilitates normal childbirth but also enhances fertility.

The War

Communist forces ambushed a truck convoy and destroyed a civilian bus with a mine in attacks in the Central Highlands that killed 17 persons, most of them civilians. U.S. B52 bombers pounded troop concentrations and bunker complexes just below the Demilitarized Zone in the heaviest raids in South Vietnam in two months.

A trash fire spread to an ammunition dump in downtown Phnom Penh, Cambodia, setting off explosions that rocked the capital for more than two hours. Several persons were slightly wounded.

The State

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Disyton—a concentrated poison—to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

A bill giving public employees, including policemen, firemen and teachers, the right to strike, and engage in collective bargaining, passed the Illinois House by a solid 98-43 vote.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Tonti, is a mystery which may remain unsolved for months, federal investigators said Friday.

Building Permit For MacArthur JHS Is Approved

A building permit for construction of an addition to the Dist. 23 Douglas MacArthur Junior High School was signed into effect by the school board Thursday evening.

Construction of the addition began several months ago, but the architect hired by the district, Architectural Management Inc., failed to apply for the county permit. The school board members discovered the permit had not been issued after they were notified by the county that the architect's plans did not meet the Illinois Life Safety Code.

The school board has held a series of special meetings during the past weeks to discuss correction of the code violations. Once the architects had supplied the contractor, Watson Construction Co., with drawings of the proposed corrections, the school board refused to accept the permit until the cost of the corrections was determined.

THE CORRECTIONS involve such things as adding heat and smoke detectors, changing the ventilation system in the gym and lowering a ceiling in the library.

At the meeting Thursday, the architect presented the board with a cost list and agreed to pay a portion of the costs, which total approximately $900. The architect will pay the increase of the cost of labor and materials since the project was let out for bids. It was estimated that the increase is approximately 20 per cent of the total cost.

The school board approved the corrections along with other revisions in the construction plans in a change order that will cost approximately $15,000. The other revisions are being made at the request of district personnel and the county education office.

The revisions include such things as modifying a storage area under the stage, raising the ceiling height of two physical education rooms, and changing the layout for a resource center and science lab. As originally designed, the area under the stage could not store the district's folding chairs. It will cost $2,267 to modify the storage area. In addition, the architects did not design two physical education rooms for trampoline use. It will cost $13,366 to raise the ceiling of the rooms five feet at the highest point.

AT PAST MEETINGS district officials have said they don't know how they are going to pay for the change order. In February voters authorized the district to sell $1.2 million in bonds for construction of additions to MacArthur and the Betsy Ross School and for remodeling at the Anne Sullivan School. Supt. Edward Grodsky said, "the added costs will have to be taken out of the bond sale. We just have to hope we have enough."

According to the contractor the change order has delayed the construction several weeks. Robert Nowack, representing the contractor, said the construction will not be completed before the middle of November.

The Lions International Cap'n. Crunch ship was one of many floats in the Elk Grove Village Jaycees' 13th annual peony parade and pageant yesterday.

For Those Away From Home

A $500,000 SUIT charged the village of Wheeling with violating the rights of Don Day, former TORCH Mental Health Clinic director, who was arrested last year. The charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors were dropped, and now Day wants a federal court to award him damages.

A CRACKDOWN ON SPRINKLING of lawns was announced by the Buffalo Grove Village Board. The board asked police to issue citations to residents who sprinkle on the wrong days. Owners of odd and even-numbered houses can sprinkle on alternate days of the week.

PAL-WAUKEE AIRPORT figured in another dispute with residents and the Wheeling Village Board. This time the complaints were against the Federal Aviation Administration. Residents charge the agency with allowing large jets to land at the airport and they expressed fears it may become a "satellite" to O'Hare Airport.

CHANGES IN SCHOOL programs, including the adoption of a drug education program, were recommended by a citizens committee of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School Dist. 21. The group also recommended programs on the environment, "justice under the law," and vocational education. A year-round school program is not needed now, the committee said.

LAKE MICHIGAN WATER for Lake

County Buffalo Grove residents is a possibility within three to five years. The water would come through the Lake County Public Water District, which has a water treatment plant at Zion. Cooperation of communities north of Buffalo Grove is needed before the water can be piped to the village.

THE MARCHING BAND from Wheeling High School left for Virginia Beach, Va., to take part in a national band contest this week. In 1968, the band won first place in the marching band section of the competition.

A TOTAL OF 504 seniors were graduated from Wheeling High School last week. Hundreds of youngsters received diplomas from junior high schools in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

THE OLDEST BUILDING in Wheeling, the 96-year-old Fassbender building at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road, will be torn down this month. A representative of the owner agreed to demolition as the village board gave permission to build a new commercial structure on the site. The late Arthur Fassbender Sr. had fought demolition efforts.

AN ANTI-OBSCENITY ordinance, aimed at a bookstore on Milwaukee Avenue was passed by the Wheeling Village Board. Several trustees said they doubted the village would be able to enforce the law because of court decisions.

Historical Society Move May Get Boost Tonight

The movement for the establishment of a Buffalo Grove Historical Society could receive a boost tonight if the village board approves a request for $500 grant to the women's club to cover expenses involved in compiling a village history.

The women's club was designated as the village historians three years ago. However little progress had been made on the project until the women's club voted at its April meeting to "take an active part in the establishment of a Buffalo Grove Historical Society."

IN A LETTER to the village board, Mrs. John Smith, club president, also asked "quarters be obtained in which to house the historical material as it is accumulated."

School Board To Join Data Processing Coop

The Dist. 21 school board voted to join the data processing cooperative sponsored by the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC).

Participation in the NEC cooperative will cost the district $15,340 during fiscal 1971-72.

The NEC earlier this month voted to sponsor the cooperative for eight of its 10 member school districts. The two school districts who will not be members of the cooperative are High School Dist. 211 in Palatine-Schaumburg and Elementary School Dist. 25 in Arlington Heights. Both districts have other means of handling their data processing programs.

Approval for the remaining eight school districts to join the cooperative must be granted by the individual school boards.

Bicycle Law Needs Clarification

The Wheeling Village Board sent a draft of the proposed bicycle registration ordinance back to the police department for review last week along with a letter from a local resident proposing changes in the ordinance.

Mrs. C. Lev of 1024 Beverly Dr. told board members that before approving the new ordinance requiring all bicycles in the village to be registered, they should "temper the law with common sense."

She pointed out that a section of the ordinance saying that no more than one person can ride a bicycle at a time would eliminate parents from carrying children too young to ride a bicycle themselves in baby carriers on a bicycle.

She also noted that a section which allows riding on the sidewalk "except in business districts" was not clear.

She pointed out that if the area all along Dundee Road is considered a business district and bicyclists can't use the sidewalk, they are chancing "instant death" from high-speed traffic.

A SIMILAR SITUATION exists along Elmhurst Road, she noted.

She also suggested that a section be added to the ordinance about not parking bicycles on sidewalks.

Board Meeting Agenda Listed

The following items are on the agenda and will be discussed at Monday's Buffalo Grove village board meeting:

- A report from the traffic and safety committee.
- A report on the reorganization of the zoning board of appeals.
- Consideration of a petition for annexation of the Stenholm property at 1103 E. Dundee Road.

- A request from Chesterfield Builders for a $4,500 balance called for under the terms of the Cambridge drainage suit for work on the water retention system.

- A request from the Buffalo Grove Women's Club that the village support that organization's efforts to establish a village historical society.

- A revision of the subdivision regulations concerning the construction of sidewalks.

- A request that June 19 through June 26 be declared "Up With People Week" in Buffalo Grove.

The village board meets every Monday at 8 p.m. in the village municipal building, 50 Raupp Blvd.

Set Annex Issue Hearing

A controversy between Prospect Heights residents and Wheeling Village board over the village's annexation of 40 acres is now scheduled to be heard in the Cook County Circuit Court Wednesday.

The village recently annexed the land, formerly in Prospect Heights and rezoned it for apartments. The land, owned by Arthur Lieblich, is south of the St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights.

Members of a Prospect Heights group called the "Wheeling Road Zoning Committee" asked the state to file a suit which calls for cancellation of Wheeling's annexation. The residents claim the an-

Mrs. Lev also made suggestions that the village install a sidewalk along the north side of Dundee Road and in sections of the south side of Dundee Road along parking lots and gas stations.

She suggested the board take a walk along Dundee Road to see the poor condition of sidewalks. She said sidewalks on the north side of Dundee Road would eliminate the necessity of children crossing Dundee Road twice on their way to the community pool and would help persons walking to the new post office.

She also praised the village board for its plan to hire an animal warden.

Schools Set Administrative Salaries

School Dist. 21 administrative salaries for the 1971-72 fiscal year were set Thursday by the Dist. 21 school board. All salaries were approved on a unanimous vote by the board.

According to the new schedule, Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill will receive an annual salary of $30,000 per year, an increase of $4,000 over the salary paid to Gill in the past year.

Asst. Supt. John Barger will receive $23,400 in the coming fiscal year, a $1,400 increase in salary over the preceding year.

Dist. 21 junior high school principals and the administrative directors for the district will receive between $14,500 and $20,500 annually depending on previous experience.

DIST. 21 elementary school principals and program coordinators in the district will receive between $13,500 and $18,500 in the next fiscal year, depending on previous experience.

District psychologists will receive between $11,000 and $16,000 in salary annually in the next fiscal year. All salary ranges are $500 higher than those of the previous fiscal year. Junior High school principals already on the Dist. 21 staff will receive a $1,100 increase in salary in the coming fiscal year.

Present administrative directors will receive a $1,200 increase in salary, elementary principals and program coordinators a $1,000 annual salary increase and district psychologists an $800 annual salary increase.

The administrative salary proposal was adopted at Gill's recommendation.

Chamber Maps Fight To Get Village Back On

The Palatine Chamber of Commerce is leading a campaign to have Palatine put back on the map.

A flyer being distributed in the village this week explains, "The name of the Village of Palatine has been deleted from the face of the 1971 official highway map of the State of Illinois, allegedly because of lack of space. However, a look at the 1971 map would indicate an abundance of space."

"We are fearful that this is but the first step in deleting Palatine permanently from our official state map," Dobby Dobkin, president of the chamber, commented, "We will not tolerate it."

The chamber urges residents to write their state officials to ask that the name be restored.

THE CHAMBER IS also writing a letter to the state highway department requesting signs be put on the tollway and Rte. 53 directing motorists to Palatine.

"It's very disconcerting to us," said Jerry Pinderski of the Chamber. "Palatine is number 53 in population of any village or city in Illinois and has sufficient people in it to go under home rule, yet we have been deleted from the map."

Some 2,000 copies of the flyers have been made. About 1,000 of these are being distributed at Palatine Plaza. Others will be included in the statements being sent out from the First Bank and Trust of Palatine today.

Flyers are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 235 N. Northwest Hwy. "We would like help from the Boy Scouts," Ruth Ryan, Chamber member, said.

"People use a highway map because they want to find the place they're going. I don't think they should leave one tiny community off. We've been left off for two years now. It's our tax money as well as any other towns," she said.

A NOTATION ON the map explains that the communities were left off because of congestion.

Other Northwest communities omitted include: Barrington, Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates. Others in the area are: Lisle, Lake Forest, Kenilworth, Winnetka, Lake Bluff, Glencoe, Wood Dale, Streamwood, Itasca, Roselle, Zion, Glenview, Libertyville, Mundelein, Bensenville, Naperville, La Grange, Forest Park, Bellwood, Franklin Park, Elmwood Park, Maywood and Brookfield.

Pinderski said, "It is my understanding that as time evolves it is very easy to be taken off the map and very difficult to get back on. That is why we are urging residents to write state officials now."

The officials listed include William F. Cellini, division of highways; Sen. J. A. Graham; Rep. Eugene Chapman; Rep. David Regner; Rep. Eugene Schlickman; Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie; and John W. Lewis, secretary of state.

The campaign to have Palatine put back on the map is a community project under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce which is a culmination of the complaints and fears over a two-year period, Mrs. Ryan said.

JAMES PALLUCK ponders the intricacies of a vagabond stove, a makeshift cooking tool used by Girl Scouts on camping trips, although he's not quite sure what to do with it. Palluck and Bruce Olson, right, will have to learn fast now that they've become official Girl Scout leaders of troops 808 and 755 in Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Their wives, Sandra and Dorothy, who will be their co-leaders, will give them assistance in their new positions.

View Of Rev. King Wins $50

An eighth grader's view of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. won him a $50 savings bond and first place in the Palatine Jaycees essay contest for junior high students in Palatine.

Eric Johnson, 13, of 310 Pleasant Hill, and a recent graduate of St. Theresa School, received the top award among 180 other entries in the contest. Johnson chose the Rev. King for his essay based on a theme of "My Most Admired American in U. S. History."

Besides the savings bond, Johnson was also honored when asked by the Jaycees to ride in the Palatine Fourth of July parade. He will also participate in post-parade ceremonies when he will read his essay to the audience.

Johnson will make his speech among well-known company. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., will be guest speaker and parade marshal for the July Fourth celebrations.

JOHNSON'S WINNING entry in the contest is as follows:

Martin Luther King Jr. is the American I most admire because of his devotion to the cause of seeking freedom and equality for the Negro people. He waged his battle in a peaceful and non-violent manner. His weapons were not bombs, guns and knives; they were marches, demonstrations, sit-ins and boycotts to call attention to the injustices done to the black people.

He continually preached non-violence and he practiced what he preached throughout his life. Whenever he was persecuted he turned the other cheek. He accepted jail sentences without complaint. He never struck back at anyone. By doing this he won many supporters who were impressed by his example of a truly Christian life — love, not hate.

His persistence paid off. Discriminatory laws were changed or abolished. No state or city can enact any laws that discriminate against anyone because of his race or religion.

In 1964 Dr. King was given the Nobel Peace Prize for being the one who had done the most to promote peace.

It is tragic that a man so dedicated to peace and love had to meet such a violent end.

Girl Killed On Rte. 53

A 14-year-old Arlington Heights girl was struck by a car and killed Saturday while walking across Rte. 53 near the Northwest Highway overpass in Palatine.

Christine Sadowski, 1703 Brown Ave. was returning home from Capital Doughnut Lake when she was hit by a vehicle driven by Marvin Hawthorne, 42, of Milwaukee.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:37 p.m., according to state police.

Hawthorne was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and was released on bond Saturday.

Miss Sadowski was crossing the Rte. 53 express lanes going east from the man-made tollway lake when the accident occurred. She had just graduated from Thomas Junior High School.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sadowski and six brothers and sisters. Services will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Edna's Church in Arlington Heights. Visitation after 1 p.m. today at Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vall, Arlington Heights.

The Ugliest Girl Scouts In Town

by MARGE FERROLI

They're the two ugliest Girl Scouts in town, and they're the first to admit it.

Big and burly James Palluck of Rolling Meadows and Bruce Olson of Palatine, both husbands and fathers, two weeks ago decided to jump into the totally female world of green and yellow scouting.

In September, they'll become officially certified leaders of Junior Girl Scout Troops 808 and 755, the first male leaders of 9, 10 and 11-year-old girl scouts in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

Assistance in running the combined troops of some 55 girls will be provided by their wives, who have had experience as Brownie leaders for the past few years.

FRUSTRATION, MIXED with a little anger, moved the men to volunteer their services to scouting.

"Fifty-five mothers, and none of them wanted to volunteer to fill the empty leader positions of the two troops," Palluck said. Faced with the possibility of finding the two troops disbanded because of a lack of leaders, he and Olson decided to do the job themselves.

"We heard our wives complain about how inactive many of the troops were in town, and how hard it was to get volunteers," Olson said. They think their move might provide the necessary shot in the arm for more adults to participate in scouting.

The Pallucks have two daughters in scouting and the Olsons have one. By setting an example, they think they can prove to other parents that scouting can and should involve an entire family.

"We're not just going to have the usual committee mothers this year, we're going to have committee fathers, too," Palluck said. Expertise of more people, both men and women, will be used in the coming activities for their troops.

Already interest in local scouting seems to have picked up once the word about the two male leaders began to spread. "Many people have been calling us, offering their help now that they know the men have taken over the troops," Mrs. Olson said.

ALTHOUGH THE men will come in handy during cookouts and camping trips, especially when tents need to be pitched, they are faced with a definite problem when it comes to uniforms.

"At first we were thinking of something soft and lacy," Palluck, a Rolling Meadows fireman, said. Then the men gave serious thought to using some of their own uniforms, which include an old explorer's outfit, Olson's civil defense and Palluck's fireman's uniform and outgrown Air Force khakis.

They've got the rest of the summer to come up with a more feasible uniform, although they already have official Girl Scout pins which they plan to wear.

"I still opt for green underwear," Mrs. Olson told her husband, but he didn't seem sold on her idea.

The new leaders have taken some good-natured teasing about their scouting positions, and say most people, after getting over the initial shock, think it's great. The girls are also excited about their upcoming experience in scouting.

Even if some people still have doubts about their scouting abilities, the men don't.

"I don't know about the girls, but I can't wait to start," Palluck said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.8 per cent.

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Disyton — a concentrated poison — to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Time To Clear Leftover Issues

by MARGE FERROLI

As the kids make for the parks, pools and open fields for summer, school officials find themselves without their necessary equipment for operation.

Teachers, aside from those few needed for the summer school and migrant student programs, become unemployed. Half of Dist. 15's principals have also lost their homes. They simply don't need to be around for the next three months.

Following the end of school, there is still much to be done in the business office end of the school district to close out the end-of-the-year financial records. However, after June 30 a quiet will begin to settle over the district office, and with it, time to take care of the assorted problems left hanging during the year when day to day operation of the classrooms took precedence.

Perhaps the overriding issue that must be resolved before the beginning of the new school year is completion of contract negotiations with the teachers. They are asking a salary increase, although no one has actually spelled out how much, and funds are running shorter in the district office.

THE SECOND BIGGEST project needed to be completed this summer is putting on the finishing touches to Willow Bend and Lincoln schools, readying them for a September opening. Although an April fire at Willow Bend brought an estimated $113,000 in damages to the district, school officials don't expect a delay in the opening of the school.

What to do about parochial schools is a third issue which has been put off for months that must be resolved in the next three months. Representatives of three

Marge Ferrol

Catholic elementary schools in Palatine and Rolling Meadows approached the Dist. 15 board with a proposition for a shared-time program between the public and parochial schools.

A Dist. 15 task force studied the legalities involved in such a program, particularly concerning finances and state aid, and the general feasibility of it for over two months. Now the district is ready to meet again with the parochial representatives to consider the next step.

However, there may not even be a next step. Passage of parochialism seems imminent, which will help the Catholic schools out in their constant battle over the dollar. To what extent state aid to the parochial schools will help them out of their financial problems has yet to be determined.

Other planning, for curriculum and busing, will go on this summer as it does every summer. But most of those individuals involved or employed by Dist. 15 will enjoy a break in the constant activity of the rest of the school year.

The Lions International Cap'n. Crunch ship was one of many floats in the Elk Grove Village Jaycees' 13th annual peony parade and pageant yesterday.

Details will soon be available about Friendly Town, a program which provides a two-week vacation for an inner-city child. About 60 host families will be needed from the Northwest suburbs to open their homes and share their summer fun with an inner-city child. The Northwest area will be working with Faith Community Church on Chicago's West Side. In talking with a family who had a two week guest, they felt their own family benefited greatly from the experience. One area family continues to invite their summer house guest for visits during the year.

PALATINE NORTH Little League decided that little league is not just for the boys and the dads. The Mother's Auxiliary has arranged a benefit dance with a midnight buffet June 25 at the Arlington Heights Elks Club. Parents and interested friends who want to "keep them playing," call the ticket chairman, Mrs. Rose Carlson, 358-9072. Tickets are $5 per person.

A LUNCHEON to honor all the "Friends of Camp Fire Girls" who have contributed to their successful year was held last Thursday at St. Paul's United Church. Each leader made a dish for the pot luck luncheon.

Some of the guests received certificates of appreciation from Mrs. Barbara Gibbs, outgoing Leader's Association chairman. Rex McMorris, director of Palatine Park was awarded an appreciation certificate for making arrangements for the Camp Fire girls to use the park facilities. John Wilson, Ben Franklin received an appreciation certificate for his willingness to get supplies for the girls and leaders.

Appreciation certificates were also given to Mrs. Alma Mehn, Children's Services Department, Palatine Library; Rev. James Errant, for his generosity in allowing the Camp Fire Leaders to use the facilities at St. Paul's United Church St. Patricia Ann, for allowing Camp Fire Girls to use St. Thomas; and to Alex Berdnie of Palatine Welding for getting helium for balloons.

After extending appreciation to mothers who helped with the candy sale and other projects Barbara congratulated Mrs. Joan Swanson, the new Leaders Association chairman, Mrs. Kay Burke, vice chairman; and Mrs. Cathy Adams, secretary.

MEMBERS OF THE Palatine Leisure Club received $100 from the Palatine Junior Women's Club. Meetings of the Palatine Leisure Club are held on the second and fourth Tuesday of the month from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Palatine Savings and Loan meeting room. The club is for residents who are 50 years old and over. During the summer, members plan to go to Wagon Wheel for a day and to attend a play in addition to playing cards at their meetings.

CONGRATULATIONS to William M. Jake, 706 E. Meadow Ln., who was chosen the outstanding 1971 graduate at St. Viator's. In the fall he will attend Notre Dame University. Take note of this, Chuck Falkenberg, the new Chicago area Notre Dame University Alumni president!

After being given the Erdmann Trophy for being an outstanding student, Bill was also awarded the Sportsman award for baseball and the service award for being yearbook editor.

ANOTHER PALATINE St. Viator graduate, Robert Tabbert, received the YCS plaque for the outstanding service he rendered Bob plans to study for the priesthood. He will attend St. John's Vianney Seminary in Miami, Fla.

Library Gearing Up For Summer

The Palatine Public Library is gearing up to meet the needs of children this summer with several special programs which get under way this month.

The first begins today with the opening of a safari, termed an adventure in the land of reading. The program includes stamp collecting, reading certificates and films.

Books checked out today and thereafter may be entered on a reading record kept at the library. When a person reads 10 books of a certain length or five longer books he receives a beginning packet of stamps.

If he reads 10 more books or five longer books he'll receive another packet of stamps plus credit for a reading certificate to be awarded at the end of the summer.

A family program of films, stories, and folk singing begins Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Thereafter films will be shown every Thursday at 3 p.m.

The Winston Park area will have a special program, with the Palatine Public Library coming out to the subdivision where staff members will conduct outdoor programs of folktales, and folk songs.

TERMED TURNABOUT, the program will serve children age six to eight at all Winston Park homes. The sites and dates will be announced later by the library.

The Turnabout requires no registration and no admission fee, and is planned to begin June 21.

The preschool story program which will be held every Friday this summer, begins June 25 at 11 a.m.

Another addition to the library this year is the newsletter "Currents." Three elementary students have been chosen as editors of "Currents" published monthly by the children's department of the library.

These editors are Barb French, a seventh grader at Winston Park School; and Kelly Coughlin and Sue Bornarth, eighth graders at Paddock School.

Barb currently works on the school paper, "Words of Winston." Sue loves writing and would like to write for teenage girls' magazines. Kelly has prepared posters advertising "Currents," which can be seen in the library.

The newsletter will include news, jokes and riddles.

Hearing On Water Rate Boost June 23

The second hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission on the Ferndale Heights Utilities Co. request to raise its rates 30 per cent has been changed to June 23.

Homeowners groups north of Palatine which have banded together to oppose the increase include Pinehurst, Peppertree Farms and Heatherlea.

Ferndale has proposed raising quarterly bills for 12,000 gallons of water and sewer fees from a minimum of $22.50 per residence to $28.60 minimum.

The first hearing on the request was April 27. The second has been rescheduled several times, according to Thomas L. Spitz, president of Pinehurst Manor Homeowners Assn. The latest change was from June 8. The hearing will be at 10 a.m. at the Illinois Commerce Commission office, 116 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, on the 19th floor.

Spitz has charged that Ferndale is taxing its customers to pay for its expansion into nearby residential and multiple dwelling developments through its rate increase.

Ray DiVito, manager of the Mount Prospect utility company, earlier denied that charge, saying that the increase was to improve the utility's service in the communities it already serves.

Spitz and the homeowners groups have pointed out that Rolling Meadows residents pay only $8.88 to get the same service they pay $22.50 for.

The Ferndale company is also involved in a legal suit with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott.

Scott charged Ferndale last year with creating a public nuisance and waterway pollution by its discharge of raw sewage into the Buffalo Creek Drainage Ditch, which runs through the Pinehurst Manor subdivision.

Day Nursery Request Blocked

A request by a Palatine resident to use 2.7 acres of his land as a day nursery for preschoolers has been rejected by the county board.

Last month the county zoning board of appeals recommended denial of the request.

Kurt Steir, 502 W. Baldwin road, had requested a special use for land north of Northwest Highway and east of Martin Drive to build and operate a day care center for up to 30 children.

Paul Marcy, secretary of the county zoning board, said the board opposed the special use because of objections filed by the Village of Palatine and because Steir "failed to present an adequate case for his nursery."

The nursery would have been in the single-family residence area.

The Palatine Village Board agreed the unincorporated site for the nursery was inadequate for proper drainage.

2 Hoffman Estates Kids In Intensive Care Units

Two Hoffman Estates children Friday remained in intensive care units in area hospitals, one with a brain injury and the other with a brain hemorrhage.

Both children are 13 years old and attend Helen Keller Junior High School.

Duffy Kilrain, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoggins Road across from Barrington Square, was struck by an auto June 4 and injured his head. He still was unconscious Friday, and hospital authorities said there had been no change in his condition, which was listed as critical. He had, however, shown slight response to stimulants. Duffy is at St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Rhonda Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cooper, 209 Woodlawn, Hoffman Estates, is in serious condition in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Rhonda was in a science class Wednesday when she became dizzy and fell from her chair. She told school officials she had pains in her head and muscle spasms. When she was taken to the hospital, doctors said they believed she had suffered a brain hemorrhage, similar to a stroke for an adult. Her condition is listed as serious, but improved. Duffy would have graduated from eighth grade Thursday. Rhonda just completed seventh grade.

David Dulberg, a classmate of Duffy's, by Friday had collected $380 in a fund drive to help Mr. and Mrs. Hoggins with hospital expenses. David originated the idea for the collection himself and handled details of it with help from school officials. His mother, Mrs. Herbert Dulberg, said Friday students had contributed money from allowances and earnings, and the response had been gratifying.

Mrs. Hoggins also thanked the children for their contributions, saying she was gratified by their generosity.

Community Church Slates Bible School

Community Church Vacation Bible School begins June 21 and runs until July 2 for children between the ages of 3 and 12.

Individual fee is $1.50 and family fee is $3. The classes will include activity and learning centers based on standard church curriculum.

Interested persons may register at the church lobby Sunday morning June 13 and June 20 or opening day June 21. The bible school is held weekdays from 9:30 a.m. until 11 a.m.

Plan Swim Crackdown In Rolling Meadows

Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case has announced that "more drastic steps" will be taken if youths continue to swim in unprotected areas in the city.

"There are a number of places in Rolling Meadows where kids are continually playing and swimming that are dangerous," Case said. He has only issued warnings so far, but may pick up youths who swim in areas that are not sanctioned and notify their parents.

Case said one place where many people have been swimming is a large hole west of Willow Bend Elementary School on Barker Avenue. He said officers this weekend issued warning to those swimming.

"This place is extremely dangerous," Case added. "We don't know how deep it is and if there are rocks on the bottom. Someone even put a diving board at the swimming hole."

Standard Safety Land Is Annexed

About 10 acres of land owned by Standard Safety Equipment Co. on Quentin Road were annexed to Palatine recently.

The property was rezoned to manufacturing.

The company was annexed as a non-conforming building and can operate without changes. Several stipulations were included in the agreement, however.

If there is an application for a building permit for any major construction or decorating the rest of the building must be brought into conformity. The floor area between fire walls is larger than that required by the building code for a building without a sprinkler system.

Extension of a water main, south of Quentin Road to Colfax, together with the proper installation of hydrants to afford better fire protection was agreed upon.

Ambulance OK'd By City Council

Rolling Meadows officials have given tentative approval for purchase of a $14,300 ambulance, to be partially financed by federal matching funds.

According to city officials, the ambulance will be operated by the fire department and approximately $3,000 will be paid by the fire district.

City council wanted a resolution adopted by the fire district stating that it has "sufficient men to operate the vehicle" and a guarantee of what portion the fire district will pay before final approval is given.

Relief Is Month Off For Algonquin Widening Project

Motorists traveling the busy and rough strip of Algonquin Road through Rolling Meadows can expect relief in about a month, according to state highway officials.

The Illinois Division of Highways construction department said the two westbound lanes will be completed about July 15. The traffic will be routed onto the two finished westbound lanes while the final two eastbound lanes undergo construction.

"This is a real inconvenience," said City Engineer James Muldowney, "but it is necessary." He said the state constructs roads while the traffic is routed near the site, and Muldowney said the state's method is "the best way."

"THIS IS THE FASTEST way to get the job done and in the end the best way," Muldowney added. If the traffic was detoured as in many county construction projects, it would take two years to complete Algonquin Road, he said. "This is a lot of inconvenience for a few months and then the road will be excellent."

Because of construction, eastbound travelers now detour to the eastern lane. The volume of traffic has caused deterioration of the highway and the shoulder which was installed to allow a two-way flow of traffic.

Before construction of the highway was begun, Rolling Meadows police traffic officer Charles Smith said Algonquin Road "was the most hazardous stretch of highway in the city." Smith said he has received a number of reports of minor accidents on Algonquin during the construction.

Howard Westfall, state construction supervisor, said the department has received a number of complaints from motorists who travel the highway, but said the state is attempting to keep the road in acceptable condition.

Westfall said the entire four-lane highway will be completed this December.

THE BULK OF construction is now being done near the Southland Shopping Center and Algonquin Park Apartments. According to state reports, the contractor is filling holes in the road each day due to the heavy traffic flow.

All of Algonquin is under contract from Busse Road to Rte. 53. Muldowney said the section of Algonquin near Busse is nearly completed now, and the final section to be completed is near Rte. 53 in Rolling Meadows.

The section of Algonquin Road running through Rolling Meadows is between Wilke and Rte. 53 and will have a 16-foot median strip between the four lanes.

Ambulance License Opposition Dropped

A Rolling Meadows city council resolution urging Sen. John A. Graham to oppose Illinois House Bill 2412, which requires state licensing of local ambulance service in municipalities under 25,000, was withdrawn after dissent from city aldermen.

Ald. Frederick Jacobson presented the resolution for passage, but after opposing views from aldermen who stated state licensing might be "a good way to protect against unqualified operators," he withdrew the resolution. "After thinking this thing over again, I have to agree that state licensing may be needed."

Mayor Roland Meyer commented that opposition to the bill should come because of the provision for municipalities under 25,000. "If licensing is required, it should be for all cities," Meyer said.

'No Peddlers' Signs Offered

Signs prohibiting door-to-door salesmen in Rolling Meadows are now on sale at city hall.

The four-inch signs cost 10 cents each and state "no solicitor's invited." Any door-to-door salesman trying to gain admittance to homes where the sign is displayed will be subject to a $500 fine, according to a recently passed solicitor's ordinance limiting salesmen in Rolling Meadows.

City Mgr. James Watson said the signs "are necessary to prohibit door-to-door salesmen. People who do not have the sign in their homes will not be covered by the ordinance."

The ordinance states that persons selling door-to-door in Rolling Meadows must be registered with the city clerk, who has the right to reject solicitor applicants after a check by the chief of police.

For residents wishing door-to-door salesmen at their homes, another sign is available at city hall for 10 cents. This sign states "only solicitors registered in Rolling Meadows invited."

Only persons who have been registered with the city clerk would be allowed to sell door-to-door at homes where the solicitors invited sign is displayed.

Council Waives Carnival Fees

All fees for the July Jaycee carnival were waived by Rolling Meadows city council last week after dissent on whether the liquor license fees should be waived.

City council unanimously approved the carnival, which will run from July 28 to Aug. 1, but a resolution to return the $50 liquor license fee was opposed by three aldermen, and passed by a one-vote margin.

"It may be setting a dangerous precedent," Ald. Kenneth Reitzke told city council. "We should hold this fee high," said Ald. Stephen Eberhard.

The Rolling Meadows Boys Baseball Program will operate the beer booth at the carnival and will receive the funds to purchase equipment.

CLEAN-UP CREWS at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex spent many evening hours last week sprucing up the outdoor swimming pool to make it ready for its opening Sunday. Ed Mastin stretches in awkward positions to paint the sides of the diving board. The pool will be open seven days a week now to Labor Day. Daily open swim and family swim hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. every afternoon and from 6:30 to 8 and 8 to 9:30 p.m. each evening.

Hermitage Trace Decision Hinges On Taxes

Sam Pancotta, representing the Hermitage Trace Apartments in Hoffman Estates, was told Thursday to pay taxes on his area developments before consideration would be given for the local complex's second development stage.

Richard Regan, plan commission chairman, told Pancotta to show payment has been made for 1969 at Meadow Trace in Rolling Meadows and the first installment of 1970 taxes there or show the plan commission just cause why they haven't been paid. Meadow Trace is within the boundaries of Schaumburg Township School District 54.

Pancotta was before the plan commission requesting approval to build 347 units in nine buildings for Hermitage Trace. The proposal calls for 97 one-bedroom, 214 two-bedroom, and 36 three-bedroom units. In first stage development 416 apartments have been constructed at Hermitage Trace, located southwest of Golf and Higgins Roads.

Meadow Trace, in Schaumburg School Dist. 54, owes $368,500 in back taxes, according to Donn Rudd, Dist. 54 School board president, who also sits as a plan commissioner in Hoffman Estates. Pancotta, according to Rudd, is supposed to have paid $25,000 a month since March toward taxes held under protest. The agreement was made in March but only one payment has been made, according to Rudd's information.

Rudd said, as best as he can tell, there are no delinquent taxes on Hermitage Trace. Rudd's concern is for money due from Meadow Trace to the school district serving Hoffman Estates.

In other business the plan commission continued consideration of the Ring Brothers development. Under the plan proposed, 790 studio, one and two bedroom apartments are to be built around a 12 acre lake. The site is on 45.6 acres located northeast of Barrington and Has-sell Roads.

An agreement was reached to build a bath house planned for the development's recreation facility using state standards. Further investigation is being made on what mechanics will be used to aerate the 12 acre lake and keep the water circulating to avoid a mosquito breeding grounds.

OK $130,000 For Street, Sewer Work

Rolling Meadows officials have approved more than $130,000 in funds for use in the city streets and sewer program. The city council already has authorized $160,000 for resurfacing 25 city streets this summer.

The bulk of the latest expenditure will be used for construction and sewer work on Barker Avenue near the new Rolling Meadows High School. About $84,000 will be used for construction of Barker Avenue from Algonquin Road to approximately 880 feet north. Rock Road Construction Co. was the successful bidder on the project.

Rock Road Co. also was awarded the contract of $52,500 for a 60-inch storm sewer on the north side of Algonquin Road from Barker Avenue west. Kuntze Development Co., and fees from the former Royal Coach Co. will make up $42,000 of the cost with the city paying $13,000.

THE CITY COUNCIL also approved $4,000 for street repairs at Carnegie near Hunt Avenue and also Brookmeade Drive and Thorntree Lane. Grouse Lane and Meadow Drive will also be repaired.

The entire street repaving program will begin in July, according to City Mgr. James Watson. A repaving machine will handle the street work this summer. The machine removes the old surface and adds new material in one operation.

Girl Killed On Rte. 53

A 14-year-old Arlington Heights girl was struck by a car and killed Saturday while walking across Rte. 53 near the Northwest Highway overpass in Palatine.

Christine Sadowski, 1703 Brown Ave. was returning home from Capital Doughnut Lake when she was hit by a vehicle driven by Marvin Hawthorne, 42, of Milwaukee.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:37 p.m., according to state police.

Hawthorne was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and was released on bond Saturday.

Miss Sadowski was crossing the Rte. 53 express lanes going east from the man-made tollway lake when the accident occurred. She had just graduated from Thomas Junior High School.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sadowski and six brothers and sisters. Services will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Edna's Church in Arlington Heights. Visitation after 1 p.m. today at Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vall, Arlington Heights.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.8 per cent.

An unemployed office worker with a police record is being held in $200,000 bail in New York while Chicago authorities prepare death penalty charges against him as the first U. S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 23, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

The seven survivors of nine premature infants born to an Australian housewife are clinging to life in incubators in a Sydney hospital. The mother had been taking a drug which facilitates normal childbirth but also enhances fertility.

The War

Communist forces ambushed a truck convoy and destroyed a civilian bus with a mine in attacks in the Central Highlands that killed 17 persons, most of them civilians. U. S. B-52 bombers pounded troop concentrations and bunker complexes just below the Demilitarized Zone in the heaviest raids in South Vietnam in two months.

A trash fire spread to an ammunition dump in downtown Phnom Penh, Cambodia, setting off explosions that rocked the capital for more than two hours. Several persons were slightly wounded.

The State

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Dioxin—a concentrated poison—to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

A bill giving public employees, including policemen, firemen and teachers, the right to strike, and engage in collective bargaining, passed the Illinois House by a solid 98-43 vote.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Tonti, is a mystery which may remain unsolved for months, federal investigators said Friday.

Building Permit For MacArthur JHS Is Approved

A building permit for construction of an addition to the Dist. 23 Douglas MacArthur Junior High School was signed into effect by the school board Thursday evening.

Construction of the addition began several months ago, but the architect hired by the district, Architectural Management Inc., failed to apply for the county permit. The school board members discovered the permit had not been issued after they were notified by the county that the architect's plans did not meet the Illinois Life Safety Code.

The school board has held a series of special meetings during the past weeks to discuss correction of the code violations. Once the architects had supplied the drawings of the proposed corrections, the school board refused to accept the permit until the cost of the corrections was determined.

THE CORRECTIONS involve such things as adding heat and smoke detectors, changing the ventilation system in the gym and lowering a ceiling in the library.

At the meeting Thursday, the architect presented the board with a cost list and agreed to pay a portion of the costs, which total approximately $900. The architect will pay the increase of the cost of labor and materials since the project was let out for bids. It was estimated that the increase is approximately 20 per cent of the total cost.

The school board approved the corrections along with other revisions in the construction plans in a change order that will cost approximately $15,000. The other revisions are being made at the request of district personnel and the county education office.

The revisions include such things as modifying a storage area under the stage, raising the ceiling height of two physical education rooms, and changing the layout for a resource center and science lab. As originally designed, the area under the stage could not store the district's folding chairs. It will cost $2,287 to modify the storage area. In addition, the architects did not design two physical education rooms for trampolines use. It will cost $13,346 to raise the ceiling of the rooms five feet at the highest point.

AT PAST MEETINGS district officials have said they don't know how they are going to pay for the change order. In February voters authorized the district to sell $1.2 million in bonds for construction of additions to MacArthur and the Betsy Ross School and for remodeling at the Anne Sullivan School. Supt. Edward Grodzky said, "the added costs will have to be taken out of the bond sale. We just have to hope we have enough."

According to the contractor the change order has delayed the construction several weeks. Robert Nowack, representing the contractor, said the construction will not be completed before the middle of November.

"A CANDLE IN THE NIGHT," a legend of North Africa, was performed by costumed students at the Dist. 26 Bond School in Mount Prospect last week. The class is for children with learning disabilities.

Teachers Again Reject Pact Offer From School Board

Teachers in School Dist. 21 have voted a second time to reject a teacher contract offer made by the school board and administration.

According to Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill, the teachers voted 181-61 Thursday to reject the proposal.

Gill said Friday that the board-administration negotiating team will go into further negotiations with the faculty council to negotiate a new contract "as soon as they request it."

David Tomchek, regional representative for the Illinois Education Association who has been working with the Dist. 21 faculty council, was unavailable for comment Friday.

The major area of disagreement between the two parties on a new contract centers around the type of system used to determine teachers' salaries.

THE BOARD AND administration has favored the use of an increment system, while the council has favored an index system, as has been used in the previous year.

In the index system, raises for all teachers are based on the salary of beginning teachers in the district, so that if the salaries for beginning teachers were raised, the salaries of experienced teachers would rise proportionately.

In the increment system, the salary of a starting teacher would not affect the salary paid an experienced teacher.

GILL SAID THAT the board and administration wish to reinstate the increment system of determining teachers' salaries because the district "cannot afford to meet the financial obligations of the index system, and pay adequately the lower-echelon people on the scale."

Gill said he is confident that the salary dispute can be settled to the satisfaction of all parties, but that he couldn't predict when the dispute will be concluded.

The original contract offer made by the district was rejected last spring by the teachers. Later it was also rejected by the faculty council, the teachers' organization recognized by the district as the sole bargaining agent for the teachers.

New School May Get A Name Tonight

The high school planned for Buffalo Grove may be named tonight.

High School Dist. 214's board of education will consider an administration recommendation to name the school Buffalo Grove High School.

Board meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., in Mount Prospect.

In background information given to board members last week, administrators cite tremendous support from the residents of Buffalo Grove for the recent referendum and tradition as two reasons for this name.

Though the board has no definite policy on naming schools, in all cases where the school was the first or the only school within an incorporated area, the school was named after the community.

The eighth high school will be first and very likely the only high school in Buffalo Grove, administrators point out.

Students from other communities will attend the eighth high school, but the same situation exists at Prospect, Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows High Schools.

Tonight the board will also consider a proposal for canceling the rental agreement on the site of the eighth high school.

Architects for the school feel the site may be needed for construction by mid-August. The current renter, Irv Ahrens, has planted seed, fertilized and applied insecticide. A settlement on the rental agreement, which has been suggested by the University of Illinois, will be discussed by the board.

Use of the site in mid-August is necessary because of a "fast tracking" procedure by which site work and foundations can be started before complete architectural plans are approved. District officials hope to save money by beginning construction this summer rather than waiting to bid the whole project.

$275,000 In Bonds Sold By Fire District

$275,000 in bonds were sold by the Prospect Heights Fire District last week to upgrade the department's facilities.

The bonds were sold to the First National Bank of Mount Prospect at an interest rate of approximately 5.3 per cent. Voters authorized the bond sale in a May referendum.

Funds from the bond sale will be used for remodeling the present station, building an addition to it and buying land and equipment.

Trustee Henry Vallely said no date has been set for beginning construction of the addition. "We won't know when we can begin the construction until we purchase the land," he said. The land is adjacent to the station on the east.

Actual negotiations for the land purchase have not started. If the property owner and the district trustees cannot agree on a selling price, the district may have to take the case to Cook County Circuit Court in a condemnation suit. In the court, either the judge or a jury would decide the selling price.

THE TRUSTEES have slated $64,000 for purchase of the land and equipment. The equipment includes furniture and supplies for the office and garage areas including an air compressor, a natural gas generator and radio room equipment.

Remodeling the present station and construction of an addition will cost approximately $140,000, according to architect James Ray. Ray has designed plans for a one-story, three-door addition. The 5,400-square-foot addition will house six vehicles with a six-foot-wide lane between each of the two storage lanes.

The present 2,175-square-foot building will be remodeled to include a fireman's association office, a lobby, a control room, a chief's office, and officer's room, a kitchen and sleeping quarters. A maintenance room, storage room, hose drying tower, and meeting room also are included in the remodeling plans.

Another $71,000 of the bond sale will be used to purchase a new pumper truck and a new squad car, in addition to paying a $16,000 debt on a 1968 pumper truck.

Park District To Lose Pair

The positions of park commissioner and treasurer on the River Trails Park District board will be vacated at the end of this month.

Marvin Goldsmith of Prospect Heights has announced that he must resign from the board because he is moving to Northbrook. Goldsmith, vice president of the M. Loeb and Co., a wholesale grocery, has served on the board since the district was formed in the fall of 1965. During the past two years he was board president.

John Butler of Mount Prospect has also announced his resignation, after serving as the board treasurer for four years. Butler plans to move to Arizona for business reasons.

Marvin Weiss, park director, said anyone wishing to apply for either of the two positions should contact him at the district office, 303 S. Lee St., Prospect Heights. "I will arrange an interview with the park board, for each of the applicants."

The new park commissioner will serve until April, 1973, at which time he may run for election. The position of treasurer is paid and appointed.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.8 per cent.

S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 23, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

Lake Briarwood Fights Apartments

Residents of the Lake Briarwood subdivision near Algonquin Road, and Dempster Street in unincorporated Mount Prospect continued their fight, this time at a village judiciary committee meeting Thursday, to prevent more apartments from being built in their development.

However, at the meeting Thursday, their objections were met with a suggestion by Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmermann that could, technically, remove the existing as well as proposed apartments from the subdivision entirely.

The proposal to which the residents object calls for Mount Prospect to annex and rezone several lots at the southeast end of the development. In all, the parcel in question includes about four acres. Under the proposal the land would be rezoned primarily for apartments with a few lots being used for single-family homes.

The village's plan commission recommended in May that the village board turn down the proposal because plan commissioners feared increased traffic congestion the development in the apartments were built.

PLAN COMMISSIONERS pointed out there is only one means of access to the development, in alluding to the traffic problem. Another reason for their unfavorable recommendation was there would be no direct access to the annexed area from other parts of the village.

Following the plan commission's deliberations on the matter, it was forwarded to the judiciary committee for consideration Thursday. After almost two hours of comments and occasional arguments between the approximately 20 Lake Briarwood residents, and E. L. Trendel the property owner, the committee agreed with the plan commission and recommended the board deny the proposal.

The final decision rests with the village board. Trustee Daniel Ahern, committee chairman, said the matter would be on the board's July 6 meeting agenda.

In opposing the apartments, residents contend that increased traffic congestion, and a resulting safety hazard for children, would occur if the development was built. They also predict that current problems with outsiders using the lake illegally would worsen. Contentions that the value of their homes would drop if the apartments were built were also made by residents.

TO THIS, TRENDL pointed out the homes' value has increased over the last several years even though currently there are 27 apartment units in the southeast corner of the development. He also pointed out he had planned apartments on the parcels in question for several years "as a buffer between the development and the (Northwest) Tollway." He was stopped by a lawsuit filed by the subdivision residents.

A PROPOSAL that could end the lake privileges now held by apartment tenants was put forth by Acting Village Mgr. Zimmermann. He pointed out that an apartment development slated for the west side of Busse and southeast of the Briarwood development on unincorporated land might be expanded to include the present apartments in the southeast corner of Briarwood as well as the lots up for annexation.

Zimmermann said that if all the developers agreed that expanded development might be brought into the village as a planned unit development. Currently the existing apartments are at the end of a cul-de-sac Briarwood Drive in the subdivision. With the construction of the expanded development, Zimmermann pointed out that access to those apartments could be achieved by means of a road from Busse Avenue. The cul-de-sac, he said, could be barricaded and the apartments would thus be, technically, no longer a part of the subdivision. As such, the present apartment tenants and those that would live in the future apartments would have no lake privileges. Under the present arrangement they are entitled to use the lake, something many of the Lake Briarwood residents expressed concern about Thursday.

Zimmermann emphasized at the meeting, however, that his proposal has not yet been agreed to by any of the developers concerned.

Set Annex Issue Hearing

A controversy between Prospect Heights residents and Wheeling Village board over the village's annexation of 40 acres is now scheduled to be heard in the Cook County Circuit Court Wednesday.

The village recently annexed the land, formerly in Prospect Heights and rezoned it for apartments. The land, owned by Arthur Lieblich, is south of the St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights.

Members of a Prospect Heights group called the "Wheeling Road Zoning Committee" asked the state to file a suit which calls for cancellation of Wheeling's annexation. The residents claim the annexation is invalid and they object to Lieblich's development plans.

Attorney Donald Kreger, who is representing the Prospect Heights group, has filed a motion asking the court to settle the suit without a trial because "it is not an issue of fact." Both parties agree that only the northwest corner of Lieblich's land touches the village. The judge must decide what constitutes contiguity.

Previously the hearing was continued because the state's attorney was out of town. Now the court may appoint a "special" state's attorney, so that the hearing can proceed Wednesday.

6 Teachers Earn Awards

Six teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 have received monetary awards for outstanding service in the supervision of extracurricular activities.

The school board recently awarded $200 to William Brose for yearbook and drama, Patricia Finke for drama, David Johnson for yearbook and Daniel Vondran for student council. Howard Holmgren received $100 for his work as a bus supervisor and Michael Jetel received the same amount for his work as an audio-visual coordinator. All six are teachers at Lincoln Junior High School.

To receive an award, teachers must be nominated for "exemplary service" by another teacher. A committee of teachers and administrators then choose the award winners. Extra merit awards range from $100 to $300.

According to the 1970-71 teacher contract, teachers are paid for extra duty with amounts ranging from $150 for supervision of elementary patrol boys to $425 for coaching basketball.

"The purpose of these awards is to reward teachers with a single payment over and above the extra duty pay," said Supt. Eric Sahlberg. "These teachers have taken an extra responsibility upon themselves."

1,000 To Start Summer School

School in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 starts again tomorrow for more than 1,000 students and 58 teachers.

The district's summer school program will run from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at five schools. They are William Busse, 101 N. Owen St.; Fairview, 300 N. Fairview Ave.; Lions Park, 300 E. Council Tr.; Westbrook, 106 S. Busse Rd., and Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St. Students from public and parochial school have registered to attend the enrichment and developmental program that ends July 16.

Courses are being offered at primary, intermediate and junior high levels. The program includes enrichment courses in reading, art, creative dramatics, creative writing, field biology, cultural arts and humanities, microbiology and group guitar. Development courses offered are in mathematics, reading, speech therapy and language skills.

Latest official enrollment figures total 1,022. Supt. Eric Sahlberg said he expects enrollment will continue to increase until classes start tomorrow. Sahlberg said that in the past five years, summer school enrollments have ranged from 350 for last year's enrollment of nearly 1,400.

Cost of the program is $5 per pupil for a textbook rental fee. Separate charges will be made for materials used in special projects or for transportation for scheduled field trips. Pupils who are not residents in Dist. 57 must pay a tuition fee of $40 in addition to the rental fee.

Ronald Sterrett is director for the program.

Voters Voice Resounding 'No' To School Proposals

By a two to one margin, voters in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Saturday turned down two proposals to increase the district's tax rate by 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The proposal which would have increased the education fund tax rate by 21 cents per $100, out of which teachers are paid and instructional programs funded, was defeated by a vote of 2,623 to 1,456.

A six cent increase for the building fund, which pays for custodial salaries and building maintenance, was defeated by 2,944 to 1,333.

Only the precinct voting at Ridge School in Elk Grove Village voted in favor of the two measures.

If passed the two proposals would have replaced the money the district stands to lose if a Circuit Court decision outlawing corporate personal property tax is upheld, district officials had said.

If the decision is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court or if it is still undecided through the summer, the district must now cut about $754,000 from the 1971-72 education and building fund budgets, according to the district figures.

The margin of defeat for the two proposals was greater than the margin when the district lost a tax rate referendum in 1968. That year the proposal to increase the education fund passed except for a two to one defeat at High Ridge Knolls School in Des Plaines.

Precinct by precinct totals are:

Pct. 1, Clearmont School, education fund defeated by 261 to 222; building fund defeated by 279 to 203.

Pct. 2, Rupley School, education fund defeated by 291 to 139; building fund defeated 312 to 118.

Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls School, education fund defeated 510 to 130; building fund defeated by 524 to 117.

Pct. 4, Ridge School, education fund passed 208 to 154; building fund passed 194 to 177.

Pct. 5, Devonshire School, education fund defeated 214 to 59; building fund defeated 217 to 59.

Pct. 6, Forest View School, education fund defeated 381 to 105; building fund defeated 385 to 101.

Pct. 7, Juliette Low School, education fund defeated 304 to 117; building fund defeated 107 to 112.

Pct. 8, Salt Creek School, education fund defeated 324 to 320; building fund defeated 345 to 300.

Pct. 9, Robert Frost School, education fund defeated by 149 to 101; building fund defeated by 155 to 95.

Pct. 10, Albert Einstein School, education fund defeated 235 to 55; building fund defeated 238 to 52.

Charge Some Pay More Than Fair Share Of Bond Issue

About one-third of the homeowners in Mount Prospect are paying a disproportionate share of a 1963 village water and sewer bond issue, according to a charge made by a group of residents last week.

The group attended Thursday's meeting of the village board's judiciary committee to protest their $2.50 monthly sewer charge, contending part of the sum was being used to pay off 85 per cent of the debt on the bond issue.

Louis Velasco and several other residents at the meeting termed this unfair, noting that about one-third of the property owners are paying off 85 per cent of the bond debt.

THE GROUP represented three Mount Prospect homeowners associations: the Lou-Elm and Mount Shire groups and the Fairview Gardens Civic Association.

About two-thirds of the sewers in Mount Prospect are owned not by the village, but by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD). The remaining one-third are village owned.

The residents in the MSD sewer area pay their $2.50 sewer charge to the MSD. Those in the village-owned sewer area pay the charge to the village.

The objectors estimated that only about $10,000 of the approximately $90,000 collected annually from the village-owned sewer area is actually used for sewer maintenance. The rest, they say, is used to help pay off the $90,000 annual debt on the bond issue. This sum coupled to the amount they pay toward the debt through their water bills results in their paying about 85 per cent of the bill on the bonds each year.

"This," charged Velasco, "is immoral, if not illegal."

The objector also noted that the homes in the areas they say are paying most of the debt, were not in the village at the time the bond issue came about. "But, in a bond issue, all residents are liable for it," answered Trustee Richard Monroe.

VELASCO FIRST brought up the matter last summer, seeking unsuccessfully to have the village board look into it.

More recently, at the June 1 village board meeting Richard Hendricks, an unsuccessful trustee candidate in the last election, asked that a committee be appointed to study the matter. Hendricks at that time indicated he represented the three homeowners associations in the matter.

Mayor Robert Teichert refused to turn the matter over to a committee, saying the study "would lead to nowhere." He pointed out that $2.50 charge collected from those in the area served by the village's sewers, is put into a general fund with various other types of water and sewer revenues. He indicated he felt a breakdown of what the sewer charges were used for would be unfeasible.

Trustee Dan Ahern, chairman of the judiciary committee, disagreed with Teichert at the board meeting, however, and urged Teichert to charge a committee with studying the matter. Though refusing to turn it over to a committee, Teichert did agree to "let the judiciary committee study it at its own (Ahern's) request."

At the conclusion of the judiciary committee meeting Thursday Ahern said he felt there were inequities connected with the sewer charge. He added that a "perfect time for discussing it was coming up soon — when we discuss raising the water rates."

Stereo Unit Stolen

A combination stereo tape deck and AM-FM radio was stolen sometime Wednesday from a car parked in the lot at Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping Center, Rand and Central roads.

Police said the equipment was stolen from the car belonging to Marcella Kravets, 1401 Greenwood Dr., sometime between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Police said the car was locked.

Park District To Lose Pair

The positions of park commissioner and treasurer on the River Trails Park District board will be vacated at the end of this month.

Marvin Goldsmith of Prospect Heights has announced that he must resign from the board because he is moving to Northbrook. Goldsmith, vice president of the M. Loeb and Co., a wholesale grocery, has served on the board since the district was formed in the fall of 1965. During the past two years he was board president.

John Butler of Mount Prospect has also announced his resignation, after serving as the board treasurer for four years. Butler plans to move to Arizona for business reasons.

Marvin Weiss, park director, said anyone wishing to apply for either of the two positions should contact him at the district office, 303 S. Lee St., Prospect Heights. "I will arrange an interview with the park board, for each of the applicants."

The new park commissioner will serve until April, 1973, at which time he may run for election. The position of treasurer is paid and appointed.

Theft Reported

Cyclone fencing valued at $360 was stolen sometime late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning from the lot behind the G. C. Murphy Store in the Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping Center, Rand and Central roads.

Police said three rolls of fencing apparently were removed by truck or van from the back of the store at Rand and Central roads. Police said the theft occurred between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. Wednesday morning.

MOUNT PROSPECT policeman waits for ambulance with one of three cyclists injured Thursday night in an automobile-motorcycle collision in Mount Prospect.

Three Hurt In Collision

A Mount Prospect man was in good condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines after he was injured Thursday in an accident involving three motorcycles and an automobile in Mount Prospect.

Frank Kretzler, 21, of 114 N. Fairview Ave., was taken to the hospital after his motorcycle and two others collided with a car driven by Ernest Soderlund, 17, of 211 N. Emerson St. The accident occurred early Thursday night at Fairview Avenue and Memory Lane.

The other two cyclists injured, Edward Hawkins, 20, of 911 Wildwood Dr., Mount Prospect, and Gerald Hawkins, 22, of 420 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates, were treated at local hospitals and released. Soderlund was uninjured.

According to Mount Prospect police, witnesses said the three cyclists were riding side-by-side when the collision occurred. The three cyclists have been charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, according to a police spokesman.

Miss Mount Prospect Candidates Honored

Miss Mount Prospect candidates were honored recently at a mother-daughter tea sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

The candidates are Marcy Vosbaugh, Amal Farhad, Delores Dahiquiste, Janice Accursi, Gloria Janet, Jill Bohanan, Stephanie Armenakis and Delores Lango.

Miss Mount Prospect of 1971 will be chosen Saturday in a pageant at Prospect High School. She will receive a $300 scholarship donated by the Mount Prospect State Bank, the First National Bank of Mount Prospect and the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

The pageant will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $1 and are available from any Jaycee and can be purchased at the door.

Teachers Vote To Sign Pact For Next Year

by WANDALYN RICE

Teachers in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 voted Friday to ratify a 1971-72 contract that will increase their pay scale by 3 per cent over last year's contract.

Tom Dresser, head of negotiations for the Teachers Council, which is the sole bargaining agent for district teachers, said the vote in favor of the contract was "overwhelming" with only three schools not reporting vote totals Friday afternoon.

The Dist. 59 Board of Education will hold a special meeting Thursday to vote on ratifying the contract. There are 523 teachers, most of whom are members of the Teachers Council, in the 20-school district.

The new contract increases base pay for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree and no experience from $7,600 to $7,828. Increments to the base pay are added as teachers gain more experience or education.

Under the new contract, a teacher with 15 years' experience and a master's degree with 30 additional hours will receive $16,480.

ALTHOUGH base pay and the scale are being increased by 3 per cent over last year, teachers now in the district will get a 7 per cent pay increase, Teachers Council Pres. Robert Beaupre said.

A teacher now in the district would have gotten a 4 per cent increase because of added experience if the 1970-71 pay scale was applied without change next year, he said.

Two non-monetary provisions of the contract that are new this year are an impasse procedure and a defined procedure for evaluations of probationary and tenure teachers, Beaupre said.

The impasse procedure provides for a federal mediator to be called in if the two sides fail to agree in negotiations.

The evaluation procedure, Beaupre said, "makes it harder for a principal to get rid of somebody without a good reason." In the past evaluations have been governed only by administrative procedure.

TALKS ON THE contract began in February immediately after a one-day teachers' strike and settlement of the 1970-71 contract.

Negotiations on the 1970-71 contract broke down last fall in a dispute over class size.

The pay increase granted in the new contract is much smaller than increases that have come out of negotiations in Dist. 59 in the past few years.

In 1968-69, base pay was $6,300 and was increased 10 per cent to $7,000 in 1969-70. The base was raised 8 per cent last year to $7,600.

On Dean's List

Three Mount Prospect residents were named to the dean's list recently at the Illinois Institute of Technology. They are Gregory T. Bielawski of 505 S. I-Oka, Gary J. Kizior of 1222 W. Sunset Rd., and Dennis A. Koppo of 1213 Robert.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former service men is 10.8 per cent.

An unemployed office worker with a police record is being held in $200,000 bail in New York while Chicago authorities prepare death penalty charges against him as the first U. S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 23, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

The World

Israeli antiaircraft batteries fired at two Egyptian jet fighters flying over the eastern bank of the Suez Canal, the third time the Middle-East cease-fire has been broken on the Suez front.

Three Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Salyut orbital laboratory cast the first votes from space and tended a vegetable patch growing Chinese cabbage inside their craft.

The seven survivors of nine premature infants born to an Australian housewife are clinging to life in incubators in a Sydney hospital. The mother had been taking a drug which facilitates normal childbirth but also enhances fertility.

The War

Communist forces ambushed a truck convoy and destroyed a civilian bus with a mine in attacks in the Central Highlands that killed 17 persons, most of them civilians. U. S. B-52 bombers pounded troop concentrations and bunker complexes just below the Demilitarized Zone in the heaviest raids in South Vietnam in two months.

A trash fire spread to an ammunition dump in downtown Phnom Penh, Cambodia, setting off explosions that rocked the capital for more than two hours. Several persons were slightly wounded.

The State

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Disyton — a concentrated poison — to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

A bill giving public employees, including policemen, firemen and teachers, the right to strike, and engage in collective bargaining, passed the Illinois House by a solid 98-43 vote.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Tonti, is a mystery which may remain unsolved for months, federal investigators said Friday.

Lake Briarwood Fights Apartments

Residents of the Lake Briarwood subdivision near Algonquin Road, and Dempster Street in unincorporated Mount Prospect continued their fight, this time at a village judiciary committee meeting Thursday, to prevent more apartments from being built in their development.

However, at the meeting Thursday, their objections were met with a suggestion by Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmermann that could, technically, remove the existing as well as proposed apartments from the subdivision entirely.

The proposal to which the residents object calls for Mount Prospect to annex and rezone several lots at the southeast end of the development. In all, the percel in question includes about four acres. Under the proposal the land would be rezoned primarily for apartments with a few lots being used for single-family homes.

The village's plan commission recommended in May that the village board turn down the proposal because plan commissioners feared increased traffic congestion the development in the apartments would built.

PLAN COMMISSIONERS pointed out there is only one means of access to the development, in alluding to the traffic problem. Another reason for their unfavorable recommendation was there would be no direct access to the annexed area from other parts of the village.

Following the plan commission's deliberations on the matter, it was forwarded to the judiciary committee for consideration Thursday. After almost two hours of comments and occasional arguments between the approximately 20 Lake Briarwood residents, and E. L. Trendel the property owner, the committee agreed with the plan commission and recommended the board deny the proposal.

The final decision rests with the village board. Trustee Daniel Ahern, committee chairman, said the matter would be on the board's July 6 meeting agenda.

In opposing the apartments, residents contend that increased traffic congestion, and a resulting safety hazard for children, would occur if the development was built. They also predict that current problems with outsiders using the lake illegally would worsen. Contentions that the value of their homes would drop if the apartments were built were also made by residents.

TO THIS, TRENDL pointed out the homes' value has increased over the last several years even though currently there are 27 apartment units in the southeast corner of the development. He also pointed out he had planned apartments on the parcels in question for several years "as a buffer between the development and the (Northwest) Tollway." He was stopped by a lawsuit filed by the subdivision residents.

A PROPOSAL that could end the lake

privileges now held by apartment tenants was put forth by Acting Village Mgr. Zimmermann. He pointed out that an apartment development slated for the west side of Busse and southeast of the Briarwood development on unincorporated land might be expanded to include the present apartments in the southeast corner of Briarwood as well as the lots up for annexation.

Zimmermann said that if all the developers agreed that expanded development might be brought into the village as a planned unit development. Currently the existing apartments are at the end of a cul-de-sac Briarwood Drive in the subdivision. With the construction of the expanded development, Zimmermann pointed out that access to those apartments could be achieved by means of a road from Busse Avenue. The cul-de-sac, he said, could be barricaded and the apartments would thus be, technically, no longer a part of the subdivision. As such, the present apartment tenants and those that would live in the future apartments would have no lake privileges. Under the present arrangement they are entitled to use the lake, something many of the Lake Briarwood residents expressed concern about Thursday.

Zimmermann emphasized at the meeting, however, that his proposal has not yet been agreed to by any of the developers concerned.

Set Annex Issue Hearing

A controversy between Prospect Heights residents and Wheeling Village board over the village's annexation of 40 acres is now scheduled to be heard in the Cook County Circuit Court Wednesday.

The village recently annexed the land, formerly in Prospect Heights and rezoned it for apartments. The land, owned by Arthur Lieblich, is south of the St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights.

Members of a Prospect Heights group called the "Wheeling Road Zoning Committee" asked the state to file a suit which calls for cancellation of Wheeling's annexation. The residents claim the annexation is invalid and they object to Lieblich's development plans.

Attorney Donald Kreger, who is representing the Prospect Heights group, has filed a motion asking the court to settle the suit without a trial because "it is not an issue of fact." Both parties agree that only the northwest corner of Lieblich's land touches the village. The judge must decide what constitutes contiguity.

Previously the hearing was continued because the state's attorney was out of town. Now the court may appoint a "special" state's attorney, so that the hearing can proceed Wednesday.

6 Teachers Earn Awards

Six teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 have received monetary awards for outstanding service in the supervision of extracurricular activities.

The school board recently awarded $200 to William Brose for yearbook and drama, Patricia Finke for drama, David Johnson for yearbook and Daniel Vondran for student council. Howard Holmgren received $100 for his work as a bus supervisor and Michael Jeter received the same amount for his work as an audio-visual coordinator. All six are teachers at Lincoln Junior High School.

To receive an award, teachers must be nominated for "exemplary service" by another teacher. A committee of teachers and administrators then choose the award winners. Extra merit awards range from $100 to $300.

According to the 1970-71 teacher contract, teachers are paid for extra duty with amounts ranging from $150 for supervision of elementary patrol boys to $425 for coaching basketball.

"The purpose of these awards is to reward teachers with a single payment over and above the extra duty pay," said Supt. Eric Sahlberg. "These teachers have taken an extra responsibility upon themselves."

1,000 To Start Summer School

School in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 starts again tomorrow for more than 1,000 students and 58 teachers.

The district's summer school program will run from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at five schools. They are William Busse, 101 N. Owen St.; Fairview, 300 N. Fairview Ave.; Lions Park, 300 E. Council Tr.; Westbrook, 105 S. Busse Rd., and Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St. Students from public and parochial school have registered to attend the enrichment and developmental program that ends July 18.

Courses are being offered at primary, intermediate and junior high levels. The program includes enrichment courses in reading, art, creative dramatics, creative writing, field biology, cultural arts and humanities, microbiology and group guitar. Development courses offered are in mathematics, reading, speech therapy and language skills.

Latest official enrollment figures total 1,022. Supt. Eric Sahlberg said he expects enrollment will continue to increase until classes start tomorrow. Sahlberg said that in the past five years, summer school enrollments have ranged from 350 for last year's enrollment of nearly 1,400.

Cost of the program is $5 per pupil for a textbook rental fee. Separate charges will be made for materials used in special projects or for transportation for scheduled field trips. Pupils who are not residents in Dist. 57 must pay a tuition fee of $40 in addition to the rental fee.

Ronald Sterrett is director for the program.

Dist. 59 Voters Drop Referendum By 2 To 1 Margin

By a two to one margin, voters in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Saturday turned down two proposals to increase the district's tax rate by 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The proposal which would have increased the education fund tax rate by 21 cents per $100, out of which teachers are paid and instructional programs funded, was defeated by a vote of 2,823 to 1,456.

A six cent increase for the building fund, which pays for custodial salaries and building maintenance, was defeated by 2,944 to 1,333.

Only the precinct voting at Ridge School in Elk Grove Village voted in favor of the two measures.

If passed the two proposals would have replaced the money the district stands to lose if a Circuit Court decision outlawing corporate personal property tax is upheld, district officials had said.

If the decision is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court or if it is still undecided through the summer, the district must now cut about $754,000 from the 1971-72 education and building fund budgets, according to the district figures.

The margin of defeat for the two proposals was greater than the margin when the district lost a tax rate referendum in 1969. That year the proposal to increase the education fund passed except for a two to one defeat at High Ridge Knolls School in Des Plaines.

Precinct by precinct totals are:

Pct. 1, Clearmont School, education fund defeated by 261 to 222; building fund defeated by 279 to 203.

Pct. 2, Rupley School, education fund defeated by 291 to 139; building fund defeated 312 to 118.

Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls School, education fund defeated 510 to 130; building fund defeated 524 to 117.

Pct. 4, Ridge School, education fund passed 208 to 154; building fund passed 184 to 177.

Pct. 5, Devonshire School, education fund defeated 214 to 59; building fund defeated 217 to 59.

Pct. 6, Forest View School, education fund defeated 381 to 105; building fund defeated 385 to 101.

Pct. 7, Juliette Low School, education fund defeated 304 to 117; building fund defeated 107 to 312.

Pct. 8, Salt Creek School, education fund defeated 324 to 320; building fund defeated 345 to 300.

Pct. 9, Robert Frost School, education fund defeated by 149 to 101; building fund defeated by 155 to 95.

Pct. 10, Albert Einstein School, education fund defeated 236 to 55; building fund defeated 238 to 52.

IT'S A GOAL — the sport of summer, water basketball, is already being played at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave., and will spread to all five of the Arlington Heights Park District's outdoor pools within the week. Teams for the sport, divided according to age groups and including adults, will be formed at all the park district's pools. During the summer, inner-and intra-park district contests will be held. Residents may sign up for a team at their local pool for no fee.

Village May Hire Community Relations Expert

The public relations committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board will recommend hiring a community relations expert at the board's next meeting.

The committee decided Thursday night to make the recommendation at the board's June 21 meeting.

While discussing a multi-faceted public relations effort, committee members decided the starting point for such an effort would be to hire a coordinator. The employee would be in charge of scheduling mayor's roundtable meetings, preparing press releases, publishing a quarterly newsletter for residents to be sent out with water bills, handling some complaints from citizens, providing information to persons who request it and other duties.

Committee members agreed they were working towards a coordinated package of public relations and the best way to begin was to hire a coordinator.

Also during the meeting, the committee decided it would continue discussion about the video-taping of village government in action.

A proposal for the video-taping was presented in late May to the public relations committee by two teachers from Thomas Junior High School, Arlington Heights. The teachers, Dave Robinson and Richard Walker, requested about $4,000 from the village to fund the project.

The proposal included using closed-circuit television equipment owned by Arlington Heights Dist. 25 to create a series of tapes on the various taxing bodies within the village.

After the tapes were finished, they could be used for teaching in the classroom and also be made available to community organizations.

Public relations committee chairman Dwight Walton said committee members agreed the taping idea was good. However, because village funds are "tight" and the priority of the project was not exceptionally high, the committee wanted to discuss it further, Walton said.

Softball Team Players Wanted

Girls in seventh through 11th grade may still register today for the All-Star 14-inch softball team sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

The team's first practice will be at 1:30 p.m. today at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St. The practice is open and prior registration is not required. Prospective team members should come to practice with mitt and gym shoes.

The fee for joining the team will be $3.50. Last year there was no fee.

James DeVos, Recreation Park center director, said the team includes a few members, but more players are needed. For more information, contact DeVos at 255-8850.

Auto Strikes, Kills Girl, 14

A 14-year-old Arlington Heights girl was struck by a car and killed Saturday while walking across Rte. 53 near the Northwest Highway overpass in Palatine.

Christine Sadowski, 1703 Brown Ave. was returning home from Capital Doughnut Lake when she was hit by a vehicle driven by Marvin Hawthorne, 42, of Milwaukee.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:37 p.m., according to state police. Hawthorne was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and was released on bond Saturday.

Miss Sadowski was crossing the Rte. 53 express lanes going east from the man-made tollway lake when the accident occurred. She had just graduated from Thomas Junior High School.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sadowski and six brothers and sisters. Services will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Edna's Church in Arlington Heights. Visitation after 1 p.m. today at Haire Funeral Home, 207 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

The Vietnam Disengagement Act has become a "political gimmick for Democratic presidential candidates to claim credit for withdrawal of U. S. forces, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) charged.

A new effort will be made to get jobs

for unemployed veterans of the Vietnam War era. President Nixon ordered Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson to lead an intensive effort toward this goal. Employment among young former servicemen is 10.6 per cent.

An unemployed office worker with a police record is being held in $200,000 bail in New York while Chicago authorities prepare death penalty charges against him as the first U. S. skyjacker to kill an airplane passenger. Gregory White, 23, Chicago, was wounded and captured by the FBI early Saturday after he hijacked a Trans-World Airlines 727 at O'Hare Airport, demanding to be flown to North Vietnam and provided with a machine gun, ammunition and $75,000 in cash.

The World

Israeli antiaircraft batteries fired at two Egyptian jet fighters flying over the eastern bank of the Suez Canal, the third time the Middle-East cease-fire has been broken on the Suez front.

Three Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Salyut orbital laboratory cast the first votes from space and tended a vegetable patch growing Chinese cabbage inside their craft.

The seven survivors of nine premature infants born to an Australian housewife are clinging to life in incubators in a Sydney hospital. The mother had been taking a drug which facilitates normal childbirth but also enhances fertility.

The War

Communist forces ambushed a truck convoy and destroyed a civilian bus with a mine in attacks in the Central Highlands that killed 17 persons, most of them civilians. U.S. B52 bombers pounded troop concentrations and bunker complexes just below the Demilitarized Zone in the heaviest raids in South Vietnam in two months.

A trash fire spread to an ammunition dump in downtown Phnom Penh, Cambodia, setting off explosions that rocked the capital for more than two hours. Several persons were slightly wounded.

The State

A barrel containing enough poison to kill "many people" was one of 16 stolen from a chemical plant in Chicago Heights. It contained enough Dison — a concentrated poison — to kill many if dumped into a well or a ditch which ran into a drinking water supply.

A bill giving public employees, including policemen, firemen and teachers, the right to strike, and engage in collective bargaining, passed the Illinois House by a solid 98-45 vote.

The real cause of the "City of New Orleans" train crash that killed 11 persons and injured more than 100 last week at

Tonti, is a mystery which may remain unsolved for months, federal investigators said Friday.

Two Day Camps May Be Canceled

The two summer day camps sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District may be canceled if more people don't register for the programs.

The two programs include a community day camp, designed specifically for educable and trainable mentally handicapped children, and Camp Pawnee Pal, a program offered for the first time last year.

Alicia Smith, recreation supervisor for the park district who is in charge of the programs, said "We may have to close both programs. We just can't run programs for a small number of people."

Miss Smith said only seven children were registered for the three sessions of the community day camp which has a capacity of 120. Only 34 children are registered for the three sessions of Camp Pawnee Pal which has a capacity of 150, she said.

THE COMMUNITY day camp is open to trainable and educable mentally handicapped children ages 7 through 12. The camp is held at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The camp is divided into the following two-week sessions: June 21 through July 2, July 6 through 16 and July 19 through 30. The activities include swimming, crafts, games, singing and special events. Leaders qualified in dealing with special education children plan the programs.

Registration forms for the program are available through special education classes at local schools, at Clearbrook Center for the Handicapped in Rolling Meadows and at the park district's administration offices in Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

Transportation will be provided for children who need it. The fees will be $45 for residents of the park district who need transportation and $25 for park district residents who provide their own transportation. Non-resident fees are $50 for children who need transportation and $30 for children who do not need transportation.

CAMP PAWNEE PAL is also divided into three two-week sessions, June 28 through July 9, July 12 through July 23 and July 26 through Aug. 5. The fee is $30 per session. The fee includes the cost of transportation from near children's homes to the camp in Busse Woods in Elk Grove Township south of the Northwest Tollway.

Activities will center around an Indian theme and will include hiking, cooking, firebuilding, wildlife study, nature lore, archery and crafts. The camp is open to youngsters who are 7 through 12 years old. Camping activities will begin about 9 a.m. and last until 3 p.m. at the camp site.

Residents may register for Camp Pawnee Pal by using the mail-in registration form in the park district's summer brochure mailed to residents homes in May. The brochures are available at local parks.

Residents may also register for this camp during the regular registration hours for summer park programs. These hours are from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday in the basement of Olympic Park.

MEAN MAN WITH A SHOVEL: Arlington Heights million physician-sponsored medical center at stages, with the first stage of about 30,000 square feet to be completed by the spring of 1972. Village Pres. Jack Walsh assisted Dr. Otto Bouc 2010 S. Arlington Heights Rd. Construction on the doctors' building will be completed in three

Zoning Granted In May 1968

Ground Broken For Doctors Building

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held recently for a doctors' building on 2½ acres in southern Arlington Heights which was rezoned for the development more than three years ago.

Rezoning allowing construction of a $1.5 million complex at 2010 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was granted in May, 1968. The planned development for the project was approved last October.

The medical-professional building is within a four-mile radius of Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village and Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. The location was cited as one of the reasons the development would be a good one during the more than three years of Arlington Heights Plan Commission and Village Board meetings concerning the building.

DR. OTTO BOUC, an orthopedic surgeon and spokesman for the group of physicians who are co-sponsoring the development, said the building would be constructed in three stages. It is intended to house all medical specialties and will contain complete diagnostic and radiology laboratories and physical therapy facilities.

The three stages of the building program will include construction of about 30,000 square feet to be ready for occupancy by the spring of 1972. Two later phases will bring the total size to 85,000 square feet on three levels.

The architecture, designed by Manfred Riedel of New York City, will be a strongly sculptured, geometric pinwheel to permit multi-phased construction.

Dr. Bouc said one of the most unusual features will be that all interior space will be custom-designed to suit the specifications of the individual specialty or service.

"Most medical centers that we know of are conventional structures where the physician has to adapt his patient-treatment and administrative procedures to existing circumstances."

OTHER PHYSICIANS who are participating and will have their private practices in the first phase of the building are Dr. Bernard Martin, internist; Dr. I. James Young, neurologist; Dr. Signey Kofman, oncologist; Dr. Stuart Kortebein, orthopedic surgeon; and Dr. Z. John Bilos, orthopedic surgeon. Dr. Bouc, Dr. Kortebein and Dr. Bilos are in private practice together as Orthopedic Associates, S.C.

Except for Dr. Kofman, all participating physicians currently have their practice in the Arlington Heights area and are on the staffs of Northwest Community or St. Alexius Hospital.

In addition to a full-range of medical specialties, diagnostic laboratories, outpatient service and physical therapy facilities, the building will also include a pharmacy.

Teachers Again Reject Pact Offer From School Board

Teachers in School Dist. 21 have voted a second time to reject a teacher contract offer made by the school board and administration.

According to Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill, the teachers voted 181-61 Thursday to reject the proposal.

Gill said Friday that the board-administration negotiating team will go into further negotiations with the faculty council to negotiate a new contract "as soon as they request it."

David Tomchek, regional representative for the Illinois Education Association who has been working with the Dist. 21 faculty council, was unavailable for comment Friday.

The major area of disagreement between the two parties on a new contract centers around the type of system used to determine teachers' salaries.

In the index system, raises for all teachers are based on the salary of beginning teachers in the district, so that if the salaries for beginning teachers were raised, the salaries of experienced teachers would rise proportionately.

In the increment system, the salary of a starting teacher would not affect the salary paid an experienced teacher.

GILL SAID THAT the board and administration wish to reinstate the increment system of determining teachers' salaries because the district "cannot afford to meet the financial obligations of the index system, and pay adequately the lower-echelon people on the scale."

Gill said he is confident that the salary dispute can be settled to the satisfaction of all parties, but that he couldn't predict when the dispute will be concluded.

The original contract offer made by the district was rejected last spring by the teachers. Later it was also rejected by the faculty council, the teachers' organization recognized by the district as the sole bargaining agent for the teachers.

Hersey, Wheeling Bands Begin Competition In Va.

A convoy of buses left the Northwest suburbs Friday carrying almost 500 band members from two high schools to Virginia Beach, Va. to participate in a national band competition.

The bands participating in the competition are from Hersey and Wheeling high schools. The 100-piece Hersey marching band and the 174-piece Wheeling marching band will compete against 25 other bands from throughout the country in three days of competition sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The band students have spent up to six hours a day during the past weeks rehearsing for the competition. They will be accompanied on the trip by parents, administrators, and teachers.

SUNDAY, THE Wheeling group toured the Norfolk, Va. naval base, while the Hersey band put in an extra rehearsal. Both bands will devote this morning and afternoon to practice sessions.

The band competition is divided into four categories, this evening the bands will compete in the first two categories, a full military inspection and a march.

Tuesday the bands will be judged on their concert performances and Wednesday on their half-time show presentations.

Each of the four categories count toward a total score. The band with the highest cumulative total of points at the end of the competition is awarded the Grand Prize trophy plus a cash award of $1,200. In addition, the winner is invited back to Virginia Beach the following year as the Honor Band.

Trophies are also given to second and third place winners plus a special award to the outstanding drum major and outstanding drum majorette. The trophies will be presented at a final awards ceremony on Thursday.

FRIDAY THE BANDS will leave for Illinois, returning Saturday. The Hersey Instrumental Association, comprised of the band students' parents, raised $35,000 for the trip. The Wheeling organization provided $18,000 for transportation and lodging.

New Buffalo Grove High School Will Get A Name

The high school planned for Buffalo Grove may be named tonight.

High School Dist. 214's board of education will consider an administration recommendation to name the school Buffalo Grove High School.

Board meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., in Mount Prospect.

In background information given to board members last week, administrators cite tremendous support from the residents of Buffalo Grove for the recent referendum and tradition as two reasons for the name.

Though the board has no definite policy on naming schools, in all cases where the school was the first or the only school within an incorporated area, the school was named after the community.

The eighth high school will be first and very likely the only high school in Buffalo Grove, administrators point out.

Students from other communities will attend the eighth grade graduation ceremonies at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling were held Friday at Wheeling High School.

Diplomas were awarded to the 313 graduates by Dist. 21 school board members Jeremiah G. Crise and Ronald Weiner.

Special addresses by the London valedictorian and salutatorian were featured on the program. Valedictorian of the graduating class is Valerie Koif, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Koif, 514 Hackberry Dr., Arlington Heights. The salutatorian is Janet Christoffersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Christoffersen, 663 Old McHenry Rd., Wheeling.

Songs by the London Choristers were also part of the program. The Choristers sang "Canon of Praise," "Fill The World With Love," and selections from "The Sound of Music."

The class gift was presented by Shawn Raboor.

SPECIAL AWARDS to London students who have demonstrated outstanding achievement in school during the past year were presented at a special awards assembly Thursday.

The Tri-SHIP awards to students who have shown outstanding achievements in citizenship, athletics and academics were given to Kathy Bull and Randy Rubner.

The mathematics awards went to Janet Christoffersen, Chris Larsen, Randy Rubner and Jim Elias.

The English awards were presented to Kim Stickrod, Pat Brosio, John Leonetti, Terri Orton, Randy Kastens, Cheryl Zminda, Kathy Bull and Randy Rubner.

Winners of the history awards were Karen Hoeck, Don Fletcher, Keith Berglund and Shawn Folkes.

The art awards went to Kathy Brown, Debbie Zmuda, Tim Tatge, and Chris Schumann.

Kathy Strzalka, Karen Hoeck, Joe Richard and Shawn Folkes won the music awards.

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION awards went to Terry Armstrong, Donna Hieber, Gail Thomas, Melanie Straker, Randy Rubner, Gary Meinke, Tony Blankenship and Mark Jackson.

Add Women's Tennis To Park Program

A woman's tennis class has been added to the tennis lessons for Super Summer '71, the activities offered by the Arlington Heights Park District.

The class will meet from 10 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at Frontier

Sunday School Soccer Registration Slated

Sports buffs interested in joining a Sunday summer soccer league may register for the league at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights.

James DeVos, center director at the park, is in charge of the formation of the Arlington Heights Park District league and hopes to form four teams. The league is open to people who are 16 years old or older. For more information, contact DeVos at 255-8850.

The league is open to both residents and non-residents of the park district.

Park, Kennicott Drive and Palatine Road. The class was added because of the large demand for women's tennis lessons. The fee will be $4 and lessons will be held June 21 through July 16.

Residents may register for this class and other summer programs in the basement of Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave. Registration is taken from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

School Alterations Bids Are Awarded

Bids have been awarded by the Arlington Heights elementary school Dist. 25 board of education for health and safety alterations at Miner Junior High School and Kensington elementary school.

Pacific Electric Co. was awarded a contract at last Thursday night's board meeting to begin alterations and renovations of the electrical systems at the two schools. The bid was accepted for work in the amount of $22,121.

A Major Breakthrough In Parking

A major breakthrough in financing a new downtown parking system for Des Plaines, one that is expected to spark redevelopment of the city's central business district, was announced last Friday.

Two Des Plaines banks have agreed to buy $700,000 in parking revenue bonds from the city, providing funds for 2,500 downtown parking spaces, city officials were told Friday night at a briefing held by the Des Plaines Redevelopment Assn.

Designing a financially feasible parking system and arranging to sell revenue bonds to build it have been one of the major hurdles to downtown renewal.

Edward Benjamin, municipal bond consultant, told the gathering that parking rates will have to be raised to 10 cents an hour for shoppers and 75 cents a day for commuters in order to sell the bonds.

Benjamin indicated that the two banks, Des Plaines National Bank and First National Bank of Des Plaines, have agreed to buy the $700,000 worth of revenue bonds for terms that will be less stringent than those required by the open market.

James Paroubek, president of the redevelopment association, told the gathering that "it appears we're ready to get off the ground" with downtown renewal.

His comments were echoed by Richard Forbes, a redevelopment consultant, who said initial stages of the project, including a $20 million, two-story shopping mall, are financially feasible. Forbes said several developers are looking at that project, which he indicated would yield a return of 12 per cent on investment.

Redevelopment officials called on city council members present to move ahead on the realignment of Prairie Avenue to a four-lane, divided roadway between Graceland Avenue and a new street parallel to River Road that will connect Prairie and Ellinwood Street at the east end of the downtown area.

The city will also be asked to purchase the southern portion of the Chicago and North Western Rwy. right-of-way so that construction can begin on a parking lot that will cover the south portion of the right-of-way and the north half of Ellinwood between Lee and Pearson streets.

That parking lot, which will eventually be made into a three-level structure, is one step in a phased system of parking facility construction that will be coordinated with downtown building plans, Architect Dennis Stevens said at the Friday night meeting.

Redevelopment officials, who have been working since 1965 with little actual building to show for their efforts, emphasized that renewal of downtown Des Plaines is now ready to begin.

They listed the improvements to Prairie, which include a storm sewer, the higher parking fees and the right-of-way purchase as three steps the city will have to take in the near future to clear the way for redevelopment.

Stevens said the mall construction could begin next spring. The structure will be built in the area bounded by Lee, Prairie, Center streets and the Ellinwood alley. A similar building north of Prairie between Center and Pearson would be built in later stages, as would an eight-story office tower on the same block, Stevens said.

At the same time, private office development, through local banks, would begin in the downtown area, according to Paroubek.

The mall and office building would be completed by spring, 1974. Starting in fall, 1975, the mall area on the Pearson side of the two block complex would begin, and a second office building also would begin, according to plans.

The final complex would consist of an open mall down Center from the Ellinwood parking area, a roughly "H" shaped enclosed, a two story mall, and two office buildings facing Ellinwood

Parking would first consist of a 125-car parking area on the Ellinwood right-of-way, between Pearson and Lee. Later a second tier would be added and parking would also be placed on acquired land bounded by Center, Ellinwood, Pearson and Prairie, land which would later be used for the second mall building.

This parking land would be sold to help pay the parking bonds, officials said.

Senior Citizen Housing To Be Discussed

A special meeting of the Des Plaines City Council will be held tomorrow to discuss senior citizen housing and the proposed Thacker Street site which has met with some community opposition.

Attending the 8 p.m. meeting in the city council chambers will be Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), who said in Des Plaines last week that only site selection is holding back senior citizen housing.

Architectural drawings for a 128-unit apartment building, will be examined, and alternate sites will be discussed, according to Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd) who heads the council committee studying senior citizen housing.

Opponents of the Thacker property, located across from Central School, 1526 Thacker, say it is too far from downtown Des Plaines. They also feel the site should remain as a park to provide recreational open space for the neighborhood.

Officials in favor of the site feel it is well located, that enough recreational land exists in that area, no other comparable site exists, and other sites would cost more and provide less for senior citizens.

Tentative plans for a nine-story senior citizen apartment building were unveiled last Monday by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel. The mayor said the building designed by the CCHA would fit on the Thacker site or on other sites that are being considered.

SHERWOOD AND Kenneth Kehe, both aldermen of the second ward, in which the Thacker site is located, have told the mayor they are opposed to the site.

The Des Plaines Park District has offered to negotiate purchase of the site from Des Plaines School Dist. 62, the property owner. The site has been used as a park since Thacker Junior High was leveled.

The Des Plaines League of Women Voters has also said the site is needed for recreational space. Sandra Searfoss, president of the Central School PTA, has said her group feels that the housing can be placed somewhere other than on open parkland.

Mayor Behrel has indicated that the park would be an ideal site for a building constructed under a federal subsidy program, but he said he would not fight for the site if there is strong opposition to it.

Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), former head of the city council committee on senior citizen housing told the Herald that the Thacker site is the only vacant piece of land big enough for the housing. Condemning another site and clearing existing buildings will cost more money, Ald. Michaels said.

The city would only get a fixed amount of money for the project he said and money spent on site acquisition and clearance would be money subtracted from building costs.

ADEQUATE RECREATIONAL space exists at Central School and in the forest preserves, two blocks east of the site, according to Michaels.

The site area is zoned for large buildings with open spaces between buildings, he said.

Luke all older parts of the city, park space is lacking, but a more centrally located park in the ward would be more useful and appropriate, Michaels said.

Public funds are often spent for children and parks, but Des Plaines' sizable population of senior citizens, two have paid taxes so long, shouldn't be denied "decent, beautiful" housing, he said.

Voters In Dist. 59 Reject School Referendum By 2-1

By a two to one margin, voters in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Saturday turned down two proposals to increase the district's tax rate by 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The proposal which would have increased the education fund tax rate by 21 cents per $100, out of which teachers are paid and instructional programs funded, was defeated by a vote of 2,823 to 1,454.

A six cent increase for the building fund, which pays for custodial salaries and building maintenance, was defeated by 2,944 to 1,333.

Only the precinct voting at Ridge School in Elk Grove Village voted in favor of the two measures.

If passed the two proposals would have replaced the money the district stands to lose if a Circuit Court decision outlawing corporate personal property tax is upheld, district officials had said.

If the decision is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court or if it is still undecided through the summer, the district must now cut about $754,000 from the 1971-72 education and building fund budgets, according to the district figures.

The margin of defeat for the two proposals was greater than the margin when the district lost a tax rate referendum in 1969. That year the proposal to increase the education fund passed except for a two to one defeat at High Ridge Knolls School in Des Plaines.

Precinct by precinct totals are:
Pct. 1, Clearmont School, education fund defeated by 261 to 222; building fund defeated by 279 to 203.

Pct. 2, Rupley School, education fund defeated by 291 to 139; building fund defeated 312 to 118.

Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls School, education fund defeated 510 to 130; building fund defeated by 524 to 117.

Pct. 4, Ridge School, education fund passed 208 to 154; building fund passed 184 to 177.

Pct. 5, Devonshire School, education fund defeated 214 to 59; building fund defeated 217 to 58.

Pct. 6, Forest View School, education fund defeated 381 to 105; building fund defeated 385 to 101.

Pct. 7, Juliette Low School, education fund defeated 384 to 117; building fund defeated 107 to 312.

Pct. 8, Salt Creek School, education fund defeated 324 to 320; building fund defeated 345 to 300.

Pct. 9, Robert Frost School, education fund defeated by 149 to 101; building fund defeated by 155 to 95.

Pct. 10, Albert Einstein School, education fund defeated 235 to 55; building fund defeated 235 to 52.

Jaycee Carnival Opens Tomorrow

The Des Plaines Jaycees will open their 13th annual carnival tomorrow on the northeast corner of Lee and Oakton streets.

According to Jerry Macey, carnival chairman, the event is one of the group's few fund raising activities during the year. He said the Jaycees are planning to make this year's carnival the "most interesting and enjoyable" fair yet.

... INCLUDING SISTER DECHAN-TAL, left, and Sister Alphonsina, who thought the show was just great. The circus was staged as part of the celebration of Holy Family's 10th anniversary.

Both houses of Congress will vote this week on antiwar amendments with the likely outcome a defeat of efforts to legislate an end to the Vietnam war by the end of the year. The Senate is to vote Wednesday on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to require disengagement of U. S. troops by Dec. 31. The House may vote the same day on an amendment to the military procurement authorization bill which would forbid use of funds in the bill for U. S. military operations in Indochina after 1971.

Tell Dismay Over Magistrate Report

by ROGER CAPELLINI

Lawyers throughout the Northwest suburbs Friday voiced overwhelming disagreement and dismay over a Chicago Council of Lawyers (CCL) report that 82 Cook County magistrates are unfit to be judges.

Attorneys contacted by the Herald unanimously criticized both the content and the methods used by the report, which was made public at a Chicago press conference Thursday.

The CCL report, and another report released Friday by the Chicago Bar Assn., finding 38 of the 107 magistrates unfit, was followed Friday by an order from the Illinois Supreme Court suspending indefinitely action that would elevate magistrates deemed qualified to the position of associate judge.

Under the new state constitution, magistrates are scheduled to be made associate judges July 1, pending screening and decisions on their qualifications by a committee of circuit court judges. The committee had been set to meet today.

The CCL, which claims a membership of 1,200 attorneys, said it rates only two of the 107 magistrates "fully qualified" for promotion to associate judgeships. Judson Miner, CCL president, said the group conducted its two month investigation because it believed all the magistrates would receive promotions.

The council report said "only a strong demonstration of concern by the public and the bar has a chance of ameliorating the disaster scheduled to take place July 1."

Of the 13 magistrates who sit in Northwest suburban district courts, only two escaped the harsh criticism of the council. Martin Luker of Dist. 3 and Milton Solomon of Dist. 2 were spared when the group made no recommendations on them.

The remaining magistrates from the two districts were named by the CCL as being "clearly unfit for any judicial office." They are: Simon S. Porter, John J. Kelly Jr., Marvin Peters, George Zimmerman, Edwin T. Breen and Francis Glowacki of Dist. 3; and Russell R. DeBow, Richard H. Jorzak, John J. Limperis, Paul A. O'Malley and Anthony J. Scitillo of Dist. 2.

They were among 82 magistrates described by the council in terms such as "lacking legal competence, character, judicial temperament and respect for rule of law, insufficiently intelligent, ignorant, bigoted, intemperate, stupid, inept, vicious, lazy, arrogant, crude, and political."

Limperis, O'Malley and Jorzak were among 10 singled out by the council as among the worst of the magistrates.

In its report charging 38 of the 107 magistrates are unfit to be judges, the Chicago Bar Assn. found five local magistrates unfit. They are: Glowacki, Jorzak, Porter, Solomon and Zimmerman. Lawyers who practice in the two districts, centered their expressed uniform disagreement with the CCL's report, saying it was overcritical, unfair and did a disservice to the legal profession.

Thomas J. O'Brien, president of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association, called the report, "grossly overcritical."

O'Brien said there are some of the magistrates who "obviously should not be reappointed because of legal incompetence," but added the number mentioned by the council was "grossly exaggerated."

Donald Norman, one of the founders of the area bar association, agreed. Norman, who said he has observed all the magistrates in the two districts "many times," said, "I haven't always agreed with them, but to say any of them lack legal competence is insane."

Norman said the bar association screening committee found all the magistrates in the two districts to be generally competent.

Miner said the report was based not only on the opinions of the council membership. The group also sought out responses from attorneys who practiced in the specific districts with the magistrates, he said.

None of the lawyers contacted Friday said they had any contact with the group, nor did they hear of anyone who did. "Shotgun tactics like that are infantile," said one attorney who said he was "deeply distressed by the report."

The consensus of the lawyers was that some of the methods used to arrive at the decisions were invalid.

Miner said that in many cases responses were uniformly critical of the magistrates. He admitted, however, that in other cases, the council disregarded a majority of favorable, but general, expressions and formed their unfavorable opinion on fewer, yet more specific criticisms.

Judge Harold W. Sullivan and Judge Anton Smigiel, presiding judges of Dist. 2 and Dist. 3 respectively, disagreed with the report on their subordinates, calling it "unfair" and "degrading."

Judge Sullivan said, "They (the council) complain about judicial temperament and then they reach along conclusions which are most injudicious." Sullivan said he does not think the report is worthy of some of the attorneys he is acquainted with who are members of the council. "This report leaves no possibility that they could be mistaken. It's arrogance beyond comprehension."

Although most of the magistrates declined to comment on the report, O'Malley called it "ridiculous." The magistrate, who said he is not very upset over the matter, explained, "I don't know of this council. I don't know what they do or who they are."

Health Warning Halts Spraying

Plans to spray diseased maple trees were canceled Friday when the city's public works department received warning that the tree spray is dangerous to human beings.

The department had planned to spray sugar maple trees in several parts of the city after June 21 with ethion oil to prevent cotton maple disease, which causes ball-shaped growths on tree trunks and limbs.

James Schuster, of the county extension service of the University of Illinois — which advises Des Plaines on plant sprays — Friday called Joseph Schwab, commissioner of public works, and warned him that the spray should not be used in large amounts. Schuster said the spray could produce nausea and illness.

The city had received assurance over a two-month period that ethion oil is harmless, a public works spokesman said. Schuster had received additional information about the spray from Prof. John Appleby of the Illinois Natural History Service at the University of Illinois, Schwab said.

The city will return 60 gallons of ethion spray it has purchased, according to a city spokesman.

The city had planned to spray parkway trees on the south and west sides of the city, on Wilkins Drive and the Craig Manor subdivision north of Central Road, Schwab said.

Cotton maple disease does not kill trees but disfigures them severely, Schwab said. Recent findings indicate that natural enemies of the disease will eliminate it from the area in several years, Schwab said.

Drug Abuse Meet For Parents

Beginning June 16th, Incentives at 2424 Dempster Ave., Des Plaines will hold a 10 week seminar for parents of drug abusers. The format consists of a combination of education and discussion for parents who are concerned and affected by the drug problem.

Teachers Vote Down Contract Offer Again

Teachers in School Dist. 21 have voted a second time to reject a teacher contract offer made by the school board and administration.

According to Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill, the teachers voted 181-61 Thursday to reject the proposal.

Gill said Friday that the board-administration negotiating team will go into further negotiations with the faculty council to negotiate a new contract "as soon as they request it."

David Tomchek, regional representative for the Illinois Education Association who has been working with the Dist. 21 faculty council, was unavailable for comment Friday.

The major area of disagreement between the two parties on a new contract centers around the type of system used to determine teachers' salaries.

THE BOARD AND administration has favored the use of an increment system, while the council has favored an index system, as has been used in the previous year.

In the index system, raises for all teachers are based on the salary of beginning teachers in the district, so that if the salaries for beginning teachers were raised, the salaries of experienced teachers would rise proportionately.

In the increment system, the salary of a starting teacher would not affect the salary paid an experienced teacher.

GILL SAID THAT the board and administration wish to reinstate the increment system of determining teachers' salaries because the district "cannot afford to meet the financial obligations of the index system, and pay adequately the lower-echelon people on the scale."

Gill said he is confident that the salary dispute can be settled to the satisfaction of all parties, but that he couldn't predict when the dispute will be concluded.

Family Carnival Benefit In Wheeling Wednesday

The Women's Auxiliary of United Charities is bringing Steele Amusements' big ride carnival to The Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling this Wednesday.

The Family Ramble Carnival Benefit is a dual promotion which includes the staging and sponsoring of a carnival and the promotion and sale of a book of coupons designed for family fun-sharing.

All funds raised by the benefit will go directly to United Charities' three service branches: The Legal Aid Bureau, Camp Algonquin and The Family Service Bureau.

The family outing will be held from 3 to 11 p.m. Besides the carnival rides, there will be entertainment for all ages.

THE HOURS BETWEEN 3 and 5 p.m. have been planned to appeal to the very young. Clowns will be running about and magic shows presented.

Later in the afternoon groups of benefit-goers can spread their blankets and picnic. A large colorful tent will serve as an entertainment center during the picnic hour.

Three hours of music, fashions and special entertainment will take place on a flat top carnival truck transformed into a stage.

As the carnival rides and attractions take hold on the midway, a Dixieland band will play in the entertainment tent.

Tickets may be bought singly or by purchasing the auxiliary's 1971 edition of the Family Ramble Coupon Book.

The book contains coupons for family outings and entertainment at reduced prices during 1971.

Ravinia Discount Coupons On Sale

Ravinia's 20 per cent discount coupons for all 1971 Festival events are on sale now through July 6. The traditional money-saving coupons are redeemable for general admission and reserved seats.

A coupon book contains 50 coupons, each worth 50 cents. In addition to their use at Ravinia Park for admission and reserved seats in the Pavilion and Murray Theatre, the coupons are also usable for mail orders to Ravinia's downtown Chicago office.

The central box office at Ravinia Park's west gate will open Monday and stay open throughout the season, which begins June 24 and closes Sept. 5. Information concerning tickets is available through the Chicago office, ST-2-9696 or by dialing T-I-C-K-E-T-S.

A new accommodation for students is the "Student Rush," for high school and college students. Reserved seats available 30 minutes before curtain may be purchased on a two-for-one basis upon presentation of student identification cards at the box office on concert night. If the Pavilion is sold out, students may enjoy the concert from the lawn for the half-price admission charge. This offer is exclusive of the Wednesday-Friday concert nights.

Legislative Calendar

SB459 providing a minimum wage for Illinois workers not covered by the federal minimum wage law and companion bill SB461 setting up a Wage and Hour Division and prohibiting wage discrimination for reason of sex were defeated in the Senate last week.

Final vote on SB650 amending the day care grants in aid program was postponed.

The House continued to extend its deadline for passing bills originating in that body. One day care bill, HB2568, was approved and sent to the Senate where it was assigned to the Welfare Committee. Two companion day care bills were awaiting third reading.

Also awaiting third reading were HB2208, creating an office of women's activities; HB2209, amending Workmen's Compensation Act permit pregnant women, otherwise able to work, to collect compensation three months before and one month after giving birth; and HB2210, permitting married women their choice of surname for legal purposes. All three were sponsored by Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We have had a cat for some time and have never been annoyed with fleas, like many of our friends have. This year, however, we have been inundated with fleas and I seem to be the only one they annoy. What can be done to get rid of this really annoying business? —Hazel Schmidt.

Why fleas will attack only one member of a family is not known, but it does happen occasionally. You can spray the areas where they are found with an insecticide sold at most chemical — or garden supply — firms and put a flea collar around the neck of your cat (and dog, too). Don't bother with a bargain flea collar; get a well-recommended one that will protect the animal for a specific time. These also protect pets from ticks for a prescribed period.

Dear Dorothy: Whenever I fry hamburgers or pan broil meat, I try to avoid grease collecting all over the stove so I cover other parts as well as possible with sheets of foil. When the cooking is done, I slip the foil sheets into the dishwasher (just like you would a plate) and they're ready for use again. It may be a pack rat trick but it works. —Celia H.

Dear Dorothy: I, too, used boiled linseed oil to clean fireplace brick. This was in 1958. Ever since, whenever we use the fireplace and the bricks get a little warm, the odor is awful. Have scrubbed them with everything, but the odor still persists. —Mrs. J. D.

Dear Dorothy: If you will put one or two marbles (the kind children play with) in the whistling tea kettle, there will be no more lime formation —Mary Patricia Jensen.

Dear Dorothy: No one has complained yet about the coffee we make in our electric percolator but I think I detect a tiny metallic taste. Is there something that can be done? —Mrs. Robert W.

Sounds as if your percolator needs sweetening. Fill it almost to the top with cold water and add a tablespoonful cream of tartar. Put in the basket, set on "strong" and let it perk through one cycle. Then wash with plain water, rinse thoroughly and dry each part separately. Any coffee stains can be removed by a good coffee stain remover, just being sure to follow the instructions carefully. If you follow this sweetening practice occasionally and always make sure that the pot and all its components are clean and dry, you should have good coffee. At today's prices, it would be a shame if you didn't.

Dear Dorothy: I notice that readers have had all kinds of trouble getting stickers off their bumpers. I did, too, until I tried trichloroethane one day. It worked like magic. —Julia K.

Dear Dorothy: Many of my friends beat their brains out looking for recipes in which to use egg yolks when they've used the whites for a particular dish. I love to have them left over to use as garnish or in salads or sandwich fillings. I either cook them in a foil dish in my counter oven or hard boil them in the poacher. —Evelyn Brown.

Willow Brook Center Begins Art Classes

A 150-year-old farm near Long Grove is the setting for a creative arts enterprise, Willow Brook Art Center, patterned after the Montsalvat Art Colony in Melbourne, Australia.

Nearly a dozen different courses in arts and crafts will begin Monday, June 21, in the white barns trimmed in blue that have been renovated to provide studio space for courses in miniature rooms, macrame, painting, papier mache, metal flowers, dried flowers, decoupage, ceramics and stichery.

A class in Cordon Bleu cooking is scheduled, and a body dynamics and figure control class will meet outdoors beside a pool in fair weather.

Bonnie and Jon Henricks created the art center four years ago. Henricks is vice president of DoAll Co. in Des Plaines. Mother of three, Bonnie teaches papier mache.

An open house for prospective students will be held this Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m., at which time the instructors will exhibit samples of their work.

Bonnie Henricks

Classes for children will also be offered in such crafts as clay, wood, sand casting and collage. A baby sitting service will be provided for students with young children.

Willow Brook Art Center is located north of Long Grove on Highway 22, one half mile west of Route 83.

Singer Contest For Girl Sewers

For girls enrolled in Singer sewing classes this summer there's an extra bonus besides learning to sew. Garments made in class at Singer Sewing Centers can be entered in the company's World Stylemaker Contest to compete for prizes totaling more than $120,000.

Top prize will be $1,800 in cash or a one-week trip to London, Paris or Rome.

Prizes will be given at local and regional levels in three age groups: Junior Miss (10 through 12); Sub Deb (13 through 15); and Deb (16 through 18). In addition, finalists and their mothers or family-approved chaperones will be flown to San Francisco for six days as guests of the Singer Company to model their entries in the national finals.

The contest continues through Aug. 14. Since the garments are to be created in the Singer Sewing Centers under the assistance of the local teacher, it is not necessary for girls to own their own machine. Further information is available at the Singer Sewing Centers at Randhurst and Golf Mill.

Late Registration Next Saturday For Mt. Prospect Midget Football

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Association will hold a late registration on Saturday, June 19 at the Mount Prospect Country Club (Community Center), 600 See-Gwun, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Boys who played in 1970 that sign up at this late date are not guaranteed that they will be assigned to their former team or system. However, all boys will be assigned to teams in so far as possible that represent their area by the league commissioner.

All boys living in the village of Mount Prospect or in the Mount Prospect Park District (Park District extends to Touhy Avenue between Mount Prospect Road and Busse Road) are eligible providing they are grade school students, between the ages of 8 and 14.

December 1st is the controlling date for age (a boy who will be 8 on or before Dec. 1, 1971 is classified as 8 year old). Registration fee is $14.00 for the first boy in the family plus $5.00 for each additional brother. All boys who did not play in 1970 must be accompanied by their parent(s) on registration day and must bring their birth or baptismal certificate as proof of age.

All boys must be weighed on the official MPMFA scale before the practice season starts. The official weigh-ins will
